Dear Ones-

Feast or famine - all that mail yesterday, none today. And after my long letter to you, finished late last evening, I find that I have little news to report. I am practically caught up on my correspondence. Tomorrow I work on the orientation program for the first time - today literally nothing to report except that I sent you a cable for your anniversary - a fact which I trust you know by this time. My reading on "The Ordeal of Richard Feverel" is progressing slowly; at first it was "The Ordeal of S.T.B." but I'm more into it now & am getting a big kick out of the classical whimsy. Tonight I'll probably go to the movie. I am well settled in my tent and my program [runs] along in a smooth unruffled way. I can't exactly claim that the war depends on my being here; I have a great deal of free time. I guess the "Army Way" thrives in surplus junior officers I'll add a line before sending this off in the morning.

The movie was exceptional - "2 Girls & a Sailor" or something like that - an MGM musical. It maintained good balance all the way through. Jimmy Durante stole the show for my money. Well - I'm off to bed.

Love -
Sumner
