INCIDENTS RELATING TO THE EARLY HISTORY
OF THE
TOWN OF LEWISTON.

The aborigines of this country, though unlike the white settlers who succeeded them in the possession of the soil, in manners, customs and forms of worship, yet in one particular trait they were similar; of that of selecting the same sites on which to erect their habitations. The Indians, whose perceptions of the sublime in nature were not only acute but appreciative, from not having been satiated by gazing upon exhibitions of art, were the sons of the Ocean, the Lake, or the River as well; for the banks of every river, together with its tributaries, were claimed and occupied by some tribe, and the locations for their towns were in general at some waterfall, where nature had been most lavish in beautifying and adorning, where they could gaze upon and admire the works of the Great Spirit, while they roamed for fishing and hunting over all the country drained by the river on which they dwelt; deeming those delightful situations and choice hunting grounds fitting gifts bestowed by the great Manito, upon his red children, on which to procure subsistence for themselves; to plan the foray upon neighboring tribes, to dance the war dance in anticipation of a victory over their enemies, and on its achievement to smoke the pipe of peace; and instead of defining those possessions by geographical limits or boundaries, as definitely as do civilized man, they were thus determined: If, when the rain descended from heaven and lodged upon the earth, it went on its way to the ocean past the home of an Indian tribe, this fact was with those people the title deed by which they held possession. The banks of our noble Androscoggin were once the home of a powerful tribe of Indians, it being a branch of the Abenagues nation, which nation embraced all the Indians in Maine, except those located on the coast. This tribe was known by different names at different localities on the river, as the river itself, though known as the Androscoggin, yet that portion from Quabacook, now called Merrymeeting Bay, to Amitgonpontook, now Lewiston Falls, was called by the Indians Pejepscoot, while that portion of the river above Lewiston Falls was called Amoscongou.

Those Indians residing in the vicinity of Brunswick Falls, then called Pejepscoot Falls, and those at Lewiston Falls, then called Amitgonpontook, were called Anasagunticooks, while those in the vicinity of Livermore Falls and Canton were called Rocomekos, and those located still further north, at Rumford Falls, were called Penacooks

That those divisions on the Androscoggin River had each a representation in the council of the tribe, there can be no doubt, but that each division or tribe was in a manner independent and had its own chief or sagamore, is evident from the fact that in 1690, when the English made a five months' truce with six chiefs of the Abeneques tribe or nation, Worrumbsee represented the Pejepscot tribe, and Kankamagur the Pennacook Indians.

The Anasagunticooks were probably so called because they lived upon a river of that name spelled also Amariscoggin and Aesmanghawgen, though some have thought that the name of the river was derived from the name of the tribe of Indians who resided on their banks.

Lewiston Falls, called by the Indians the upper falls of Pejepscot, and Twenty-Mile Falls, was a favorite resort not only for all those whose homes were on the banks of the Androscoggin River, but for those also journeying from the coast to Canada, as the river was the route thither. They were not enticed here solely on account of the beauty of the location and varied scenery, or on account of the abundance of salmon and wild game with which the river and the adjoining forest were bountifully supplied, neither were they enticed here to avenge themselves upon some neighboring tribe, or upon the white settlers who first planted and sowed our fields and reaped our harvests; for they say that they were not only plenty but friendly ; neither were they enticed here by a spirit of enterprise, that would calculate how much machinery might be put into operation by our magnificent water-power, for their untutored minds were not capable of demonstrating such abstruse questions. But a more powerful incentive lured their steps thither—that of visiting the graves of their fathers. That at this spot was the general burying place of the tribe is evident from the number of skeletons which have been disinterred since its settlement by the whites. It is estimated that not less than fifty, during the last ten years, have been found on the west bank of the Androscoggin river, where now is situated the flourishing village of Auburn. No wonder that at this place they long loved to visit, even after the white man had called the place his own, and had acquired it by possession. No wonder that this place where so many fathers, mothers and children, forgetful alike of the toils and fatigues of the chase or the horrors of Indian warfare, had laid down to rest within the influence of the waterfall that hushed them to repose, while their spirits went forth to rove uninterrupted in the happy hunting grounds beyond the clouds, where the avaricious white man can never again despoil them of their heritage, or censure for acts of self preservation, when driven to desperation, and at the same time construe deeds of their own more reprehensible still, into acts of chivalry and noble daring.

In the year 1684, almost a century before any settlement was made by the whites, Werrumbee was chief of the Pejepscot tribe, who, together with several other sagamores, conveyed to Richard Warton and others a tract of land called the Pejepscot claim, the deed bearing date July 9th, 1684, and since the boundary of that tract which this deed conveyed was one hundred years subsequent, questioned and made a subject of litigation, and as much of the energy and hard earnings of the early settlers were squandered to satisfy the claims of those who administered the law, and since the excitement attending the delay of a decision, for many years retarded the settlement of the claim, we here give the purport of the convey :

“All the lands from the uppermost part of Androscoggin Falls, four miles westward, and so down to Maquoit, and by said river of Pejepscot, and from the other side of Androscoggin Falls, all the land from the falls to Pejepscot and Merry-meeting Bay to the Kennebec, and towards the wilderness to be bounded by a south west and north east line, to extend from the upper part of the said Androscoggin uppermost falls to the said river of Kennebec, and all the land from Maquoit to Pejepscot ; also all the land lying five miles above the uppermost of the said Androscoggin Falls in breadth and length, holding the same breadth from Androscoggin Falls to Kennebec river, and to be bounded by the aforesaid south west and north east line, and a parcel of land at five miles distance, to run from Androscoggin to Kennebec river ; in which claim what is now the town of Lewiston is situated."

The Indians, although generally friendly in the vicinity of Lewiston Falls, were not so in many localities, as the following will show :

To the Hon. Spencer Phips, Esq., Lt. Gov. and Commander-in-Chief for the Time being : The Hon. His Majesty's Council and House of Representatives in General Court, December 4, 1751. The Memorial of Samuel Whitney, of Brunswick, Humbly Showeth—

That your Memorialist and his son Samuel, with five more of the Inhabitants, while at work together mowing their hay, on Wednesday, ye 24th day of July last, about two o'clock in the afternoon, were surrounded and surprised by nineteen Indians and one Frenchman, who were all armed, in an hostile manner, did seize upon and by force of arms, obliged them to submit their lives into their hands, and one of our said numbers, viz: Isaac Hinkley, in attempting to make his escape, was killed in a barbarous manner and scalped ; after they were secured by said Indians, they destroyed and wounded between 20 and 30 head of cattle belonging to ye Inhabitants, some of which were the property of your memorialists. The said party of Indians were nine of them of Norridgewalk tribe, one of whom was well known; the others were Canada Indians. That the Norridgewalk Indians appeared more forward for killing all the captives, but were prevented by the other indians. Your memorialist was by them carried to Canada, and there sold for 126 livres. And the said indians, when they came to Canada, were new clothed, and had new guns given them with plenty of provisions, as an encouragement for this exploit. That the governor of the Penobscot tribe was present when your memorialist was sent for to sing a chorus, as is their custom of using their captives, and manifested equal joy with the other indians that took them; and the Norridgewalk tribe had removed from Norridgewalk, and were now set down on Canada river, near Quebec, supposed to be drawn there by the influence of the French. These things your memorialist cannot omit observing to your Honours, and his redemption was purchased by one Mr. Peter Littlefield, formerly taken a captive, and now resident among them, to whom your memorialist stands indebted for said 126 livres, being the price of his liberty, which, when he had so far obtained, he applied to ye Governor of Canada for a Pass, who readily granted it; that his return to Boston was by way of Louisbourg, where said pass was taken from him by the Lord Intendants on some pretence which he could not obtain of him. Your memorialist's son, yet remaining in captivity among the indians, with three more that were taken at ye same time, and he has a wife and children under difficult and distressing circumstances, by reason of this misfortune. Your memorialist, having thus represented his unhappy sufferings to this Honorable Court, humbly recommends his case to the compassion of this Honorable Court, hoping they will in their great goodness, provide for ye redemption of his son, and enable him to answer his obligation to said Mr. Littlefield, who was so kind to pay for his ransom. Your memorialist being in no capacity to answer that charge, as thereby he is reduced to great distress. Your memorialist as in duty bound shall ever pray, &c.

SAMUEL WHITNEY.

The endorsement on the back of the petition is as follows :—1751, Samuel Whitney and Hezekiah Purrington.

Captives taken. Hezekiah Purrinton, Samuel Whitney, returned; Edward Hinkley, Gideon Hinkley, Samuel Lombard, Samuel Whitney, Jr, returned; Isaac Hinkley, killed July 24th, 1751.

To John McKeen, Esq., we are indebted for the following particulars relating to the parties mentioned in the above memorial :

Hezekiah Purrington lived in Bath, on the other side of New Meadows river, over the old Turnpike bridge ;—some remember his son, who subsequently became a Quaker, and joined the sect in this town.

Deacon Samuel Whitney was a deacon in the church of the old first parish. He lived near where Robert Thompson now lives, near the old turnpike, but on the opposite side, and the cellar of his house is still to be seen ; he died in Brunswick, but his son moved away and may have been among those of the name who settled in Lisbon. A man of the same name there gave a deposition in the lawsuit with the Pejepscot Company. The Hinkleys were sons of Deacon Samuel Hinkley, who came to this town about the year 1735, from Truro, on Cape Cod, originally, but last from Saco or Biddeford. Deacon Hinkley brought with him six sons and four daughters; two of the daughters married sons of James Thompson, who lived on the lot of William Curtis, 2d ; the third married a Tebbets, the fourth married Samuel

Scammon, of Biddeford or Saco. Their descendants reside at Saco to this day. The sons of Deacon Hinkley were Seth, Shubael, Samuel, Edmund, Aaron, (formerly Judge Hinkley, who lived and died where the late William and Ephraim Larrabee lived,) and Isaac. Seth, the oldest was killed by the Indians, on May 2, 1747, while on his way from Thompson's Garrison up to Tobias Ham's Garrison, where Capt. Peterson lately lived, or near by where was Ham's tan yard,—for a strap for a cow bell. It was on his return he was killed. His remains were not found until the next spring.

