Restrictions on access: The bulk of this collection is open for research. Some material, located in Box 5, has been restricted until the year 2041 to protect privacy rights.

Historical Note

ACT UP (AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power) first appeared in New York in 1987. Within a very short time chapters were established in communities across the United States as well as in other countries. From the beginning, the organizing literature stressed direct action in the community and a rather extraordinary level of democratic openness within the organization.

Two chapters of ACT UP were founded in Maine in 1990: ACT UP/Maine and ACT UP/Portland. Although USM’s Glickman Library houses the papers of both groups, each collection was deposited independently. Neither of these archival collections speaks clearly to their relationship with one another, but both groups illustrate a strong commitment to the goals set forth by ACT UP founders.

A half page in what appears to be a 1992 issue of ACT UP/Maine’s newsletter, ACT ALERT!, is devoted to the history of direct action by the organization from its founding in Summer 1990 through the end of 1991 (Box 1, Folder 10). The presentation of both goals and actions is clear: self-empowerment of people with AIDS and the establishment of an AIDS Resource Center. In pursuit of these goals, the history cites fifteen campaigns, protests, demonstrations, and marches. Only one word in the brief descriptions of these actions hints at the possibility said actions might take a form other than staid, orderly, appeals to reason: “zaps” (actions that occur within the week, in the form of phone calls, faxes, letters/postcards, uninvited office visits, and demonstrations).

Throughout its brief history, ACT UP/Maine appears to have achieved its sought-after blend of order and chaos. Its orderliness was exemplified by regular weekly meetings at the organization's Portland office and a phone chain used to announce demonstrations and actions. The planned chaos factor shows itself in some of the group's dramatic demonstrations. On a less planned level, internal factionalism and rancor introduced an element of administrative chaos even before the first anniversary of the group's founding.

Description of the Papers

The bulk of the material in this collection spans the years between 1990 and 1995, with the first half of this period evidencing the highest level of activity. There are several stray documents from the 1970's and 1980's among the resource files and there is also a good deal of non-dated material. The collection falls into two major series:

Maine Materials

Non-Maine Materials

Series 1. – Maine Materials

The three divisions of the thirty folders in this series offer a fairly well-rounded portrait of ACT UP/Maine's structure, outlook, and activities. Ten files, under "Administrative", speak to the formalities of the organization, its correspondence, publications, and an extensive file of clippings. Eight folders represent "Campaigns," while the remaining twelve folders contain information on other Maine organizations, activities, and resources relevant to ACT UP/Maine's mission.

Series 2. – Non-Maine Materials

The largest portion of the materials in this series relate to the activities of ACT UP chapters from other areas of the United States, while a smaller portion is devoted to various international chapters. This series also features folders relating to ACT UP campaigns as well as folders labeled "Resources" containing information on topics considered to be of interest to the organization.

This book was removed from the Archives and incorporated into the USM Libraries's circulating collection:
