GRADES vs. TUITION

MASCOT

Without ceremony and to the complete surprise of many of us, we were asked at last Thursday's Chapel to pick a mascot from three animals: a mountain goat (symbolic of high altitudes), Yak (symbolic of strength etc.) and Owl (symbolic of wisdom), or choose some other animal for the purpose.

As the votes were cast, I believe there were not a few of us who marked the ballot without much thought - just to be in the swim, so to speak, but nevertheless, we find ourselves with a mountain goat for a mascot.

We will agree that the move to choose a mascot is an excellent idea, but would not it have been better to let us know a little in advance so we could be prepared, then more ideas could have been submitted?

Can you picture cheering: Yea mountain! Yea goat! Yea mountain goat?, or some other cheer with this animal. Our regular emblem isn't anything to be ashamed of is it??

In the February issue (13th) of "CHIPS and CHATTER", a question in the "BROWSE" column went something like this. --- "Is it fair to hold back first semester's ranks for the second semester's bills? Someone has tried to answer this question by submitting the following statement: "The semester ended January 19, and the new semester began January 22. All student bills are required to be paid by the latter date. Ranks come out February 6. Consequently grades were coming out two weeks after all bills are required to be paid.

Formerly on this campus, no student was issued a grade unless his dorm and tuition bills were paid.

It is common practice elsewhere, in business, etc., that only by having one's bills paid can he get certain concessions. (You must pay your poll tax before an auto license will be granted - even though you have the money, though poll tax has nothing directly to do with tags for cars.

Most frequently in other colleges you cannot get into class unless all bills are paid for the coming semester. (Farmington State Teachers College for instance).

KAPPA MINSTREL

KAPPA MINSTREL
This was formerly the rule at D.A.E.

Are we to assume from this statement that those having paid all their bills for the first semester are not entitled to receive their grades for that semester until the second semester's bills have been paid? Perhaps we should have more information on this subject of grades and tuition even though it is a little late. We could then be prepared for future years.

Activities

There is a great deal of activity on campus these days, with three fraternities carving on their initiations. The fraternities are Kappa Delta Rho, Omega Nu Epsilon, and Alpha Lambda Beta.

Last week was a very busy week for all pledges and there are only more days ahead. Kappa Delta Rho has planned for the pledges to paint twenty chairs for the student lounge as a donation to the school. This work was started last Thursday and all the pledges were very anxious to do this sort of thing at the request of the initiation committee.

On Tuesday, March 3, the pledges will go through their first and second degree work, and on Wednesday, March 4, they will give their third degree, which will conclude the initiation for this year.

Commuters

The Commuters Club wishes to thank the faculty and all the students who responded so generously with donations for the Homecoming Game Saturday, February 10, 1961. All the donations were welcomed and deeply appreciated.

The money received from this sale will greatly help the commuters club with its new project, namely, to improve the girls' residence in Cornell.

Particular thanks to Commuters Club members who helped with the selling, and to those who see against who willingly gave their truck and time to pick up the donations.

Thank you again,

Maria Retzke

Corina Broste

Last Monday night the girls intramural basketball tournament came to a smashing climax as the victorious team of Mary Bacheiner's overpowered Monroe Smith's team and one of the more exciting games of the tourney finals. Although not all can be on the winning team, good sportsmanship was displayed throughout the tourney. Basketball once again has proved itself to be one of the outstanding activities. Congratulations to all who participated and helped make this a very successful season. We hope to see you all back again next year. Wasting no time, our girls have once again invaded the gym and unambiguously sounds of "net ball" has over the campus as volleyball progresses. Tuesday night the girls held their first meeting with counselor "Buzz" Belisle, and plans were made for the forthcoming season.

********

Congratulations also should be extended to Pat Norton for coming out on top in the girl's ping pong tourney, also to Lil La Foyntaine who is holding the title of 1950 & '51 champion of the dormitory.

BROWSEIN'

Do we have a course in driver education here on the hill? Perhaps we could find out from one of our Jr. girls who we hear is learning to drive.

HOW TO KILL AN ORGANIZATION

1. Don't attend meetings.
2. If you do, be sure to come late and then get mad when the other members have already started.
3. If the weather isn't just to your liking, don't even think of coming.
4. If you do attend meetings, find fault with the officers and the other members. And if things are not run your way; be sure to get sore.
5. Never accept an office. It is easier to criticize than to do things.
6. Get sore if you are not appointed on committees - but if you are, don't go to committee meetings.
7. If asked by the chairman to voice your opinion, tell him you have nothing to say - then, after the meeting, tell all the others how things should be run.
8. Don't bother about getting new members - let the secretary do that.
9. Do nothing but what is absolutely necessary - but when the other members unselfishly and willingly roll up their sleeves and go to work for the sake of the organization - for you - go and how that the association is being run by a clique.

NATURE NEWS AND NOTES

Well, it looks like the spring rains are here already, maybe a month early, but somehow welcome just the same.

These clear March skies make for good star gazing. There is nothing about which one can learn sooner than astronomy. I know I've learned a lot in the last few weeks. And why not an astronomy club? With the faculty already pressed to the limit, it would have to be strictly a student affair, but "three's a crowd," you know, and you can certainly count me in. There'll never be a better time to start.

You freshmen should be dusting off your field glasses and rounding up some bird guides - or, better still, some sophomores. The birds are coming back a few at a time, and you should be able to keep up with them for a while. If you see a large, red, black, and white woodpecker, see Mr. Wood at once. She's already mad at me for letting one get by her. Bird watching is contagious, so be careful. (Mr. Arthur Martin will know what I mean - I'm sorry, but I thought I heard a robin.)

The rock hounds are already planning the mad spring rush to Moose Mountain. Can you imagine anyone traveling all the way to Greenwood for a sack of stones? Somebody wish us luck!

I noticed the other day that people already have their sap buckets out. That reminds me that I have to be running, too.
Old Luke was the smokin'est man in the mountains. All he ever did was smoke and hunt. He chewed a little corn to make corn cob pipes, and a big hunk of the strongest tobacco in the country. Nobody else could smoke it. But Luke would sit around all day and blow smoke rings. Strongest, most durable smoke rings I ever seen.

Any neighbors' kids used to gather an armful of them and play quoits all day long.

But the smoking finally ruined Luke's es--es--he couldn't see beyond the end of his pipe. That almost broke his heart, cause he had to give up hunting, but he wouldn't give up smoking.

One day he said to me, "I'd be willing if you'd lead me up into the mountains. I aim to bag a bear."

I seen he wasn't carrying no trap, but I felt sorry for him so I led him up to a clearing that was his favorite spot for bear. "Now," he says, "aim me at the hardwood grove."

I done so. He stiffs his corn cob pipe with tobacco and lights up. Then he sends a big cloud of smoke right across the clearing into the grove. In a minute we hear an awful murmur and wailing and coughing, and then out steppers nine bears, each one bigger than the next. They just stood there, plumb aazed.

"Aim me at the biggest one," says Luke.

I done so. Luke takes another drag at his pipe and then starts blowing smoke rings. And burn me if he didn't fetch them together so they made a chain! That chain reached right out and wrapped itself around the biggest bear.

"Come on," says Luke, "pull!" and we drug the bear down the mountain.

It was dead when we got to the cabin--plumb strangled. But sir, Old Luke cut the biggest...
