Walter Prior, vice president/marketing, presented a plaque to the bank's Brunswick office for outstanding sales performance in 1990, the fourth consecutive year that office has received such recognition. Insurance Insights

by Marcel Chasse & Dick Albert

PREPARING FOR A LOSS

Anyone who purchases homeowner or business property insurance should go through the exercise of assuming that he will have a total loss. By documenting everything he owns (including its value), a homeowner or business person puts himself in a better position to file a claim should the need arise. Next, policyholders should pay particular attention to the "exclusions" section of their policies. This section lists what the insurance company covers in the case of a loss. Lastly, anyone who is faced with the prospect of filling out a claim form should consider enlisting the aid of an insurance professional in doing so. Failure to complete the claim for fully could compromise the policyholder's ability to collect the full amount to which he is entitled.

Most people shop around for insurance, when what they really should be doing is shopping for an insurance broker. One they can have confidence in, one who they can respect and believe in. For it is the broker, if competent, who will save his client the time and aggravation of shopping for personal or commercial insurance. Here at PARENT INSURANCE AGENCY, we believe we can help you in this particular and specialized area. Our office is located at 87 Essex Street, 784-5181. Open: Mon.-Fri. 8:30-5, or by appt. "Complete Insurance Service."

Adequate cash flow must be maintained

When the economy slows down, your business's profitability (and survival) depends more than ever on an adequate cash flow. Here are some tips for increasing your business's cash flow by improving your accounts receivable collection system.

✓ New customers. Check financial soundness and credit history thoroughly before extending large amounts of credit to a new customer. Don't rely on credit reports alone; make a few quick calls to other businesses that trade with the prospective customer.

✓ Current customers. Once you have delivered your goods or services, you must make it as easy as possible for the customer to pay you quickly. Send the invoices shortly after the sale (perhaps bi-weekly instead of monthly). Use informative invoices so the customer can quickly determine whether the order was authorized and received.

Bertrand G. Labonte

Planning your finances

Use your sales staff to assist in the collection process. By tying commissions to sales collected instead of sales made, you give incentive to sell to paying customers. A more direct method is to have your sales staff check with the customers shortly after invoicing to ensure that the customer has received the order and that all is well with the payment schedule.

✓ Delinquent customers. If a payment is overdue, be flexible in your collection approach. If necessary, break a $500 invoice into five monthly payments of $100 plus a reasonable interest fee. Small payments are better than no payments.

Finally, don't forget to be cordial in your dealings. Everybody has occasional cash-flow difficulties, and nothing will turn away a good customer faster than sending in your collection agent or lawyer the minute the payment becomes overdue.

Bertrand G. Labonte is a partner in the firm of Ouellette & Associates, certified public accountants, Lewiston.

Work Injury Back Strain ...

Back strain is a serious work injury problem and accordingly we're doing something about it. We have instituted a step-by-step program to eliminate the pain from strain and to return the injured employee to work as quickly as possible. If you experience job injury symptoms such as pain and spasm, numbness and tingling, you need effective help. Of course, covered work injury care is paid for by compensation insurance so call for immediate help if you sustain a work injury or experience serious backache discomfort.

Have You Heard?

Gil Poliquin

Hearing Instrument Specialist

BETTER RECEPTION AT HOME

It is crucial that a young child be able to hear properly during the first four years of life when the use of language is acquired and developed. Certainly, hearing-impaired children in this age group are greatly helped by conventional hearing aids. However, these instruments do have their limitations. A young child may be subjected to background noise, reverberation, and limitations posed by the distance between herself and a conversational partner. With these adverse effects in mind, a recent study proposed the use of an FM amplification system in the home. Such a system features a microphone-transmitter worn by a parent, and an FM receiver worn by the child. Because FM amplification offers excellent reception of a parent's voice, the child is better able to imitate words and use language and note speechreading cues.

At GIL POLIQUIN HEARING AID & OPTICAL CENTER, 50 Lisbon Street, Lewiston, we adjust to your individualized needs and circumstances. Our goal is for you to achieve maximum benefit and comfort from the hearing instruments we offer. We "tune in" to your particular hearing requirements as well as listen closely and respond to your wishes. From the spoken word to the sounds of everyday living, GIL POLIQUIN HEARING AID & OPTICAL CENTER invites you to come in and "hear the difference". Tel. 784-0333 or 1-800-649-0334. Open Mon.-Fri. 9-4:30. By appointment.

HINT: Because FM amplification systems are bulky, their use is often limited to homes and schools.

There are more than 3,000 kinds, sizes, and cuts of files. Of these you will need about a half dozen for maintenance chores and projects. In both metalworking and woodworking, a file can accomplish things you can't do with other tools, so it pays to have a few of the most versatile ones in your workshop. Rust ruins files, so store them in a dry place. Don't throw them loosely in a drawer. In contact with one another, they become dull. If a file card won't clean the teeth, try picking them clean with a sharp point. Don't oil files. It may prevent rusting, but it will also collect clogging dirt.

A cabinetmaker eliminates the need for much sanding by using a scraper. It takes off fine shavings than a plane. It will produce a smooth cut even against the grain and is a good tool for cleaning up along glue lines. A cabinet scraper has a blade sharpened to a 45-degree angle, with a hooked edge which is turned over by "burnishing," using a special tool. The hook does the cutting. The blade is held in a frame that has two handles. The scraper blade is adjusted by tightening a thumbscrew which springs the blade so its hook projects. In use, the tool is pushed away from you. A hand scraper works like a cabinet scraper except that it has no frame.

Chisels are tools that can be used for chipping or cutting metal ... They will cut any metal that is softer than the materials of which they are made ... Cold chisels, as they are sometimes called, are made from a good grade tool steel and have a hardened cutting edge and beveled head ... Cold chisels are classified according to the shape of their points, and the width of the cutting edge denotes their size ... The most common shapes of chisels are flat, cape, round nose, and diamond point ... The type chisel most commonly used is the flat cold chisel ...

When it comes to buying an engagement ring you owe it to yourself to go for the best.

Because we're an independent jeweler, and not part of a large chain, we're far more selective about the diamonds we purchase. We buy diamonds individually, not in large lots. This assures you of diamonds of much higher quality.

WE WILL NOT BE KNOWINGLY UNDERSOLD.

Though parking is inconvenient and traffic is heavy, you owe it to yourself to stop in for the personal service you deserve.

Labbe gets certification as long-term facility head

LEWISTON — John Labbe, administrator of Promenade Health Care Facility in Auburn, has been certified as a long-term care facility administrator by the National Association of the Board of Examiners.

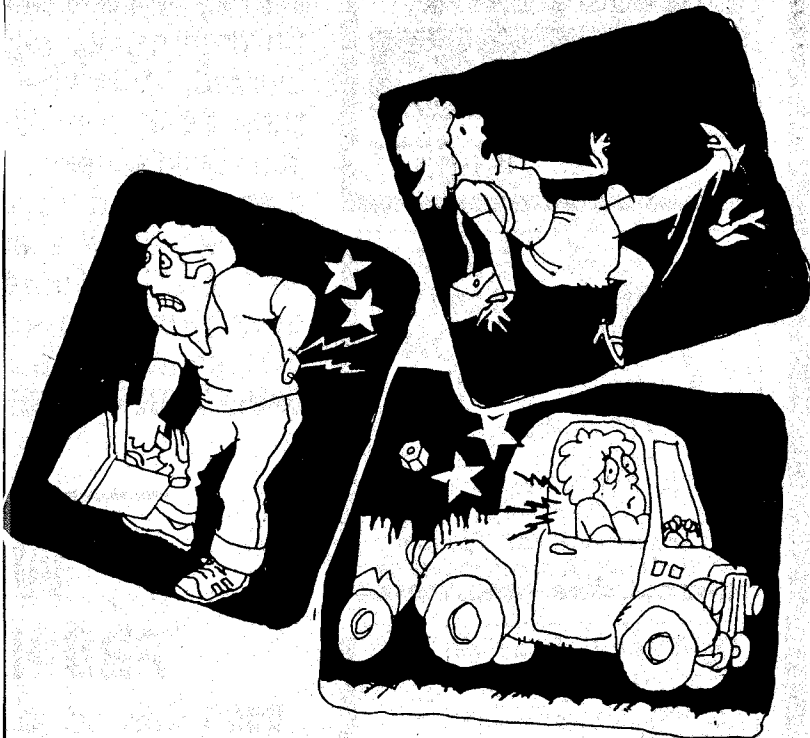

John Labbe

He was granted the certification after successfully completing a 3½-hour examination that was offered by the Nursing Home Administrators Licensing Board in Concord, N.H. The exam tested his knowledge in several areas of nursing home administration, including patient care, personnel, financial, public relations and physical resource management. The test also required that he demonstrate his knowledge of the laws, codes and governing boards that impact long-term care management. Labbe correctly answered 95 percent of the test questions.

After several years of involvement in long-term health care, last year Labbe completed the Administrator-in-Training Program at Russell Park Manor in Lewiston. He is a graduate of Lewiston High School and holds a Bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Connecticut in Storrs.

Promenade Health Care Facility is a 29-bed long-term care facility located at 27 Charles St. in Auburn. It is one of the five facilities that comprise the Greene Acres Manor Health Care Facilities system, which is a subsidiary of Central Maine Healthcare Corp.

IF YOU'VE BEEN INJURED ACT NOW!

No matter how the injury occurred, act now! No matter how you feel today, act now! You may have suffered injuries that could take weeks or even months to appear. If you don't have a full chiropractic examination now and an injury appears later, who will pay for the treatment? You will!

It will only take minutes to discover if you have a hidden injury, yet it may save you years of costly treatment and suffering. I'll take those minutes, will you?

During my years as a chiropractor, I have seen countless cases of late appearing injuries, injuries that were left untreated because they were not painful at the time. These untreated injuries often have developed into severe problems. Suffering was greater than it should have been as was the cost of rehabilitative treatment. Had these people taken a few minutes for a chiropractic examination the cost would have been far less and probably covered by insurance. Certainly their suffering would have been far less. Even if you feel fine today, don't leave yourself financially unprotected. If you have been injured, take the few minutes for a chiropractic examination. Act now, call: 782-5666.

FURNITURE WORLD

February 1991

An Open Letter to Consumers:

The recession and the War with Iraq has slowed retail business considerably.

This has also affected the factories that we do business with. Because they want to keep their plants busy many of them are now offering us some outstanding deals right now. They want to do business and so do we.

If you want good buys on good furniture there will never be a better time to shop for it than now. We have savings in every department. You can even custom order at these sale prices. These are all legitimate savings from our normal selling prices. They are not savings from some phony "List" or "Compare at" price. I don't believe in insulting the intelligence of my customers.