Those, who were taken as above, were cutting hay, and had stacked their guns, without much thought that they were exposed. Mr. Purrington, who lived as stated before, on the other side of the river, considered them careless, and went over, and wending his way around by the woods to their stacked guns, intended to frighten them for their carelessness. He was surprised by a body of Indians the moment he got there, and they were all taken as above related. The place where they were taken was opposite where Thomas Grows now lives. These Indians were on their way from the sea shore to the carrying place at New Meadows; as they passed Ham's garrison they held a parley whether to attempt to capture it, but the appearance of a determined opposition prevented. The Gideon Hinkley of this party was son of the Seth killed. Isaac was killed while attempting to escape.

Lewiston was first entered for settlement in 1770, by Paul Hildreth, a man of a roving disposition, yet not wanting in courage, who, with his wife, and child only a few months old, immigrated from New Gloucester to Lewiston, and erected a log house or camp on the east bank of the Androscoggin river, about one half mile below the falls near where now stands the Porter mill, the territory being known as the Pejepscot claim, and the falls were called the Twenty-Mile-Falls. Here he remained during the summer and autumn, but was compelled on account of the loss of his habitation by fire, to return to New Gloucester to spend the winter.

The same year, Lawrence Jackson Harris, of Dracut, Mass., a man of feeble constitution, beside having the responsibility of a large family, yet possessed of untiring energy and perseverance, came to the then wilderness of Lewiston, accompanied by eight workmen, for the purpose of erecting a saw and grist mill, pursuant to an arrangement with Capt. Moses Little, of Newbury, and Col. Bagley, then the Pejepscot claimants, held by them under the Worrumbec deed.

To compensate him for erecting those mills, Mr. Harris was himself to receive two large lots of land at the Falls, one for a mill and the other for a settling lot, which embraced that portion, including the entire village, as far east as Lowell's corner, beside the very valuable unoccupied land belonging to the Franklin Company, the title of which remained in his family until 1810. For each of his five sons he was to receive 100 acres of land, to be selected in any part of the claim, and by them to be settled, who, subsequently, with the exception of Abner the eldest, who remained with his father, and succeeded him in his possessions, selected lots as follows:—John claimed and settled the lot known as the Thompson Farm, now in possession of Mark Lowell, Esq. Silas and Moses selected and settled lots in Greene, on which their sons Josiah and Andrew Harris now reside; and Barron, the youngest, being the first white child born in Lewiston, settled near his brothers in Greene.

John soon after removed to Greene, on a lot of land adjoining his brothers Silas and Moses, all of whom occupied and tilled their farms until their deaths. After erecting the frame of a saw mill, which was accomplished on the 29th of October, 1770, Lawrence Harris returned to Dracut, and on the spring following, 1771, he moved his family in order to commence a permanent settlement, bringing tools to finish the saw mill and to commence the construction of the grist mill.

This removal, which, by the same route now, would be of little moment, was to that family and their friends a work of time and of excessive toil. Mr. Harris and family, and a few workmen, embarked in two light boats, in which they stored their tools, goods and provisions, and after proceeding the entire length of the Merrimac river, from Dracut to its mouth, they took their boats in tow of a sailing vessel and disembarked at Harra-seket, now Freeport, from whence those boats were, by a spotted and bushed road, conveyed through the forest ten miles to Royalstown, now Durham, where they were again committed to the water, and by hauling by the great rips they arrived at twenty mile Falls, now Lewiston Falls, with safety to all those who embarked in them.

In the spring of the same year, 1771, and previous to the arrival of Harris, Paul Hildreth returned, accompanied by David Pettingill, with their families; and soon after the arrival of Harris, a man named Varnum came from Dracut, bringing with him his family, all settling on the east bank of the Androscoggin river, which place the settlers called Harris' Falls.

March 9th, 1773, Amos Davis, assisted by D. Purrington and Nathaniel Ingersoll, was employed by the Pejepscot claimants to survey and lay out fifty lots of one hundred acres each, commencing at the Androscoggin river, at the south west corner of the lot which Harris had selected for his mill lot, about one half mile below the Falls. Those lots were laid out N. E. and S. W. 160 rods, and N. W. and S. E. 100 rods, leaving a rangeway for roads around each four lots, being left at the south east and south west sides and ends of each lot where rangeways occurred. The same year, 1773, Thomas and Jonas Coburn and their families were added to the settlement.

June 25, 1774, Mr. Davis moved his family, having the summer previous erected a log house for their accommodation.

On the first day of February following, Israel Herrick and family immigrated from Boxford, Mass., to the plantation of Lewiston.

John Herrick, his son, settled near Barker's Mills, and for many years kept a public house, and whose deeds of liberality and philanthropy are fresh in the memory of many who now reside in that town, especially by those who received essential and efficient aid in the deprivations attendant on its early settlement. He served the town as Chairman of the Board of Selectmen for many years; also was a representative to the Legislature of Massachusetts, and finally was a delegate to that body who formed the constitution of Maine at Brunswick, in 1820. His son Oliver, familiarly known as Col. Herrick, was a captain in the war of 1814.

His son Ebenezer was a man of talent and education, and was elected representative to Congress, which trust he fulfilled with wisdom, and to the satisfaction of his district.

The revolutionary struggle brought in other settlers who sought refuge farther from the coast, and relief from oppressive taxation, in the wilderness; among whom, in 1776, were Jas. Garcelon, with his five sons and two daughters. One of those sons was Wm. Garcelon, father of Col. Garcelon.

Col. Wm. Garcelon for many years occupied a place of trust in the affairs of the town, and was universally esteemed for his urbanity of manners and his sympathy for the oppressed and needy, and is now one of the very few aged people in town whose mind is in no wise impaired, but is as vigorous as in his youth.

Josiah Mitchell, Joel Thompson, Stephen Coffin, Mark Pettengill, Joel and Jesse Wright, Solomon Cummings, and many others, settled previous to 1780.

November 1, 1788, Dan Read, father of Col. Stephen H. Read, immigrated from Massachusetts to the plantation of Lewiston, and was the first Justice of the Peace, and also the first Post-master in town, which office he held for forty years. He also served the Town in various offices of trust, as Collector, Treasurer, Selectman, Town Clerk. and for many years represented the town in the Legislature of Massachusetts, in all of which he gave satisfaction, and sustained the character of a good citizen and a very useful man.

In the Fall of the year 1785 was the great Freshet. The Androscoggin river overflowed its banks, and at no subsequent time has the water been so high.

The first Meeting House ever built in town was erected by the Society of Friends in 1811 and 1812, in the south part of the town. In 1818 a commodious wooden house, containing 86 pews, was erected by the Baptist society, at a cost of $2260, not far from the Friend's meeting house, which was occupied by that society for many years. The Freewill Baptist society built a house of worship in 1820.

The first school set up in the plantation was taught by Daniel Davis in a log house near the falls. Dan Read also taught a number of schools after he settled here, but among those who spent their best years in teaching the youth of Lewiston, after it had become incorporated, were William Bond, familiarly called Master Bond, who taught some part of every year except two, from 1807 to 1839, making some part of thirty years spent in teaching, a great part of which was in Lewiston, and Benj. Thorn, called also Elder Thorn, who taught nearly as many years as the former.

In February, 1795, the plantations of Lewiston and Gore, so called, were incorporated by the Legislature of Massachusetts into a town called Lewiston, deriving the name from that of an Indian named Lewis, who perished in the following manner:—His favorite beverage having mastered his reason, he embarked in his birch canoe above the falls, and when the rush of water was about to engulf him, he raised himself erect in his canoe and said the falls should be called Lewis' Falls, which name was adopted for the town. The following is a copy of the Act of Incorporation:—

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

In the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and ninety five—An Act to incorporate the plantations of Lewiston and Gore, so called, adjoining, in the county of Lincoln, into a town by the name of Lewiston.

Be it enacted, by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, that the following described tract of land, lying on the easterly side of Androscoggin river, beginning on the banks of said river, at the most westerly corner of the town of Greene, thence running south east in the southerly line of said town, about six miles to the Plymouth Company's line at the south easterly corner of Greene, as aforesaid, thence southerly in the line of the Plymouth Company's claim, six miles and two hundred and thirty rods. Thence south west about two hundred and fifty rods to Androscoggin river; thence northerly by said river to the bounds first mentioned, together with the inhabitants thereon, be, and they are hereby incorporated into a town by the name of Lewiston, and the said town is hereby vested with all the powers, privileges, and immunities which other towns within this commonwealth do or may enjoy by law. And be it further enacted, by the authority aforesaid, that Benjamin Merrill, Esq., be, and is hereby empowered to issue his warrant, directed to some suitable inhabitant of said town of Lewiston, requesting him to notify and warn the inhabitants thereof to meet at some convenient time and place, to choose such officers as towns are by law required to choose, in the month of March or April annually.

In the House of Representatives, February 12, 1795.

This Bill, having had three several readings, passed to be enacted.

EDWARD H. ROBBINS, SPEAKER.

In Senate, February 17, 1795.

This Bill, having had two several readings, passed to be enacted.

SAMUEL PHILLIPS, PRESIDENT.

February 18, 1795.

By the Governor.—Approved.

SAMUEL ADAMS.

True Copy—Attest,

JOHN AVERY, JR., SEC'Y.

