Roman Catholic Church Supports Civil Rights Bill!

We’re sure you’ve heard the news, and we hope you are as happy as we are. We’ve been overwhelmed by the public enthusiasm of Roman Catholic Leaders, especially to the press; the strong, positive reaction of Legislators — we’ve picked up a few new votes already; and, the clear effect it’s had already on voters we’ve met.

MLGPA is extremely grateful to Sen. Joel Abromson, to Rep. Michael Quint, co-sponsor of L.D. 2239, and Susan Farnsworth, MLGPA’s Legislative Advocate, for their dedication to civil rights and for the exceptional efforts they all made to secure them for our community. For some time MLGPA had been seeking to discuss these issues with the Roman Catholic Church, but it was Sen. Abromson who brought everyone together last summer for the long series of talks that have produced this historic agreement.

First and foremost, this bill is, and has always been, about one thing — prohibiting discrimination in employment, housing, credit and public accommodation based on a person’s sexual orientation. Nothing in the proposed amendment will alter that. Essentially we have further defined what this civil rights bill will and won’t do. We think we’ve now removed all of the major questions and concerns of those who have not been able to support this measure in the past.

Just as this bill’s original language makes it clear that it will grant no “special rights” to anyone, the amendment will make it clear that this bill prohibits discrimination based on one’s sexual orientation, not one’s sexual behavior, and expressly states that it excludes sexual attraction between a minor and an adult. The new definition will read: “Sexual orientation means having an orientation for heterosexuality, homosexuality or bisexuality, having a history of that orientation or being identified with that orientation. Sexual orientation refers to a person’s actual or perceived status, condition or gender expression.”

Includes a Referendum:

Sends the bill, when enacted, out to be ratified by the voters in the November 2000 election.

This bill also contains specific statements to exclude or clarify what it doesn’t do:

- Does not grant special rights to any person or group covered by the Human Rights Act
- Does not confer legislative approval to any person or group covered by the Act
- Does not endorse or cover sexual behavior
- Does not cover sexual attraction to a minor by an adult
- Does not require any school to promote or teach any sexuality or sexual orientation
- Does not establish any affirmative action based on sexual orientation
- Does not require or forbid employers from providing domestic partnership benefits

We’re planning a victory party for the bill. We’ve gotten so big we’ve had to move it to Portland. More details to follow...

More Legislative Issues Coming Up This Session!

As you may recall, during the last session MLGPA followed over thirty bills of concern to the LGBT and HIV/AIDS communities. In this session, though officially much shorter, the legislature will consider a number of bills that we will want to actively support or oppose and some that we need to watch. The safer schools initiatives and issues related to HIV are, as usual, of gravest concern for us. But, increasingly, we have to screen seemingly unrelated or innocent looking bills as well, to protect against attack on free speech or privacy. These basic rights can easily be encumbered by bills seeking censorship or other restrictions on Internet use, for instance.

A WORD ABOUT THE STATE HOUSE ITSELF

This will be a year to "Be Kind" to your legislator, or "Y2BK", as I call it. When our legislators go back into session in January, they will find themselves in the middle of construction everywhere they look—a very trying situation. As some of you know, there is a massive renovation project underway at the Capitol complex. The entire State Office Building is still vacant and under repair as it has been for the past several months. The state agencies and offices which occupied its six floors are now dispersed all over Augusta, Chelsea, Hallowell and Gardiner.

The tunnel between the State Office Building and the State House has been removed and a new one is being built. There is no cafeteria, only the small snack bar in the basement of the State House. There is also very little parking anywhere near the State House, AND, if that's not enough, the entire Senate half of the State House will still be sealed off and under construction when the legislature reconvenes in January.

As a result, many legislative committee meetings will be at sites scattered all around Augusta, some have yet to be announced. At present, the Appropriations Committee is planning to meet at the Oblate Retreat Center; the Education Committee, at the Armory; several at the Civic Center and other locations far from the State House. Only a few committees—Human Services, Judiciary, Natural Resources, and Veterans and Legal Affairs—are expected to stay (for the most part) in the State House.

Because of the ongoing construction, the full legislature is now scheduled to meet ONLY 3 days during January and ONLY 7 days in February. On these 10 days in January and February, I understand the Senate Chamber will be opened specially for these sessions, along with some space for the Senate Clerk. It is hoped that by March the Senate side will be ready for occupancy. In the meantime, I expect this to be a very difficult couple of months.

