Biographical Sketch

Rosalyn Spindel Bernstein (b.1928) grew up in the Bronx, N.Y.C, and Fall River, MA. Her parents were Jewish immigrants from Poland. She attended Radcliffe College as an economics major, and there she met her future husband, Sumner Thurman Bernstein, then a law student at Harvard University. In 1949, Rosalyn and Sumner married, and moved to his home town of Portland, Maine, where they raised two children and were both active in the community through a range of professional and volunteer service.

With interests in government, education, art, public health, and the Jewish community, Bernstein provided significant involvement and leadership to numerous local organizations, including but not limited to: the Maine Health Care Finance Commission, the Portland School Committee, the New England Board of Higher Education, the Jewish Community Alliance, the National Council of Jewish Women, the American-Israeli Public Affairs Committee, and the Maine Community Foundation. She was the executive director of the Maine Bicentennial Commission, and was co-founder of the Head Start program in Portland.

Bernstein was a longtime trustee of the Portland Society of Art (and later, as the Portland Museum of Art) and served as president of this organization from 1979-1981. Bernstein's presidency oversaw the development, acquisition of funding, and construction of the Charles Shipman Payson Building of the Portland Museum of Art, turning a small local organization into a nationally recognized visual arts museum for northern New England, and contributed to the revitalization of downtown Portland. She was the first woman overseer and trustee of Bowdoin College, chair of the Board of Visitors for the University of Southern Maine, and a trustee of the Portland School of Art (now Maine College of Art) and the Maine Medical Center.

Bernstein went back to school to earn a law degree in 1986 from University of Maine School of Law. She received an honorary Doctor of Laws from Bowdoin College in 1997, and an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters from the University of Southern Maine in 2002.

Active in local Jewish communities throughout her life, Bernstein's interest in foreign affairs in the Middle East and Arab-Israeli conflict also led her to do extensive personal research, political correspondence, and local seminars on the topic. In 1979, she participated in the American Academic Association for Peace in the Middle East mission to Egypt, Israel, and Jordan. Bernstein conducted a course on Arab-Israeli conflict for the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Southern Maine in 2003.

Description of the Papers

The Papers document Bernstein's work in the areas of government service, educational service, and general volunteerism and philanthropy. The organization of these papers, including some series and folder names, are to some extent derived directly from Bernstein's own organization of her personal and professional files. The Papers include documents from her work with Governor Baldacci's Transition Advisory Council, as well as her term as president of the Portland Society of Art. Also of note is the Maine Community Foundation folder, which documents the foundation's attempt to address diversity issues in the mid-to-late nineties, and the Maine Management and Cost Survey folder, which is comprised almost entirely of correspondence with James Longley regarding the University of Maine System. The Papers include correspondence and materials regarding awards and honors Bernstein received for her public service in volunteer and professional capacities, including VHS tapes of some of the awards ceremonies that include video clips of Bernstein herself.

The Papers also document her work for the Jewish community through participation in organizations, personal political activism, and work as an instructor. These materials include her political correspondence, particularly regarding U.S. foreign policy as it relates to Israel (with William Cohen, George Mitchell, Tom Andrews, Olympia Snowe, and others), opinion pieces published in the Portland Press Herald, texts of lectures and outlines of seminars (with related research), and notes and reviews for the course she taught for the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute. The Papers also document recognition awards presented to Bernstein by a number of Jewish community organizations.

A final section within the Papers deals with personal documents, including correspondence about/from her years as a Radcliffe student, other family correspondence, and miscellaneous writings and publicity. Significant genealogical documentation about the Spindel, Bernstein, and Thurman (Sumner Bernstein's mother's) families are also present.

The Papers are organized into five series:

Series 1. Community Service

This series is divided into the sub-series of Government, Education, Community and Philanthropy, and Awards and Honors. The material is foldered by organization, and contains papers from Bernstein's work in the general community. It includes planning documents, meeting notes, correspondence, photographs, a VHS tape which features Bernstein speaking in support of scholarships at Bowdoin College, and other VHS footage of Bernstein at the "6 Who Care" award ceremonies in 2000 and 2001. This series includes photographs and negatives from the Bowdoin College commencement ceremony in 1997, when Bernstein received her honorary Doctor of Laws, and the physical honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree conferred by the University of Southern Maine in 2002.

Series 2. Jewish Community

This series is divided into the sub-series of Organizations, Seminar Leadership and Lectures, Political Activism, Awards and Honors, and Subject Files. The material for this series was generated by Bernstein's work for Jewish community organizations and personal political activism. It contains research notes and lectures regarding the Middle East and Arab-Israeli conflict, newspaper articles, and correspondence. Folder 73 contains her journal from the AAAPME mission to Egypt, Israel, and Jordan. Folder 88 contains the VHS "A Tribute to Rosalyn & Sumner Bernstein," made for and shown at the Jewish Community Alliance "Evening to Honor Sumner and Rosalyn Bernstein." The video features footage and commentary by friends and colleagues as well as their two adult children. This series contains physical awards in the form of a clock and a bust. Folders 90 -135 are research files that Bernstein kept in alphabetical order, by topic.

Series 3. Personal Papers

This series is divided into the sub-series of Education, Correspondence, General, and Genealogical Papers. The series contains materials regarding Bernstein's education at Radcliffe College, correspondence with family and colleagues, personal writings and ephemera, and genealogical papers and photographs of the Bernstein, Spindel, and Thurman families.

Series 4. Restricted

This series consists of materials restricted from public access to guard the privacy of individuals. Listed within their regular series, they are included here to give their physical location. Materials include interview assessments; resumes with personal information; lists of organization members with addresses, phone numbers, and email addresses; correspondence with email addresses; and personal and contact information of extended family members.

Series 5. Addendum

This series contains additional materials donated to the collection in 2013.