This is not your typical furniture Ad. I'm sick and tired of the usual "BS" that you get for Furniture Ads. When shopping for furniture do yourself a favor. Forget about the "zillion" percent savings or any "free" goodies. There are no free lunches. Look at what you are paying and look closely at what you are getting.

We want your business. Our prices are at least as good if not better than our competition. I hope to see you soon because these new deals will not last forever. Good furniture is still a good investment. You deserve a pleasant and comfortable home especially in these stressful times.

Sincerely,

Bruce & Gerry

Legion awards citations

LISBON — Coombs-Mountfort Post 158 Commander William King presented two citations during a celebration of the American Legion's 72nd birthday at the post home Saturday.

Legionnaire Normand Rancrede was cited for displaying the American flag at his new business, Norm's Transmission on Route 196. The flag is illuminated and displayed around the clock.

Austin Knight was cited for aiding a woman in the post home's dining area who was choking on a piece of food. King said the woman was very near suffocation when Knight extricated the food from her throat.

Guest speaker for the birthday celebration was Department Adjutant Charles "Chuck" Michaud. He spoke of the progress the legion has made since its establishment in 1919 and praised the group's women's auxiliaries and the Sons of the American Legion. The American Legion, he said, now has more than 3 million members.

French plan a space hotel

By BUFFY CLOUTIER
Monmouth Academy staff

French II students are reading about many ideas being expressed by the people of France. The French have plans for a hotel in space. Can you imagine going out on a vacation in space?

Next, the French had an idea about a plane for the future. It's an airplane called L'AGV and it travels five times faster than the Concorde, which means it would only take one hour to travel from New York to Paris.

There were other ideas such as a telephone that translates foreign languages, and a telephone with which you can see the person with whom you are communicating.

All these ideas seem wonderful, and we hope our future will be filled with ideas like these.

French II students took a day and worked on different projects that dealt with the French ideas by working on different activities such as skits, posters and news coverages. "It was all rather fun" expressed one French student.

"I learned a lot and had fun at the same time," replied another.

Hockey teams, they are a'changing

By CASSIE FRAYER
St. Dom staff

In the past, people wouldn't even consider having girls play on the hockey team. They probably wouldn't even think of girls playing ice hockey at all. That just goes to show that the times really are changing and have changed drastically over the past decade.

Although being female in a traditionally male environment has been tough in the past, St. Dom's jayvee hockey players Corinne Gelinis and Julie Roberts seem to love the game. They say, "It's fun!"