With so few legislative sessions scheduled in January and February, legislators may have more concentrated periods of time in committee. (All bills are supposed to be heard and out of committees by Friday, March 10.) Even if that is the case, communications, parking, eating, scheduling and transportation are all likely to be difficult and in a state of constant upheaval, so that just getting to one's committee and to hearings on one's own bills is going to be enormously challenging.

So I say to MLGPA members: Let's call this Y2BK! That is, as we begin the year 2000, Let's be kind to our legislators. They will be having a very difficult session!

Stay tuned!

Roman Catholic Church Supports LD 2239!

public funds, which proved to be the most difficult to resolve. There has always been a broad religious exemption in previous bills, but it was ambiguous as to who was exempt. The Church requested a clearer definition.

On one hand, while the Diocese has no intent to practice discrimination, it believes that subjecting its charitable organizations to state law would represent a breach of religious freedoms. The Diocese also thought they would be unable to track all of the benefits its various entities might receive — directly or indirectly — from one kind of public funding or another.

On the other hand, MLGPA is opposed to having state money for public services — gay people pay taxes, too — going to organizations that discriminate. In fact, in the first draft of this bill, new language was added to exempt only those religious organizations that did not receive public funds. And we could not accept excluding such major employers as Catholic Charities or Mercy Hospital from the law.

We were deadlocked over this issue until the Church made a new offer. They agreed that the state could require as a condition of its contracts that ALL organizations — including all religious organizations — agree not to discriminate. Because the state already includes nondiscrimination provisions in its contracts, we said yes. Most of the religious non-profit charitable corporations in Maine contract with the state to provide services.

WHY HAVE WE MADE THIS EFFORT?

The short answer is: To win passage in the legislature and on the ballot in November.

Let me start with a few of the considerations and assumptions we made going into this. WE LOST the People’s Veto vote in 1998. That scares plenty of legislators, who don’t want to be “overturning the voters.” That leaves an impression in voters minds that this issue has already been decided — we could expect to get backlash about that in the November 2000 vote on our civil rights.

Another referendum is a very serious proposition. If we don’t win this one, it will be a long time — maybe 10 years — before we can even try again. So this is a make or break situation for us. The MLGPA Board made a very serious commitment to finding every coalition partner and every vote we can get. There are 1.2 million people in Maine, a quarter of them are Roman Catholic. With the support of the Diocese, we had a victory in 1995.

At our state meetings in Bangor many of our northern brothers and sisters made it clear that their issues are about personal safety, which may or may not be secured by law. They helped us understand that we need to change people’s thinking, not just pass laws, if we want to produce real change. And when we talked to northern gay leaders, they told us that having the Catholic Church’s support alone would make a big difference in people’s lives. That’s why we set out on this course with the Roman Catholic Church more than a year ago.

Having the support of the Diocese makes a huge statement to legislators and the general public that this bill is different AND that it’s okay. This isn’t about the approval of the Roman Catholic Church or how many Catholics will support us; it’s about having such a major institution change its position and support the bill. It sends a message that some people who were concerned about the bill before are okay with it now. That will reassure a great number of voters who have never understood what the bill was all about.

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to Bishop Joseph Gerry and his representatives, Marc Mutty, Father Michael Henschel and Michael Poulin for their respectful and sincere willingness to resolve the difficult and sometimes conflicting issues that separated us at the beginning of this process.

He urged everyone to put forth names of potential major donors. Robin discussed his and Ken’s fundraising plans for Ogunquit. Maggie provided a plan and led a discussion for conducting follow-up phone calls.

OUTREACH: Board members were encouraged to attend the upcoming event for Martin Luther King day sponsored by the NAACP.

MCER NEWS: An interim executive committee has been appointed and is searching for a fundraiser. County and local groups are being developed.

DISCUSSION: The Board held a lengthy discussion regarding the negotiations with the Diocese for the purpose of providing Susan and David with direction on the position to be taken on behalf of the organization. A motion was passed to empower the Executive Committee to act on behalf of the Board until the next Board meeting. Because of time constraints, the Board agreed that discussion regarding the rest of the agenda (MLGPA's role and responsibilities for the upcoming year and a review of its objectives) should be tabled until the January meeting. So that extra time may be allotted for that discussion, the Board agreed to commence the Jan. 20 meeting at 5:30 p.m.

