Description of the Collection

The Collection contains materials related to the activities of two Girl Scout troops in Portland, ME from 1956-58. The materials range from general information about standards for girl scouting to specific information about the participants in and activities of Troops 109 and 177. Many of the same participants were part of both troops, indicating that although the number changed between 1956-57 and 1957-58, there was continuity between the years. The agendas and minutes of the troops provide a picture of the range of activities in which the girl scouts were involved throughout a year.