From 1790, the settlers who inhabited that part of Lewiston known as the Pejepscot claim, which did not include the gore, doubted the validity of the deed which held the claim, and concluded that as the Worrumbsee's deed was a very indefinite instrument to be applied to any particular locality on the river, and especially to the territory lying in the vicinity of Lewiston Falls; and that in their opinions it embraced territory no farther north than a few miles above Brunswick Falls, and as government land could be obtained at a less price per acre, and in an easier manner of payment, that they would have the matter decided by the Supreme Court of the commonwealth. After a hearing it was decided in favor of the claimants, but, through the influence of Gov. Wm. King an act was passed called the bettering act, which extended to every settler who had improved the soil for six years; in pursuance of which, commissioners were appointed to appraise the land and betterments, and it was optional with the claimants to receive the appraisal or pay the betterments.—The settlers were to repair to Portland with the price of their farms, on a certain day, or by neglecting, loose possession. But this temporary quiet only gave place to contention, and soon another trial was obtained at Fort Weston, now Augusta, after which it went to a full bench, who decided, as did the Supreme Judicial Court, in favor of the claimants.

The following is the deposition of the Indian Perepole, taken from the collections of the Maine Historical Society, to be used in evidence in the case before mentioned :

I, Perepole, of lawful age, testify and say that the Indian name of the river was Pejepscook, from Quabacook, what is now called Merrymeeting bay as far as Amitgonpontook, what the English call Harris' falls, and all the river from Harris' falls up was called Ammascoggin, and the longest falls on the river was above Roccomecook about twelve miles, and those falls have got three pitches, and there are no other falls on the river like them, and the Indians used to catch the most salmon at the foot of those falls ; and the Indians used to say when down the river from Roccomecook, and when they got down over the falls by Harris', that now come Pejepscook.

The caption to this deposition being ancient will be to many a curiosity.

LINCOLN, SS.

July 19, 1793.

Then personally appeared the above named Perepole, after having been carefully examined, and duly cautioned to testify the truth relating to the cause wherein the above deposition by them subscribed, taken at the request of Josiah Little, and to be used on an action or plea of the case wherein the commonwealth is plaintiff, and Josiah Little is defendant, to be heard and tried at the Supreme Judicial Court, next to be holden at Hallowell, within the said county of Lincoln, and for the counties of Lincoln, Hancock and Washington, the second Tuesday next following the fourth Tuesday of June next. The cause of taking deposition is that the defendant lives more than thirty miles from the place of trial. The Attorney General was not notified, and was not present at the caption hereof taken and sealed up before me.

WILLIAM REED,
Justice of the Peace.

This unsuccessful attempt, on the part of the settlers to make void the Pejepscot claim in the the vicinity of Lewiston Falls, having subsided, since the decision of the judges, except an occasional meeting of indignation, as some settlers more vindictive than the rest excited the people to such a step, and even to resist the claims of laws which they say were enacted, by perverting justice, and the people having come to the conclusion that peace, if not obtained at too dear a price, was much better than war, submitted with as good grace as possible to this decision and settled for their land with the claimant. From this time until 1847 nothing occurred to hinder a gradual increase of settlers, which then numbered 330 families.

The first move made in the direction of manufactures, through the influence of which Lewiston has become a flourishing town, was in February, 1836, when a Company was formed called the Great Androscoggin Falls Mill Dam, Lock and Canal Company, with a capital stock of $500,000, the name of which was in 1845 changed to that of Lewiston Water Power Company, whose capital stock was in June 18, 1849, $2,000,000.

In 1854, the Franklin Company was incorporated, with a capital of $1,000,000, which company, in 1856, bought all the effects of the Lewiston Water Power Company, and now own all the water power at the falls.

The river breaking over a ledge of rocks which crosses it diagonally creates a natural fall of 40 or 50 feet, which by the aid of dams has been increased to from 60 to 75 feet, in a distance of 200 feet. The fall, for the distance of half a mile, has been estimated at 100 feet. Its present use, which bears little comparison with its capacity, may be shown by the following statistics :

The Franklin Company, beside possessing the water power and the greater portion of the unoccupied lands around the falls, runs two mills with 22,000 spindles, employing 300 operatives. The manufactures are principally white cottons.

The Bates Manufacturing Company, which was incorporated Aug. 16, 1850, and went into operation in April 1852, has a capital of $800,000, two mills, thirty five thousand one hundred and twenty eight spindles, and employs one thousand operatives, manufacture fine white cotton sheetings, shirtings, fancy cotton, and cotton flannels; average annual products of 3,000,000 yards, and a monthly pay roll of $15,000 or $20,000.

RD 12 The Hill Manufacturing Company has a chartered capital of $1,000,000, $400,000 of which has been assessed, with 22,400 spindles to manufacture fine cotton goods, for bleaching consumes annually 1750 bales of cotton, and employs 400 operatives, with a monthly pay roll of $7,800.

