City of Auburn Maine

A city of Homes—not Tenements. One of the most delightful towns in the State in which to reside.

No slums—No dives—Clean politically—A model of civic neatness. Beautifully shaded streets, hills, lakes, rivers, make a picturesque and ideal spot in which to dwell.

Schools are unexcelled by any in the State.

Churches of all denominations.

Purest of drinking water.

Centrally located for business in either manufacturing or trade.

Factories all prosperous and busy, paying high wages for skilled workmen.

Only city in the state with a city manager.

A progressive Chamber of Commerce.

Tax rate and valuation normal.

PREFACE

For the tenth time we place the Directory of Androscoggin County before the public, and we sincerely hope that the results of months of labor and careful attention to every detail will be appreciated by our patrons. It is our aim to make this book as near to perfection as possible for a work of this kind. We have tried to give the different items of information in such a way as to be easily found and understood by the user. To aid, to some extent, in looking up names, we have printed on page 48g names pronounced the same but spelled in different ways.

You will find these both ways in the book so that if not found in one place they may be in the other. We have also taken considerable pains in the case of removals, to give, so far as practical, the present location of parties who have made a change in their residences, both in the county and outside of it, since going to press.

In the present issue we feel that we are giving the public a Directory of Androscoggin County nearer perfect and more up-to-date than any of our previous issues.

While the book may contain errors, and no doubt it does, we would ask indulgence for the same, calling attention to the nature of the work, the infinitesimal amount of detail, and the oftentimes unsatisfactory sources of information connected therewith.

We would thank anyone calling our attention to any errors or omissions so that we may eliminate the same in our next issue.

Each succeeding issue will contain any new features that we think the public will appreciate and we shall always strive to increase the value of the book to the user.

We wish to extend our thanks to the different business houses who have assisted us by their advertising patronage in issuing this work, without whose aid the book could not be published, and to the extent of whose assistance depends the correctness of the work. We assure them that the encouragement is appreciated, and whatever amount we receive in the future will revert to them in added labor put into the book.

We bespeak the patronage of the general public to these several business houses, believing them to be the most reliable representatives of the different industries in which they are engaged.

Respectfully,

MERRILL & WEBBER CO.
