The lot was a large one, but the three cars were all crowded together at one corner of it. "NO ROOM!" they cried out when they saw Alice coming.

"There's plenty of room," said Alice indignantly, and parked down in a large space at one end of the Volkswagen row.

"All move one place on," said the attendant. "But where?" asked Alice, thinking this was very curious.

"I haven't the slightest idea," he said confidently.

"Nor I," said the other, thoughtfully.

"I think you might do something better with your time," "How very curious!" she thought, and set to work nibbling at a hallucinogenic mushroom (she had kept a piece in her pocket).

"Curiouser and curiouser." "

To Be Continued:
(Apologies To Lewis Carroll)

LSD AT UTP

At a benefit, baked bean supper for the Buxton Grange, UTP's dean, Davis R. Kink, stated that the shocking increase of LSD (Lax Student Disposition) on campus is the greatest problem facing UTP.
EDITORIAL:

A recent article in the Portland Evening Express described the purpose of the DUMPus to be that of offsetting the attempts of the UMPus "to instill adult values in the student body." The DUMPus is not a competitive paper. The purpose is not to contravert the good intentions of the UMPus. Our plan is not to undermine any genuine efforts displayed by UMPus. We do, however, seek to serve as a supplement by presenting a broader and perhaps more accurate account of campus activities. Pursuit of such a goal cannot help but to serve the students in an advantageous manner.

The DUMPus has a many faceted purpose. Consider, if you will, the title. It is in reference to the dull state of mind of the general enrollment. Webster's Third develops also the definition of dumping to be that of "low in spirits." The independent DUMPus proposes to elevate those spirits and instill some semblance of intellectual pride among the student membership.

This paper does not speak against but rather for the students. The articles are the result of close consideration of student sentiment. There are numerous proposals suggested by concerned individuals in regard to scholastic and social improvements for UMP. Such suggestions can be heard daily in student conversations, yes, even in the cafeteria. We shall cater to these wants, if they warrant genuine consideration. Topics which do not directly relate to student impressions or desires will be deleted from these pages. Personal idiosyncracies of the faculty and administration are out of place among criticisms of student affairs. Laudable characteristics of instructors will be applauded, as should any components beneficial to student welfare.

A critical publication? Yes, & the DUMPus is just such a publication. But, consider also, that its founders are laughing with UMP, because they too are UMP.

We hope that our suggestions, piquant though they may be, will provoke chuckles and perhaps, meditation.

In conclusion, I will mention that this article is presently being composed in our campus library. If it seems incoherent, I apologize, I have found it difficult to concentrate with our present library patrons blustering their knock-knock jokes in the adjacent cubicle.

U.P—Gorham

The roar of student approval following the announcement of a proposal to combine facilities of University of Maine, Portland, and Gorham State College has not gone unheard. The idea of transforming a commuter college from the center of a growing city to the center of a growing forest has sparked action on campuses across the nation. Columbia University's directors and trustees have decided to move the entire student body, by cattle car, to the newly acquired buildings at Camp Drum, N.Y. Recent demonstrations at University of California Berkeley campus have shown a growing dissent toward the governor's decisions not to move the undergraduate divisions to the Sierra Nevada mountains. Closer to home, students at Jack Junior High School have recently petitioned their principal to carry on a shared-time program with the Indian school in Old Town. We thank the Advisory Commission on Higher Education for this outstanding proposal for the advancement of modern education.
In the spotlight for the time being is Juan Bueno, exchange student from Ecuador, here on a $35, 406 athletic scholarship. He is staying at the home of Prof. P.H. Dec. As well as being captain of the varsity indoor hide-and-seek team, a member of the Bridge Club, and president of the Thomas Heyward for Messiah Committee, Juan boasts a respectable .8 average.

Mr. Bueno was readily accepted by his fellow students because of his genuine lack of interest in anything and anyone. When asked by DUMPHS what he planned to do after graduation, Juan replied, "I think I will go on to college!"

DUMPHS UNDERACHIEVEMENT AWARDS
(Due to the increase in the number of students and faculty eligible for these awards, we are forced to continue to award them)

THE "STUFF" AWARD
To the DUMPHS, for "intestinal fortitude" above and beyond the butt.

THE ANNUAL BUDWEISER SCHOOL

To those students who spent more than $.00 for beer during the Winter Carnival, but could not afford to attend the Chad Mitchell performance.

LITANY
By Clyde B. Dales

We had foreseen it in the beginning. We had resigned ourselves to its possibility and some were so fatalistic as to have asserted its probability. Anticipation prevented ourumbing. We have survived.

In the midst of this mild intellectual revolution, amid our frenzied abandon, we have weakly striven to emerge clear-eyed, unaffected by the often blinding, numbing haze of enthusiasm; we must not fail to note novel journalistic trends.

It is our responsibility to allot adequate space for the mention of literary advances not our own.

Based on the idea that straight forward, precise, lucid writing comes off too blandly, this part...
But the mean, menial administration now has its first serious oppotion in history. Student unresting a couple of dollars in your pocket can help you to think positively about most anything.

During the registration period many students found themselves faced with formidable extra payments. Dr. Dissell did not hesitate to provide these people with whatever amounts they requested.
The gracefulness of our new D.S.A. is also exemplified by her willingness to counsel students on any financial problems.

Once again there is not an available word to connote appreciation, so THANKS must do.

U.M.P. is growing and any of the successes or failures is attributable to the human element. The triumphs are all the more enjoyable and the disappointments are made bearable if we are met with kindness and complaisance. In these respects Dr. Dissell is conspicuously successful.

SUSURRUS DEPT.

"I greatly appreciate your publication's endorsement of my presidential candidacy."

Adam Clayton Powell
(Keep the apple, Adam. ed.)

"It is a publication such as this which forges our nation ahead."

George Lincoln Rockwell

"...shows definite symptoms of an excess of intestinal fortitude"

Dr. Spock

(Yeah, you see I've got this pain up here—no, a bit lower—right there. You've got it, there in my neck. ed.)

THE HARRY SHEFTER AWARD

To those students who are as aware as we that the word literary is not spelled literary as page three would have us believe.

NOTA BENE: Address: correspondence.

on page: DUMPUS Apt. #7

c/o 421 Marlborough St
Boston, Mass.