RD 15 The Lewiston Bagging Company has a capital of $150,000, one-half of which has been assessed. One mill, which was built in 1854, and went into operation in 1856, with 4500 spindles, manufactures grani sacks, with an average of 2500 sacks daily, employs 120 operatives, with a monthly pay roll of about $3,000.

The Lewiston Falls Manufacturing Company has a capital paid in of $59,000, and is wholly devoted to woolen goods, chiefly cassimeres, tweeds and flannels, and employs about 60 operatives, and uses annually 160,000 lbs. of wool.

There are also a Corn and Flour mill, having four runs of stone capable of making 150 lbs. of Flour per day; a saw mill having one single and one gang of saws, capable of cutting five million feet of lumber annually, with all the appliances for the manufacture of shingles, laths, blinds, doors and bobbins; also a large Card factory.

The Maine State Seminary, incorporated in 1855, and endowed by the State, is located here. There are also 14 school districts, and seven church edifices; two Freewill Baptist, one Calvinist Baptist, one Methodist, one Congregationalist, one Episcopal, and one Roman Catholic. The population in 1850 was 3,584, which has probably reached ere this, 7,000. Valuation for 1858, $2,500,000.

INCIDENTS
RELATING TO THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE
TOWN OF AUBURN.

The town of Auburn, situated upon the west bank of the Androscoggin river, opposite Lewiston, is bounded north by Turner, east by the river and Lewiston, south by the Little Androscoggin and Danville, and west by Minot. It was originally a part of a large territory, which included the present towns of Poland, Minot, and Auburn, and was called Bakerstown, from one Baker, who had received a title to the land. This territory was first incorporated as the town of Poland, Feb. 17, 1798, and was surveyed into lots during that and the following year, by Philip Bullen, and a Mr. Ballard. Copies of this survey are now in existence. In 1802 Poland was divided; that part now Minot and Auburn receiving the name of Minot, which was again divided in 1842, Auburn being set off. In 1859 the small portion of Danville, which lay north of the Little Androscoggin was added.

The town contains about 24 square miles of territory; nearly one third of which is covered by the waters of Wilson and Taylor ponds. The soil is productive, and for the most part is under a good state of cultivation.

Wilson pond, situated in the north part of the town, is a beautiful sheet of water, four miles long by two wide. It has a clear sandy bottom and regular shores.

Taylor pond, lying to the south west of Wilson, almost joining but unconnected with it, is two miles long by one wide. It has marshy shores and a muddy bottom, and abounds in pickereel.

There are four villages in the town, each of which claims a passing notice in this directory.

Auburn Village, was first settled by Joseph Welch, about the year 1797. Mr. Welch built his log house on the spot now occupied by the town pump, near Lufkin's building on Goff's square. His first "clearing" was made where now is the heart of the village. The second house, being the first framed one, was erected soon after by a Mr. Dillingham. This house is now standing near French's foundry, where it was then built, and is the one owned and occupied by Dr. Cook. Mr. Dillingham also built the first mill, a grist mill, on the foundry privilege. The third was a log house built by Solomon Wood, nearly opposite the house of Edward Little, Esq., which was nicknamed Solomon's Temple. One Michael Little raised a frame for a house on the hill west of Auburn depot, and built a cellar which can now be seen with large trees growing in it. This frame was never boarded, and the date of its erection is not known.

Settlers commenced much earlier in this vicinity than in the village. In June, 1789, Benjamin True, Jabez, Levi, and Daniel Merrill, from Turner, and Jacob Stevens, from New Gloucester, commenced a settlement of 500 acres of land on Merrill hill. In the spring of 1791, Elias Merrill of New Gloucester, bought out the proprietors on Merrill hill, except Mr. Stevens; and settled there his five sons, Elias, Jabez-Marshfield, Daniel and James.

At about this time the Pejepscot claimants were threatening the proprietors of this part of the town by prosecuting their title to the land. Mr. Moses Little, of Newburyport, Mass., father of the late lamented Edward Little, so long the guardian of our village, was the principal actor in these prosecutions. Massachusetts at last made good the Pejepscot claim; but having previously granted to John Bridgham and sixty-four others a large track, a part of which (Auburn) was included in this claim, the state was obliged to pay quite a sum to these claimants to quiet the settlers and relieve them from further annoyance.

About the year 1786, one John Nason erected the first mill at Nason's mills. In 1789 there lived in this neighborhood a Mr. Small, Daniel Moody, Samuel Starbird, Thomas Bailey, Samuel Emerson, Daniel Libby and Benjamin Coombs; also four or five families lived on the south shore of Wilson pond near Young's Corner. The first store in Auburn village was opened by Jacob Read, in a small building which was hauled from Lewiston on the ice, and located on Goff's corner. This was in 1822. Mr. Read sold to James Goff, Esq., who removed from Stevens' mills with his small stock he then had in trade, and took possession of Goff's corner in 1823. This situation he retained, as the principal trader of the village, until the great fire of 1855.

