THE THEATER GROUP

An interview with Dr. Hansen revealed an interesting year for the Theater Group and anyone interested in any phase of speech. Two plays will be tried this year, toward the end of each semester. These will be aimed at being educational and somewhat experimental, possibly one having a student director. The group's productions will be worthwhile for they will be the classics of the theater, and the great plays were written to be performed.

With the hope of putting on one or two act play before Christmas, Dr. Hansen will hold a meeting either this week or next. Anyone interested in any area of production from directing to props is invited to see Dr. Hansen any time or to come to his office and speak to Mrs. Clewly.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S VISIT

This has been a big week for Portland as far as political go, but to say that this in reference to Monday night would be a gross understatement. Enough of UMP's students were there squeezed in at vertical angles in the crowd to attest to this fact.

The atmosphere was high pitched at 3:30, but by 7:30 the crowd was fired up to a degree that has seldom been seen anywhere around Portland. Staid New Englanders, did someone once say?

The effect produced by President Johnson, Senator Muskie, their wives, and the other dignitaries is impossible to describe and can only be appreciated by those who were there. Altogether, it was one of the most thrilling evenings that Portland has ever seen.

FLASH- Mr. Callendar's wife has presented a 6 lb. 11 ounce addition to the Sociology department. Name- Catherine.
INSIDE SPORTS
with Walt Abbott

Intramural football started last Thursday and will continue almost through October. There are currently seven under­graduate teams and one faculty team. The schedule has been drawn and is posted at various places around the campus. The seasons off to a fast start as Bill Solomon of the Moneymakers took a short, screen pass and raced the length of the field with less than three minutes gone in the game. The Moneymakers went on to whip last year's champs, the Humpers, by a score of 12-0, behind a stout defense. Humpers appeared to be a disorganized and could not mount a sustained drive. Because of work commit­ments, other teams won't be analyzed until they oppose the Moneymakers of which this writer is a member.

Down at the Oaks the cross country team is warming up for its initial con­test with Gorham State on Wednesday, Sept. 30 th. Certainly, some students will be able to get down there and root the Vikings on. They have a very formidable opponent as heard from the lips of Commissioner Sullivan. To quote him: "They're loaded!" With talent, I presume.

Coach Sturgeon's basketball deadline has come and gone, and he has started on various conditioning programs. Lifting weights and running sprints seem to be the principal conditioners. Seems last year he had some players who tired out quickly. However, Coach Sturgeon elected regulars rather than resort to his bench which had some very good players on it. In my opinion, a tired out regular is more detrimental to a team than is a fresh sub off the bench. This opinion was proved to be correct in some losses last year. However, lessons can be learned by mistakes if one will only admit them.

YGOP MEETS BARRY

Several members of the UMP Young Republicans received a close-up view of Senator Barry M. Goldwater when he came to Portland last Friday. Riding in the preliminary parade to the airport on a float containing a mock alarm clock with a girl inside, they secured an excel­lent position from which to see the Arizona senator land. When the big moment arrived the girl jumped out of the alarm clock while the other participants donned pajamas and held up signs reading "Wake up for Barry."

During the minutes before and after the speech, many of the YGOP'ers had an oppor­tunity to shake the Senator's hand. All in all, the visit of the Senator helped to get the UMP YGOP off to a good start—which it has most certainly needed.

THURSDAY DISCUSSION

Well, we know we advised you not to cut classes to go to the discussion on Thursday, but we didn't say anything about the cutting of bull or hen sessions in Valhalla, or TV watching in the Union.

You missed some good information on new developments for our waterfront. We wouldn't tell you even if you begged—oh yes, you reporter did go—but you've got a chance to make up for your appalling lack of knowledge of the waterfront.

This Thursday Mr. G.I. Smith will speak on piloting a boat around Casco Bay. This is no mean trick, we understand, and it's a very exclusive group that does this sort of thing. Let's see a little enthusiasm, especially from all you summer sailors who've hit a reef, disregarded tides, or forgotten the sandbar between Great and Little Diamond Islands. However, never forget—a vet bird never flies at night, or in layman's language be careful. You might learn something.

And that's this week's issue. We're encouraging students to take an active part in the paper by sending us your comments in letters to the editor—signed and including your class. Leave them at the Student Pub. office.