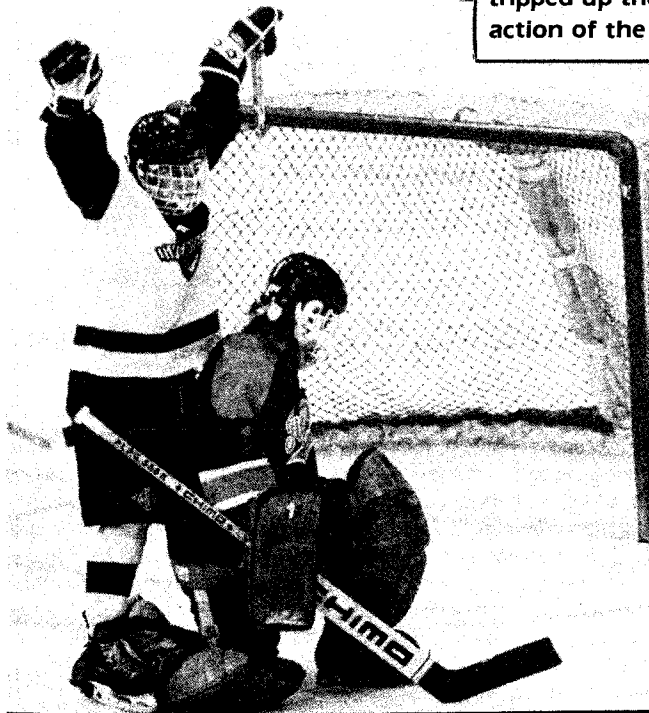

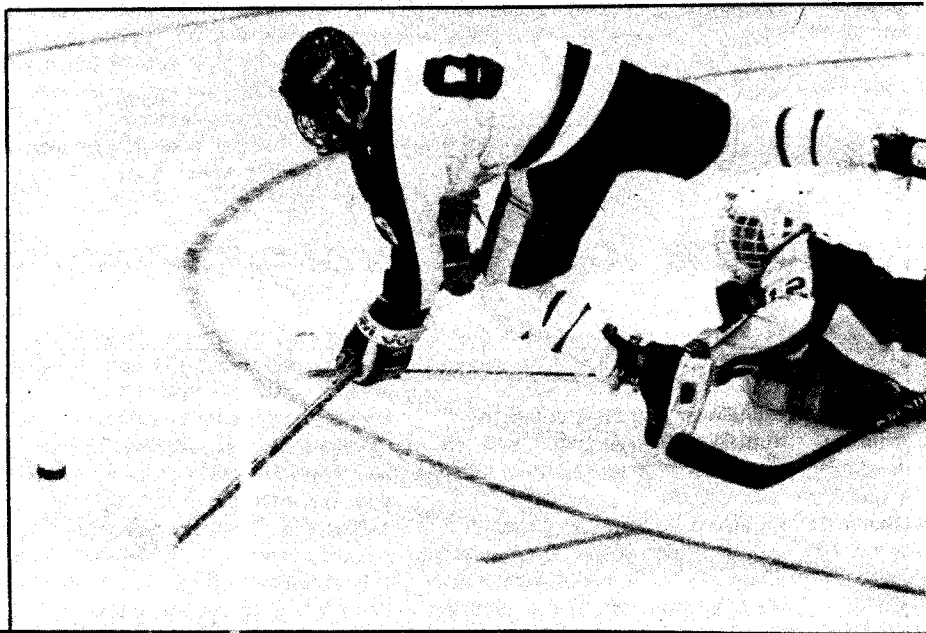

Julie, starting at five, and Corinne, starting at six, now say that they are very much accepted by the guys on the team. They are even pretty good friends with them. They have not seen any girls on the other teams that they play against.

Though they have been playing for so many years, both girls say they have never been injured and definitely plan to continue playing. Julie and Corrine say they never once have regretted playing hockey and they think more girls should get into it.

Administrative MVPs named at St. Dom

By BRENDA MORRISSETTE
and JAMIE LEDOUX
St. Dom staff

Two special ladies have been chosen by the Student Senate as the Most Valuable Players of the school

LYDIA GILBERT and DORIS LITTLE administration at St. Dominic Regional High School. Mrs. Lydia Gilbert and Mrs. Doris Little represent the true dedication of the staff at St. Dom's.

Mrs. Gilbert has been the administrative secretary for the past six years. She makes sure the office runs smoothly, answering the phone and taking care of students needs. She is known for the great working relationship she has with her computer — she hasn't thrown it out the window yet!

Mrs. Little returned to her alma mater as the assistant business administrator, a post she has held for the past nine years. She takes care of school finances and also works closely with the principal, Brother Mark, on administrative material. It's commonly known that if you ever want money from the school budget, you'll hear Mrs. Little's famous words, "Do you have a receipt? No receipt-no money!"

Both ladies enjoy working at St. Dom's because they consider the faculty, staff and students to be a dedicated group of people, they say. Their jobs are challenging yet the stress level is low. They work well together. Over the years, they feel the school hasn't changed that much. The unity of the school is what both enjoy seeing everyday. They feel that "there is a special togetherness and closeness with the students."

Congratulations to St. Dom's most valuable players.

Musical show to benefit St. Dom tuition fund

Gary Fortin, a talented St. Dom sophomore, is among those slated to perform Saturday in a special fund raising concert at St. Dom. "Back at St. Dom's" is the name of this musical variety show, produced to benefit school's tuition assistance program. The event will feature alumni entertainer Louis Philippe, who will present guest performers in an evening of show tunes, French songs, jazz favorites and more.

A versatile performer, 16 year old fortin first started performing in the fourth grade in St. Dom family theater production of Oliver. This singer-actor-dancer has been involved in numerous shows including The Fantastiks, Something's Afoot, Mame, Carousel, Saturday the 14th and The Diviners. He is currently playing the lead role of Daniel Corbin, in the school's production of Catch Me If You Can, which opens May 3.

Back at St. Dom's will also feature Patty Albert, Jennifer Curtis, and Nan Warnock. For tickets and information call Rita Dube at 783-0000.

The one night show will be at St. Peter's hall, curtain time at 8 o'clock.

Cajun fun:

Beausoleil is back

and New York. The band has been together since 1976; besides Michael Doucet and his brother David on guitar, members are drummer Tommy Alesi, bassist Tommy Comeaux, percussionist Billy Ware, and accordionist/saxman Jimmy Breaux.

Though Beausoleil is Doucet's prime focus, he also has "back pocket" ventures that include solo work and dates with the very traditional Savoy-Doucet Cajun Band. Like Doucet, accordionist Marc and singer-guitarist Anne Savoy figured prominently in the revival and national discovery of Cajun culture from the 1970s on.

But it's hard to overestimate the role Doucet and Beausoleil played in that renaissance. Cajun music was moribund by the 1970s, despite occasional flashes in the national pan like Doug Kershaw. Assimilation and prejudice were weakening the culture, and its younger people were looking elsewhere for their music.

"We went out and did research, and met a lot of the older musicians who really made this music," says Doucet - musicians like fiddlers Dennis McGee, a pioneer still active in his 90s, and Canray Fontenot, whose Creole music reflects the black perspective on the bayou experience.

"And that's what still guides us. We're not debauching this music for commercial reasons. We still want to play it ... in an ensemble kind of way. Not by highlighting the fiddle or accordion, but everybody playing together in a unified sound," says Doucet.

"Which basically I like to call 'back porch music' - the kind of sound you might hear at a friend's house, brought to you on a stage."

This warm ensemble approach - with a decided emphasis on danceability - certainly was key to the group's quick success. Almost at the outset, they were hired for a festival in France and for a Jimmy Carter inaugural ball.

They went on to folk festivals all over the U.S. and tonier dates at places like Carnegie Hall and Lincoln Center. Regular appearances on the radio program "Prairie Home Companion" got the word out to an even wider audience.

Gamache is braced for battle

By LAWRENCE DENNIS
Special to the Sun-Journal

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Lewis-ton's Joey Gamache Jr. steps up to a heavier weight class at the Marina Hotel at St. Johns Place here tonight in his eight-round co-main event fight against Arthur Clarke of Nassau, the Bahamas.

That worries Johnny Bos, his matchmaker and co-promoter, but Gamache says he's not sweating it.

"He could come in as a heavy-weight and it wouldn't help him," said Gamache, the International Boxing Federation-Intercontinental champion who is 22-0 and ranked either third or fifth among junior light-weight contenders by five other sanctioning organizations. "I'll probably come in at 140 (pounds), and I feel good fighting at that weight. That means I don't have to starve myself to get down to 135 or 130."

Bos says he isn't quite as confident about his protege's fight against Clarke, who comes with a reported record of 18-6-1 and a reputation as a battler.

"This is a scary situation," Bos said. "This is the first time we've ever fought at junior welterweight. I hear Clarke weighs 139 right now, and he could come in at 150. This is the kind of fight that worries me."

The 24-year old Gamache, who arrived in this city in Northeast Florida Wednesday, admitted that a fight against an opponent like Clarke has its dangers.

Like so many other things, Cajun music can be as simple or complex as you want it to be.

To some, the French-language folk music of southern Louisiana is defined by its limits - rhythms limited to waltz and two-step, chords limited by the one-row button accordion, instruments limited to squeezebox, fiddle, guitar and triangle.

Michael Doucet's perception is quite different. Doucet is a fiddler, the leader of the Cajun band Beausoleil, and he is one of the main reasons people outside Louisiana know what they know about this rural, once-isolated culture.

To Doucet, who brings Beausoleil to Lewiston on March 8, the simple fabric of Cajun music provides a canvas for a rich and diverse stylistic landscape. He explains that during two centuries of Cajun history, the music has absorbed countless influences, while remaining true to itself.

"It's always in flux, and you can look at any period, any time, and pick out a style that is completely different from maybe five years before or after," he says. "That's what's so intriguing about the music. It's so elastic, you can't really go wrong."

And, he adds - perhaps in an implicit rebuff to critics of his eclectic approach-- "I'm not someone from outside the culture dissecting it, I'm someone very inside the culture. And basically we're just playing what we want to play."

"There are no rules," he laughs.

LA Arts presents Beausoleil in concert at 8 p.m. March 8 at Lewiston Junior High School. Tickets, which cost $10, are available at Lewiston and Auburn Shop 'n Save supermarkets and at LA Arts, 36 Oak St., Lewiston. Call 782-7228 for tickets and more information.

Doucet, reached for a phone interview at home in Lafayette, La., is relaxed, talkative and excited about the imminent beginning of a new Beausoleil recording. He says that he has written six new songs for the project. It will be distributed not by Rounder, the band's longtime label, but by Rhino, renowned for witty and well-executed compilation sets.

Doucet is also excited about plans for Richard Thomson, the Englishman whose songs and guitar work have attracted a devoted cult following, to guest on the recording. (Thompson is playing at Raoul's in Portland on Monday). The two are old collaborators - notably on 1988's Cajun Brew, a jokey "garage band" project that Cajunized rock chestnuts like "Woolly Bully" and "Louie, Louie."

Beausoleil's Lewiston appearance is part of a brief Northeast swing that will also touch down in Boston

Franco-Americans provide

By KAREN BERNIER
Special to the Sun-Journal

LEWISTON — Franco-American supporters of the arts on Tuesday night "bowed over" a representative of the Maine Arts Commission with ideas to attract grant money to the Twin Cities.

Representatives of the state Arts Commission and Maine Arts Inc., met with about 30 local Franco-Americans at Bates College's Olin Arts Center in an effort to shape a grant application to the National Endowment for the Arts.

"I was absolutely bowled over by the number of people who showed up and by the broad representation of the Franco-American community as well as by the wonderful ideas," said David Cadigan of the Maine Arts Commission.

The National Endowment for the Arts is making funds available to state art agencies to work in partnership with communities to develop and give stability to arts programs. The NEA wants to make arts more accessible, particularly in "underserved communities," which lack established programs. Up to $150,000 could come to Maine.

'wonderful ideas' for arts grants

Representatives from the state Arts Commission have been meeting with Franco-American groups and others since they received the NEA guidelines in late January.

"It is an extremely difficult task to put this proposal together," Cadigan said. He said the guidelines for the grant proposal are so broad that not only did he need to hear of specific ideas, he was also searching for ideas for a general focus. "We really need your input," he said.

"I feel what definitely must be done is to isolate and evaluate ethnicity as an American treasure" said Raoul Pinette. "As Franco-Americans, we are a treasure and we are something to promote. . . . Our forefathers understood this."

Suggestions included rehabilitating the Grand Trunk Railroad Depot to a museum, reinstituting the Franco-American Festival, organizing a team of French-speaking people, developing a statewide network of Franco organizations, introducing the Franco culture in local schools and creating and preserving tapes and videos of Franco music and dance.

All suggestions were enthusiastically received by the crowd.

Katherine Knowles, executive director of LA Arts, said, "the community is ready and needs this kind of focus."

Both Cadigan and Hazard will be working in the next three weeks to put together the grant application.

Lewiston Mayor James Howaniec said after the meeting that he felt it had been a very interesting and productive evening.

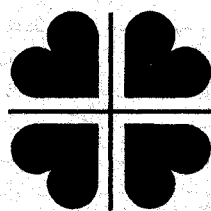

"It seems we impressed the people from the commission," he said. "I hope this process bears fruit. We are certainly an underserved community."

