The time has come for a statewide conference concerned with downtown revitalization in Maine towns. Many Main Streets in Maine are already undergoing significant rehabilitation thanks to the efforts of local officials and citizens. This conference will address the issues and techniques involved in small town main street revitalization. The speakers are Maine citizens whose expertise in their respective communities is outstanding. Much can be learned from their experience as well as yours in your town. All concerned and working in any way with Main Streets are urged to attend.