Adjourned.
Thirty-one people from across Maine gathered in Augusta in January for an intensive three-and-a-half-day training in campaign skills. Attendees included State Treasurer Dale McCormick, Legislators Judy Powers and Scott Cowger, Laura Fortman of the Maine's Women's Lobby, Naomi Falcone of the Maine Rural Network, as well as many members of the Maine Coalition for Equal Rights and MLGPA board members Ron Hersom, Ken Bartuka, and David Garrity, and lobbyist Susan Farnsworth. We were all there with one goal in mind, to learn how to run a grassroots campaign so that we can win equal rights for gay people at the polls next November. Some of us had been meeting since soon after our defeat in the last referendum, but there were just as many new faces, people for whom the training was their introduction to our effort.

The weekend was hosted by the Maine Diversity Alliance, the educational wing of MLGPA, and co-sponsored by the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force (NGLTF) Policy Institute and endorsed by the Maine Coalition for Equal Rights (MCER). Because our generous contributors underwrote much of the expense through the Diversity Alliance and the NGLTF Policy Institute provided weeks of Dave Fleischer's time in planning the training, organizing and working with us on the candidate search and interviews, no one was charged tuition. However, all participants were asked to pledge to use the skills they learned to make an in-kind contribution to the upcoming campaign or other good cause. People could agree to raise $1000, identify 250 "yes" voters or recruit a 5+50 volunteer and leadership team.

There were two major focuses of the training: how to identify the voters who support us, and how to build the team of volunteers to do it. And we started even before the training began. Each of us was asked to make a list of everyone we know who we could ask to do more than just vote for equal rights. We called these our "homework lists," and when we added up all of our names we had approximately 11,000. That's not a typo, eleven thousand. Allowing for half of them to be duplicates, the total is still an impressive 5500. Not a bad start. We're already putting all our lists together and we'll be using them soon as we begin looking for our volunteers and donors.

The training team was impressive. Dave Fleischer from NGLTF Policy Institute, who led the group, has had years of experience running training all across the country for the Gay & Lesbian Victory Fund. Liz Kaufman, campaign manager and consultant, has been active in 39 different referenda campaigns in Oregon, including most of the anti-gay ones. Grant Martin, from Houston, has managed such successful campaigns as Anise Parker's, now the openly lesbian city councilor of Houston. And Paul Getso, from NYC, a longtime community organizer for low income women, labor and Latino groups. Each, though different in background, style and experience, added their own unique skills and vision.

We learned what we should do as well as what we shouldn't — and why:

- Develop a comprehensive campaign plan with a realistic timeline, budget and fundraising plan. These plans have to include concrete weekly goals, so that everyone will know where the campaign should be, where it is and where it is going.
- Determine the number of votes needed to win. Divide the expected turnout in half and add one. This tells you how many voters you need to reach as well as how many volunteers you'll need to reach them. This makes the result seem realistic.
- Recruit volunteers. Volunteers are the lifeblood of any grassroots campaign. Each volunteer needs to feel needed and valued. When recruiting, it is vital to determine what the volunteer can do and more importantly what the volunteer wants to do.
- Voter ID. One of the most important tasks is to identify the voters who support you as well as those who do not. To do this, you must ASK each voter either in person during door to door canvassing or on the phone. By knowing this, you where to concentrate your resources thus saving time and money as well as volunteer burnout.
- GOTV, Get Out the Vote. These are the calls and postcards to your supporters in the last days before the election reminding them to vote. If they don't vote, all your other work is worthless.

At the end of the training, we agreed on what is important to us in this campaign and what we are committed to achieve. We talked about everything from health insurance for staff to our very core ideals. Here's what we decided:

- Ethical Campaign: This will be a statewide grassroots campaign open and respectful of all.
- Community Building: It can be a lasting legacy of this campaign that we have a healthy, united community when the election is over and equal rights are won.
- Use the words Gay and Lesbian: We were pleasantly surprised when we did as we went canvassing door to door on Saturday morning in Augusta and Gardiner. All but the most hardened bigots were polite, and many people mentioned the support we just received from the Roman Catholic Church.

When we finished late Sunday afternoon, we had finished the first drafts of a county plan, a statewide plan and a detailed plan for the first sixty days. We formed one committee to write the second drafts, another to search for a campaign manager, a local Bangor group. People signed up for such duties as: voter list development, voter ID coordination, communications, fund raising, volunteer recruitment and a grassroots committee to help towns and counties get started. We are underway!

The weekend was full of information, hard work, good spirit and energy. There will be more trainings this spring and many opportunities for everyone to become involved. Come join with this energetic group and let's win equal rights this November!