My family is giving me a Lifeline® button. It's a tiny transmitter that weighs about an ounce and is given to people who might need emergency help at home.

"But I'm the picture of health, so why do I need it?" I asked.

"Because it will make us feel better," said my family.

"How so?" said I.

"Because Lifeline can electronically alert the police, or an emergency service, or a neighbor, in case anything ever happens. You'll feel a lot more secure. After all, you do live alone, you know."

"It makes you feel better," I said, "then I feel better. Matter of fact, at this moment, I never felt better in my life!"

Stolen property recovered

Sabattus Police Chief Bryan Lamoreau, right, and Lewiston Police detectives Tom Avery pose with safes recovered from recent burglaries. The string of burglaries — which hit several area towns, started, police said, when a safe containing 23 $1,000 bonds, coins, jewelry, a .22-caliber pistol and a .45-caliber handgun, was taken from a Lewiston residence in January. In an interview Tuesday, Lamoreau said much of the stolen goods had been recovered, including the safe and all of its contents except the firearms. The safe on the left remains unclaimed.

Pinard, Perron win school board seats

By SHARON LAVOIE
Special to the Sun-Journal

SABATTUS — Robert Pinard Jr. and Katherine Perron were winners Friday in a hotly-contested school board election which saw almost 25 percent of the town's registered voters turn out.

Pinard led the poll with 361 votes for a three-year term. Perron, with 252 votes, edged her nearest rival, Richard Beaudoin, by only 16 votes for the other three-year seat, with Elaine Chateauvert running third at 203 votes.

Running unopposed, Paul D'Amour got 551 votes for a two-year school board term and Linda Pierce claimed another one-year term with 520 votes.

In the other contested election, Joseph Fisher swept to an easy victory with 327 votes for road commissioner, followed by Bernard Roberts with 187 votes, Donald Poussard with 106 and Joseph Flemming with 36 votes.

In uncontested elections, Rudy Gayton won another term as selectman with 569 votes and Carolyn Early her 23rd term as town clerk with 608 votes, the highest of any candidate. Thurl Hinkley received 547 votes for park commissioner and Richard LaBrecque garnered 526 to become a trustee of the Sabattus Water District.

Budget Committee election results will not be known until these votes are counted Saturday morning.

RESIDENTS OF THE TOWN OF SABATTUS

On March 8th, 1991, the voting polls located at the Main Street Fire Station will be opened at 1:00 p.m. and remain open until 7:00 p.m. for voting on all municipal offices. Volunteer squad is fired up about station renovations

Fire Chief Michael Blais is proud of the new communications desk and renovations local firefighters completed at the fire station recently.

They put up new walls, replaced the baseboard heating system, installed a new ceiling, built cabinets, and constructed an office for the chief.

The town provided the money for these improvements, and the firefighters donated almost 200 hours of their time. Additionally, Pioneer Plastics of Auburn donated the laminate for the communications desk.

"The town is lucky to have volunteer firemen who are dedicated in doing these things. It would cost a lot more money to have it done by a general contractor," Blais said.

The office space is 100 percent better, other firefighters added. "The place was dreary. It looked like a dungeon," commented firefighter Norm Lebel.

Recruiting new members

The Firemen's Auxiliary, which is open to all women of Sabattus, is seeking new members.

The organization serves coffee and hot chocolate to firefighters battling fires in winter, and raises money to purchase items the town doesn't supply, such as the large coffee pot it recently donated. In addition, Beverly O'Brien noted, the auxiliary raises money to aid fire victims.

Members meet the second Sunday of every month at 7 p.m. at the fire station. O'Brien encourages local women to attend the next meeting on April 14. At this month's meeting, members discussed plans to march in the Maine State Parade in Lewiston in May.

The auxiliary will sponsor a lawn sale April 27-28 at fire station on Main Street. Anyone wishing to donate items to be sold may contact Betty Lebel at 375-6589, or Judy Cyr at 375-4424.

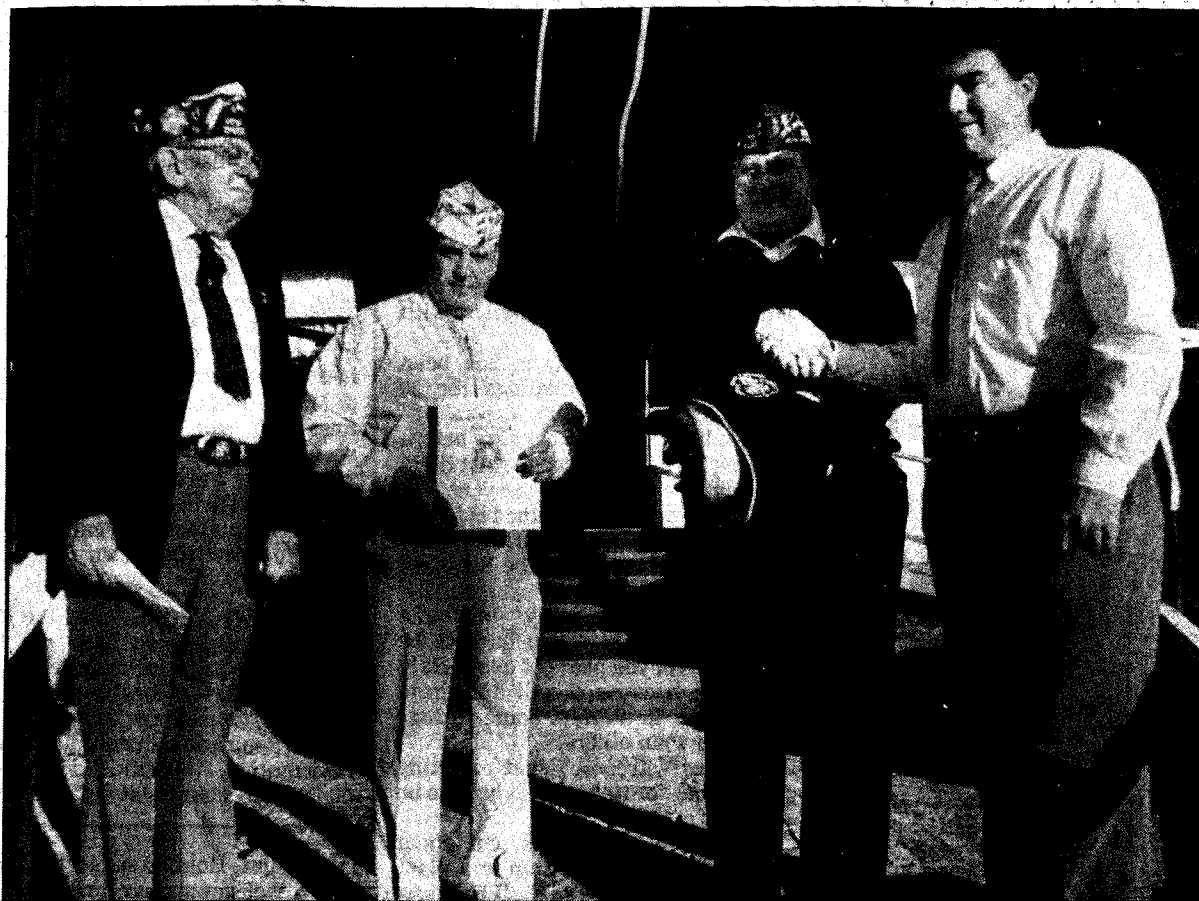

Sense of humor

At the recent pre-Town Meeting, School Board member Paul D'Amour offered an interesting suggestion. When selectmen advised residents that the town currently has a valuation of $105 million, D'Amour shouted, "Sell!"

Softball sign-up

Sign-up for softball this season will be Wednesday, from 6:30-8 p.m., and Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., at the fire station. Teams are made up of players ages 9 and 10, 11 and 12, and 13 and 14. The registration fee is $15 per child, $25 for two. Coaches are needed.

Lewiston sailor provides 'comfort' to men and women in Persian Gulf

PERSIAN GULF — When the United States declared war on Iraq, the multinational force of more than half a million troops was ready to fight.

Pierre J. Croteau, the 32-year-old son of Joseph and Patricia Croteau of Lewiston, was ready for war too, but in a different capacity. Croteau is a U.S. Navy petty officer first class on board the USNS Comfort, one of the two hospital ships supporting allied forces in the Middle East.

"Our mission is to provide care of casualties that happen in the desert and to give the best medical care to military personnel on Operation Desert Storm," said Croteau, a 1976 graduate of St. Dominic Regional High School, Lewiston.

Comfort is the third largest class of ship in the Navy, after aircraft carriers and helicopter carriers, and is one of the largest trauma facilities in the United States.

"We provide relief to any or all of the ships and units in the desert with adequate and timely medical care for all cases," Croteau said.

The primary mission of the hospital ship is to provide mobile, flexible, rapidly responsive acute medical and surgical care in areas where hostilities may be imminent.

The Comfort is as long as three football fields and as high as a 10-story building. The ship is designed to accept an average of 200 casualties every 24 hours, either by helicopter or small boat.

The 1,000-bed medical treatment facility on board includes a casualty receiving area with 50 trauma stations, 12 operating rooms, a 20-bed recovery room, 80 intensive care beds, and 16 intermediate-, light- and limited-care wards.

Rendering services, which include radiology, a pharmacy, a blood bank, comprehensive dental care, burn treatment, physical therapy, and lens fabrication capabilities keeps the 1,200-member crew busy.

"The most challenging aspect of operating in this area of the world is dealing with the unknown factor of when people will head back home again," said Croteau.

Croteau would like to say to friends and family back home, "Thank you for caring and supporting Desert Storm and suffering the separations of family and friends."

Report to offer suggestions for site of industrial park

AUBURN — A city task force initially charged with surveying the city for potential locations to site an industrial park will take their work a step further and recommend several specific spots for development in a report expected by early May.

Ward 3 City Councilor Joseph Deschenes, who headed the Industrial Land Task Force, said a pared-down version of the group will begin meeting this week and should present the council with its recommendations before budget deliberations begin.

Deschenes said this phase of the committee's work will focus on picking one site, along with alternates, and developing plans to determine what it would cost to build a municipal industrial park on the land.

The project, started last year at Deschenes' urging, has been promoted as a necessary step for the city to boost its lagging commercial and industrial tax base by helping lure new companies to the area.

Deschenes said the committee will also look at ways of paying for the project if the council decides to go ahead with its recommendations, and said those methods could either rely on taxes or federal grants and low-interest loans from either the city's funds or money from local economic development agencies.