The first Congregationalist meeting house, being the first in the village, was built in 1832. At this time Josiah Little's house occupied the present site of the Elm House. James Goff's house and store, Jonathan Raynes's house and cabinet shop, and David Green's house were situated on the square opposite Phenix Block. David Green's tannery was on the site of Messrs. Miller & Randall's. Josiah Little and Samuel Pickard's store was near the upper end of Phenix Block, and Edward T. Little's law office near the lower end. Elisha Keen's tavern was on the site and was a part of Davis's hotel. John Smith lived in the small house near the meeting house. Edward Little lived in the Little house, which he built in 1828, the date of his removal from Lewiston. The same year Josiah and Thomas Little built the brick store (Mr. McKinney's.) These buildings and the Toll-house, one near Young's hotel, Doctor Cook's, and two in Pleasant Plains, Mr. Manley's and Mr. Nash's, are believed to be the only buildings then within the present limits of the village corporation.

At the present time, October, 1859, the village corporation contains 276 dwelling houses, 9 shoemaker's shops, 6 grocery stores, 2 ready-made clothing stores, 2 first-class hotels, 2 confectionery shops, 2 milliners, 5 paint shops, 3 livery stables, 1 book store, 1 drug store, 2 markets, 1 jeweler's shop, 1 boot and shoe furnishing store, 1 iron foundry, 1 cabinet shop, 7 shoe manufacturing companies, which give employment to about 150 hands, turning out 271,200 pairs of shoes annually at a valuation of $189,840. 1 tannery, in which are manufactured 6000 hides into leather annually, valued at $50,000. 1 fire engine house and engine, 1 cooper's shop, 4 school houses, 1 carriage manufactory, 1 bakery, in which there is manufactured into bread 600 barrels of flour annually; 1 bank, (Auburn) with a capital of $75,000; 1 harness manufactory, 2 blacksmith shops, 1 hardware store, 1 marble worker's shop, 3 meeting houses and as many churches; 1 academy, 1 bridge, built in 1823.

The Academy was incorporated in 1835. The Universalist meeting house was built in 1838. The railroad was finished and the cars first run to the village in November, 1848. Auburn Hall was built in April, 1855.

The great fire which consumed about 25 buildings on Goff's corner, and on the river side of Water street, occurred August 18, 1855. Phoenix Block was built the same year. The County Buildings were erected in 1856 and 1857, at a cost of about $100,000. The tannery of Messrs. Miller & Randall was again burnt September 5, 1859, and is now, October 1, 1859, in process of rebuilding. The new Congregational meeting house on High street is in process of erection.

WEST AUBURN.

This village is situated on an elevated site west of Wilson Pond, and five miles from Lewiston Falls. Among the first settlers who commenced about 1789, were James Parker, John Downing, Benjamin Noyes, J. Nason, a Mr. Bray and Mr. Verrill. In 1799, James Perkins, Asaph Howard, John C. Crafts and Azel Kinsley came from Bridgewater, Mass., and bought out the original settlers. James Perkins, the principal purchaser, was a blacksmith and manufacturer of hoes, shovels and axes, and in the time of the war of 1812 he made gun-barrels, table-cutlery, iron spoons, tobacco pipes, &c.

In 1805, May 29, the first meeting-house in the town was raised here. This was called the East meeting house, another in Minot being denominated the West. It was occupied exclusively by Congregationalists during the life time of Rev. Jonathan Scott, who was their minister. After his death it was occupied by Orthodox, Baptists and Universalists, according to the property owned by the several societies. In 1845, by permission of Court, the Orthodox proprietors bought the house, which the next year, 1846, was taken down, and the present house was erected on the old site. The same year the Universalists built their house on the opposite side of the street.

The first shoe manufacturing company, to which may be attributed most of the present business and wealth of the town, was organized as the Minot Shoe Company, January 3, 1835, by the choice of Asaph Howard, President, Benjamin Johnson, Vice President, Eliphalet Packard, Clerk and Treasurer, and Charles Briggs and Nehemiah Packard, Directors. The capital stock of said company was $5,000, divided into shares of $100 each. On the 2d of January this capital was increased to $10,000 by the sale of new stock at a premium of five per cent. L. R. Vining, of Woburn, Mass., was employed as agent of the Company for three years, at a salary of $500. May 1st, 1839, the lamented David Green, who was lost by the burning of the ill-fated Lexington upon Long Island Sound, January 13, 1840, was employed as agent of the Company, at a salary of $450. J. H. Roak was then employed by the Company until August 7, 1841, when the stockholders "voted to close business," making a dividend of their capital, which amounted to $12.39 per share. J. H. Roak bought the real estate of the Company, and continued the shoe business at the old stand until the spring of 1843, when he sold to C. S. Packard & Co. This Company has prosecuted the shoe business with much shrewdness and success to the present time.

The greatest number of shoes manufactured at West Auburn in one year was 3,000 cases, or 180,000 pairs, valued at $120,000. The present year, 1859, there will be about three-quarters of that number made.

