GLENN YARBROUGH IN PERSON

This Saturday night at Gorham State College, the Intercollegiate Council of Maine will hold its second event of the year. The ICM presents Glenn Yarbrough who was on the Ed Sullivan show last Sunday.

The concert at Gorham is not an event solely for the students at Gorham State, but for all schools who are members of the ICM. These schools include UMP, Gorham, Westbrook Jr., St. Francis, St. Joseph, SWITI, and Mercy Hospital. The tickets are being sold at all these schools at an advance price of $2.00. The price will be $2.50 at the door. That amounts to a Coach Martin requests that all indoor track men sign up and receive uniforms before Monday, December 5. The team now numbers 18 most of whom are runners, and also are freshmen. Coach would like to see more upperclassmen out, especially those from last year's squad. Weight men are needed badly since there are none out now. The field events, especially pole-vaulting, have been neglected also.

The schedule includes:

January 7 - intrasquad meet at Expo
February 4 - MIT relays
February 22 - Colby (practice meet)
February 25 - Amherst relays
March 4 - Orono relays
March 15 - Bowdoin (practice meet)

The meets against Colby and Bowdoin are practice meets because of a ruling from Orono preventing UMP from competing against common foes of the Orono teams. Coach Martin has received new hooded sweatshirts for some of the members and "honey packs" for energy before meets. Also, an added attraction which cannot be explained here because it still has not had official approval, may motivate the team further.

By Bob Lapp

The UMP Vikings will open their 1966-67 basketball season tonight (Dec. 1) against St. Francis College. Game time will be 8:00 p.m. at Lincoln Junior High School. More on the Merger

All of you who may have any opinions on the proposed merger with Gorham and moving UMP to Gorham, now have a chance to present your feelings to the trustees. The local trustees welcome a collection of individual responses to the report which will be presented at the trustees' meeting on Saturday, Dec. 3.

Type or write legibly your response and, signed or not, turn it in to Mr. Van Amburg's office or to Mr. Burke by noon Friday, Dec. 2. Do not miss this chance to present your ideas on this controversial topic.

Veterans

On Tuesday, Dec. 6 at 3 P.M., Mr. Nixon from the Veterans' Administration at Togus will be in room 326 LBH to answer questions you may have on the GI Bill. Please try to attend and be prepared to ask questions which may be bothering you.

ATTENTION BASKETBALL FANS!

The UMP Vikings open up their season against St. Francis on Thursday, Dec. 1. On Saturday, Dec. 3 the Vikings clash with Nasson. Both games are at Lincoln Junior High School on Stevens Avenue. And for all you "cheap" sports buffs the Games are Free. savings of one dollar per couple if the tickets are bought in advance. Tickets will be on sale the rest of the week at the entrance to the cat. and in the Student Union on Friday night during the dance.

This is the first "top-notch" entertainment that has been offered to the students at UMP; let’s make it a success. The concert committee reports that there is a conflict between the concert and UMP’s second basketball game.

(Boston Symphony, from Page 1, col 2) Four movements and Poulenc’s trio for these instruments in three movements. Tickets costing $2.50 may be reserved at the University of Maine in Portland by calling 773-2981, extension 313.

The Boston Symphony Chamber Players as these first desk members of the orchestra are known, have won wide acclaim for their concerts at principal cities from coast to coast.

Because these first desk players do not participate in the nine-week Boston Pops season each spring, their most extensive tours take place in May and June, but they accept occasional bookings within driving distance of Boston at other seasons.

They have achieved marked success even since their first concert in New York City on January 31, 1966, received enthusiastic reviews in both the New York Times and the Herald Tribune, as well as in leading news magazines.

SENIOR PLACEMENT

A growing list of business and professional firms have been contacting the Placement Bureau at the University of Maine in Portland requesting interviews with students for job placement after graduation.

Interviews began Tuesday, November 22 on the Portland campus for Senior class members and will continue through March 1.

According to Frederick E. Freese, director of Placement at UMP, 96 of the 110 seniors have sought counsel through his office regarding their future plans, and over 80 of them have registered for placement opportunities.

