BEE HIVE HOUSE AND EAGLE GATE, SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH

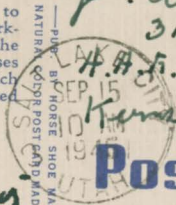

9/14/45

Eagle Gate—established at the entrance to Brigham Young's estate—is preserved as a marker of that day in which he ruled supreme over the destiny of Utah. The Lion and Beehive houses are all that remain of those structures which once crowded that ten-acre plot where centered the community activities of early days.

POST CARD

Dear Leona,
How are you? and how is Bill? I don't hear from you and him often. As for me I am all right and I feel fine, and your Father, how is he? and Del? It is too bad, I cannot say much here.
I am shipping out. So Goodbye. Albert. M.
