USM THEATRE

the TEMPEST

the TEMPEST

By William Shakespeare
Directed by Christopher Price

No reading of The Tempest can do it justice. Shakespeare's tale of Prospero's Island is inherently theatrical, and must be seen live to truly appreciate this tale of magic, romance, intrigue, and humor. A shipwreck sets the plot in motion, and with it, Shakespeare asks the question that he poses in many of his works: What does it mean to be fully human—to feel, to take revenge, to sympathize, to forgive?