Earlier this month, a representative from a local business firm met with students to help guide them in interviewing techniques. Accounting, insurance, and retail agencies, as well as representatives from branches of the military service, public utilities, and the State of Maine were among the organizations that applied for interviews with interested seniors.

Freese noted that nearly half of the class will seek careers in teaching, and approximately a third will enter the field of business. The balance will work on advanced degrees, study law, or pursue careers in Sociology, Psychology, Library Science or various other areas open to the Arts and Science student.

JOKES OF THE WEEK

Sorting out some recollections on the eve of his retirement, the registrar of a Maine college remembered a long letter from an "up-state" applicant. He asked a number of searching questions, but last two sentences read:

"I understand your college is co-ed.

Can I get a room by myself?"

STUDENT SENATE SCENE:

The last Student Senate meeting was held November 17; there was no meeting during Thanksgiving vacation.

Sue Rosen, senate treasurer, reported that there will be no budget planned for next year until the clubs submit their budgets.

Donna Sorenson, chairman of the Higher Education Committee said that her committee would wait until after Thanksgiving vacation to organize.

The Student Affair’s Committee was represented by Pat Moore, freshman senator. She reported that there will be an ID check, enforced no smoking, increased parking lot patrol, and someone at the door until midnight at each Saturday night dance. Pat added that a Hospitality Committee for the chaperones was suggested.

Gary Libby, chairman of the Constitution Committee, presented the constitution of the Club of Karate Do, the Young Republicans, and the Intercollegiate Council of Maine. Y.R.'s Constitution passed unanimously, Karate Do passed with one opposed, while the Intercollegiate Council was tabled for further consideration.
Bob Small requested that consideration of the Transportation Study Report be postponed until the next meeting. He said he would like more time to study the results.

Bob Norris, sophomore Senator, gave a financial report for the second varsity football team at UMP.

Costs:

- Equipment per player - $150-$200 new
- 120-140 used
- Insurance per player-$500 accident insurance
- Coaching - $5000-$7000 estimate
- Estimated Total - $15,725

Bob made some suggestions for meeting these costs:
1. Imposing a $15 per person activities fee - giving each UMP student free admission to athletic events. This would amount to $16,500.
2. Solicit funds from interested parties.
3. Donations from individual classes and clubs.

John Andrews, Junior Class President, suggested that a committee consisting of Senate President Mark Eastman, Bob Norris and Chet Mravcak and Bruce Morse, who assisted Bob in this report, consult Mr. Sturgeon and Mr. Sullivan on the coaching situation and present the entire report to the University officials. The motion was carried unanimously.

Mark Eastman read a letter from the University Stores stating that a 20% discount would be given to all recognized clubs and the individual classes on all items except books.

Bob Norris, sophomore, spoke up about the moving of an art exhibit to his art classroom, the Fair City of Portland and its offerings is somewhat limited. By chance through certain active people on campus I happen to become aware of several functions offered in the city. Being a new student to UMP, something of a transfer, my knowledge of Portland and its offerings is somewhat limited. By chance through certain active people on campus I happen to become aware of certain functions offered in the fair city of Portland, examples being the Concert series and the Community Theater Series, both of which were very good, notably the talk given 11/27/66 by Dr. Wald of Harvard.

It seems a good deal of people on campus are complaining of the dullness in extra-curricular activities, yet I saw few of these people at the above-mentioned functions.

I'm adding and suggesting that the newspaper or some other literary form take on the task of finding out just what is offered and when. Then publishing this knowledge for the benefit of the college community in the hopes that alleviation of this problem would arise.

Also it would be nice to see a few more editorials on a critical basis nature on contemporary problems, i.e., sex revolution, religion, is it dying or not etc. Some contribution appeal as well.

Sincerely, Kenneth Payson

THAT PLACE CALLED VIET-NAM

Fred Clark recently put up a map of Viet Nam (a large and very good one) on the inside of one of the windows of the old book store. We must have some students with relatives in Viet Nam. Also, some of our own students might one day be there. In any case, students
