

Don't send them by mail.
This is a lovely morning but rather cold.
Well I must go to school and finish this to night.

I got Ernest's letter this morn and so think I had better answer his now. Do as you please about sending those things but I thought it would cost less than it would for me to come home again and as we are very busy now I have to do considerably work Monday and think I cannot do much work when I go home.

Will close now and write a little note to Ernest with love from Harriet

My dear Mamma:
I received my shirtwaist and the note all right last night and was very glad to have you send the prices.
I have got to read a piece before the school next Thursday morning and Miss Andrews told me that it must some thing descriptive and a story. I am going to take the first proclamation of Miss Standish if she likes it. I have decided that I had better stay here until Thanksgiving now. Emily & Grace are going to stay and Charles expects to be here next Sunday and probably one other.

Would it be too much for me to ask you to send me my winter suits and that apron by express. It is growing rather cold and I think it is about time for me to be putting on my winter clothes.

It would not be a heavy package and would not cost very much I think. If you send them please put them in a box because if wrapped in paper they would be all to pieces before I got them.