The number of inhabitants within the delivery of West Auburn P. O. at this date, September 21, 1859, is 427 in Auburn, and about one-third or one-quarter of that number in Minot. The oldest persons in the village are the relict of Asaph Howard, 93, the relict of Elder Ricker, 89, the relict of John Staples, 88, and Ehanim Cary, Melzah Hill, and Daniel Kinsley, about 75 years of age.

There are 176 news-papers taken from the West Auburn P. O., as follows:—25 New York Tribune, 6 Ledger, 6 Mercury, 1 Independent, 3 Boston Journal, 1 Semi-Weekly, 2 Weekly, 1

Freeman, 1 Post, 6 Waverly, 1 Daily Argus and 1 Weekly, 1 Tri-weekly Advertiser—3 Weekly, 12 Mirror, 16 Transcript, 2 Zion's Advocate, 5 Youth's Companion, 20 Lewiston Falls Journal, 2 Advocate, 6 Evangelist, 1 Congregationalist, 1 Morning Star, 5 Maine Farmer, 3 Gospel Banner, 4 Cosmopolitan Art Journal, 6 Missions Herald, 2 Atlantic Monthly, 12 Peterson, 20 Journal of Missions.

When the shoe business commenced, in 1835, there were but four dwelling houses within one-fourth mile of the P. O.; there are now 23. The whole number then within the P. O. delivery was 38, the present number is 87.

NORTH AUBURN.

This village is situated at the head of Wilson Pond one mile north of West Auburn. It was first settled by Simeon Caswell, from Plymouth county, Mass., about 1787. Mr. Caswell built the first mills upon the stream, which he sold in a few years to Isaac Brett, from Bridgewater. Mr. Brett remained in possession of the mills until 1815, when he sold to Timothy Bailey, the father of the Baileys now prominent citizens of the village. During the first 18 years of the present century, five dwelling houses were erected; one by Isaac Brett near the present site of T. Bailey's mansion, one by Nathan Warren on the site of F. H. Lander's cottage, one by Artemas Warren on the site of Asa Holmes's house, another where the tavern now stands was occupied by Artemas Brown and David Warren, both as a dwelling and store, and the fifth, near where P. H. Keith now resides, by Cheslea Hatch.

In 1820, Nehemiah Packard and his son Stephen Packard purchased the mills of Mr. Bailey, and erected the house now occupied by Peter Noyes, Esq. Mr. S. Packard sold one third of the water privilege to Messrs. Bradford & Conant about the year 1848, who erected a machine shop and furniture manufactory on it.

Joseph S. Sargent, from Hallowell, Maine, built a tannery near the mills in 1825. In 1851, the mills, machine shop, furniture manufactory, and tannery were consumed by fire, which, except the tannery, were immediately rebuilt, and are now in successful operation.

There are at this time, Sept. 21, 1859, 300 inhabitants in the village, 46 dwelling houses, 1 hotel, 2 stores, 1 Saw mill, 1 Grist mill, 1 Furniture manufactory, in which about 12 hands receive constant employment, doing a business of some $12,000 annually; 2 blacksmith shops, 1 tailors' shop, 1 Milliner and Mantau maker, and 2 Meeting houses, one of which, Universalist, was dedicated Dec. 8, 1858, the other, Methodist, was dedicated Dec. 9, 1858.

H. M. Bearce & Co. manufacture 25,920 pairs of copper toed shoes per month, at a cost of about $16,000. They also manufacture 200,000 metallic tips per month. Three other companies manufacture about 3,828 pair of shoes per month, at an average cost of $3300. Besides the above there are two or three manufactories of custom made boots and shoes.

EAST AUBURN.

This village is situated at the outlet of Wilson Pond, three miles from Lewiston Falls.

May 1, 1797, William Briggs removed from Dighton, Mass. and settled here a large family of children. At this time Benjamin Pettingill, Joshua Taylor, from Lewiston, and Phillip Peaslee, had settled near the Lowell place on the river road. Thomas Chadbourne, Arauna Briggs, from Turner, Samuel Berry, from Cobbessecontee, Elijah Fisher, from Taunton, Mass., John Dillingham from Dighton, Mass., Elisha Reccord, William Frances and Thomas Lombard, were in the neighborhood of the present village.

The first Grist mill upon the stream was built by Mr. Berry. A Saw mill was built in 1792 or 1793. A second Grist mill was built in 1798 or 1799. The first Meeting house (Baptist) was built in 1819. The present one, also Baptist, in 1849. The first School was taught in Mr. Berry's house, in 1798, by Daniel Briggs, Esq., who is now living.

The village, at this time, Oct. 1859, contains about 35 Dwelling houses, 3 or 4 Shoe shops,

2 Stores, 2 Shoe manufactories, which produce some 200 cases annually, 1 Brush factory, 1 Carding machine, 1 Peg factory, 1 Grist mill, 1 Saw mill, 1 each, Shingle, Clapboard and Planing machine. There is one settled minister. The place never had a doctor or lawyer.