'Catch Me' at St. Dom's

Corban (Gary Fortin) and Elizabeth (Tammy Long) argue about the disappearance of his wife, in a scene from St. Dom's Drama Club's production of the comedy-mystery "Catch Me If You Can." The plot revolves around a man on his honeymoon and a mysterious woman who claims to be his wife. The play is being directed by Bruce Szal, a teacher of senior English and a member of the Family Theater. Szal has previously directed such classics as "Becket," "Our Town", and has appeared in "Man of La Mancha," "Fiddler on the Roof," and "Arsenic and Old Lace." Helping Szal with the play are Jennifer Morril as assistant director, John Cloutier in lighting design, Tobie Akerley and Stacey Cote in make up, Fred Brown, Megan Murphy, Denny Bourgoignie, Julie Robert, and Tiffany Reeder in set construction. Play dates are May 3, 4, and 5.

Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 p.m. Sunday performance is at 7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Hazardous materials manuals

Auburn Deputy Fire Chief Robert Dewitt, Joanne Potvin of the Emergency Management Agency and President Paul LeClair of the Lewiston Firefighters Association hold copies of Hazardous materials manuals recently purchased by the Androscoggin County Chemical Emergency Planning Committee for the two cities' fire departments. The manuals identify specific hazardous substances and give advice on how to handle a spill and how to protect emergency workers and the public in each case. Other fire departments in the county will get copies of the manual when their people have completed training courses.

Pride prevailed

Students in Jim Bazinet's fourth-grade class at Montello School expressed their pride in their home state by contacting Gov. John McKernan and presenting him with a list of reasons why March 15 should be proclaimed Maine Day. Consequently, two student representatives, Katie Whelan, left, and Chris Turcotte, right, met with the governor and were presented with a proclamation making the March 15th Maine Day designation official.

AUBURN — Whether they're fraternal or identical, twins can bring peaks and valleys to family life, say local residents who have been twice blessed in the nursery.

"The first three to six months were the hardest," Diane Dubois of Auburn, co-founder of the Central Maine Mothers of Twins Club, recalls of the weeks following the births of her fraternal twins, Michelle and Kevin in 1983.

Dubois and her husband, David, had a young son at home when their second and third children were born. Although twins run in the family, Dubois says the news — learned during her fourth month of pregnancy — that she would be having two babies "came as a surprise."

The babies' arrival was difficult for everyone in the family,

Hi-Style Caterers celebrates 25th anniversary

AUBURN — Hi-Style Caterers of Auburn began operations of its mobile industrial catering in 1966 in Lewiston. "We were the first caterer in the state to service job sites with shiny new stainless steel trucks," says Roger and Emelda Rioux, then owners and now holding positions on the board of directors and vice president respectfully.

Roger Rioux went on to say, "It was a challenging time for our new business venture but the effort paid off and we have succeeded in surviving hard economic times and many competitors who have come and gone.

The company is a family-run business. They have just reached another milestone in the production of their 10th million sandwich. The caterers specialize in serving hot and cold food to businesses and job sites daily. They take pride in the huge assortment of food they make available including meals, sandwiches, pastries, beverages, etc . . .

The caterers service the greater Lewiston-Auburn area and up through Bath-Brunswick where they enter Bath Iron Works shipyard for breakfast and lunch breaks. They have regular daily customers and also service construction sites throughout the area.

Donald Rioux, manager and president of the company says, "We extend our great appreciation and thanks to all of our customers throughout the years. They are directly responsible for our success and we are looking forward to servicing the area for the next 25 years."

Birds congregate at the boat launch on the Auburn side of the Longley Bridge between the Twin Cities. Ornithologists surmise that the gulls, ducks and other varieties flock together there for food from the Andros-coggin and from area residents, and for the relative safety that many watchful eyes provide.

The Andros-coggin River faces about an average risk of flooding this year, according to state officials. The average water content of the snow in the river's upper drainage area has been measured at 6.9 inches, which is equal to the long-term average.

Our Lady of the Rosary, Sabattus

The Church of Our Lady of the Rosary in Sabattus started out in 1910 as a mission-church of the Dominican Fathers. Father Thomas Gill, O.P., was the first permanent priest to be assigned to Sabattus. Very interested in the site where the church now stands, the former property of Charles Maxwell, Father Gill influenced his sister to purchase the land for him. In the spring of 1913, the cornerstone of the Catholic church in Sabattus was laid, and the name "Our Lady of the Rosary" was given. Work was slow, but in 1915 the basement of the Church was opened and the first Mass was held on Christmas day. With the help of the Dominican Fathers and Brothers of Lewiston, and friends of all faiths, the church was completed in 1918.

These messages made possible through the cooperation of the following:

Through the years, Our Lady of the Rosary has been served by 13 pastors, each making his own contribution. A parochial school was opened under the administration of the Dominican Sisters. An old barn was converted into a Parish Hall and is known today as the Maxwell-Gill Hall. And with the growth of the parish, an addition was made to the church and school.

In 1975, the mission was transferred from the apostolate of the Dominican Fathers, who had served as true servants of the Lord for over 70 years, to the Diocese of Portland. Bishop Edward O'Leary blessed and approved the establishment of Our Lady of the Rosary Church as a diocesan parish.

Today, in the decade of the 90's, the "little church in the pines" continues to serve the people of the Sabattus area. Though the parochial school was closed in 1986, the classrooms are being used by the Sabattus Elementary School for its kindergarten. Our Church looks to the future with hope and enthusiasm as it tries to meet some of the spiritual and other special needs of the people in the area.
