Dear Anna,

Anna E. Hauke

Since you & Debbie have become identical, I don't suppose you will lower yourself to speak a poor little warm like me who is the scum under your dainty little feet.

Remember that fatal day that you got up in Clifford Oscar's class and made the flowery speech about the characteristics of a good teacher? You left me gasping for breath and I've never lost a certain sense of awe and wonder when I think of it.

We've certainly have some small old times going ourselves up with water globe and India ink. Art was no friend to us was he? But "Jim" has been a terrible pest hasn't he?

"Maqua" sounds good to me right now. Wonder how we'll feel about it next year at this time? Hope it leaves pleasant memories!! All of which reminds me that I haven't told you how much I hope you are a great success in "Cal's" shoes next year.

Don't forget to come to 55 next year!

Love,

Lawrence Hinkle

Theme: Hilltops

"You can climb to the top of the loftiest hill,

If you work.

You can make of yourself whatsoever you will,

If you work.

A faith you must have, rooted deep in your soul,

A purpose unshaken, a firm self-control;

Strive on, without ceasing; you'll reach to the goal,

If you work."

DEDICATION

"Who knows a mountain?

One who has gone

To worship its beauty

In the dawn,

One who has slept

On its breast at night,

One who has measured

His strength to its height.

One who has followed

Its longest trail

And laughed in the face

Of its fiercest gale;

One who has scaled its peaks

And has trod

Its cloud swept summits

Alone with God."

FOREWORD

It is fitting that the theme of this book be hilltops. Ours is a school on a hill and is dedicated to the training of those most earnest of hill climbers, the teachers.

Though we ourselves may not behold the top, the vision in our hearts is so clear that we may help younger feet to avoid our stumbling places and with words of encouragement point out the pathway to the top.

In appreciation of the unselfish service to mankind rendered by teachers we have known and in recognition of the high ideals of future teachers, we chose as the theme of our book that symbol of progress which has ever inspired man — a hilltop.

TO THE CLASS OF 1932

In a few days many of you will have been graduated from the Gorham Normal School; will have left its hilltop as an alumnus of the school instead of a student in the school. For many of you your school-student days will be permanently over and you will be looking forward to school-teacher days.

May your anticipation be rewarded and may next September find you a teacher in some school in which you will achieve both happiness and success. If it were in my power to do so I would see that this wish in your behalf were fulfilled. It is not. Its fulfillment lies primarily in the hands of the employing superintendent but after that, it is in your hands.

If, perchance, the superintendent should not give you an opportunity to demonstrate your willingness and your fitness to succeed, there are then two courses open to you. First, to wait and loaf till a chance comes. This course is deadening and probably hopeless. The second open way is to make the intervening time count toward better preparation for future study or by apprentice teaching in some excellent system, even without pay.

Whatever happens do not let yourselves be classified in that unfortunate group of drifters which Secretary Wilbur speaks of as "all dressed up educationally and no place to go."

HILLTOPS

The hills of home were low and broad.
I'd climbed them all and stayed
Long hours 'neath the summer sun
Or in the evening shade.

I was content with my small lot.
The stars were far away,
Life was so easy, effortless,
The future bright and gay.

But suddenly I felt unrest,
A deep, insistent cry
To leave the low hills I had known,
To reach up to the sky.

To climb the high hills, higher yet,
To stretch my arms afar,
To rock the cradle of a moon,
And touch the farthest star.

The years have passed, the way is steep,
I have not scaled the heights.
But a Power great beyond my ken
Has led my steps aright.

My burden's growing lighter,
For with each passing day
I learn another lesson
To help me on my way.

And still my steps lead upward,
My face is toward the sky,
Still is my desire
High as the hills are high.

I'll reach the hilltop, higher yet,
And stretch my arms afar;
I'll rock the cradle of a moon,
And touch the farthest star!

ADVANCED SENIORS

Teaching is the hill of our desires and ambitions. During our first year we were placed in a new environment, away from previous influences and were made more independent. Many lasting friendships were formed and we shaped the foot of our hill with preliminary knowledge through observation and study. The second year developed our knowledge and gave us practical association with our work through practice teaching.

We are now completing our three years' training in Gorham Normal School and we have a clearer view of that hilltop. Our work was based on a very simple philosophy of government—the use of our personal character and initiative as the prime requisites in educational and social life. With the background we have gained through the excellent coöperation of the faculty, we face our hilltop with foresight and great joy because it means financial independence and a respected place in the community with an opportunity to benefit through educating children.

CAMPUS SONG

Campus greeted us in autumn
When the leaves were green and gold,
And it bids farewell in springtime,
Tinted pink its flowers unfold.
And it's ringing with singing
As tribute of praise we're bringing
'Neath the pines and the maples
Tow'ring green on Normal Hill.
And it's ringing with singing
As tribute of praise we're bringing
'Neath the pines and the maples
Tow'ring green on Normal Hill.

Now the blue of June's above us
And the green of June's beneath,
And o'er all the dear old campus
June, her fragrant air doth breathe.
And we'll picture forever
This last joyous day together
'Neath the pines and the maples
Tow'ring green on Normal Hill.
And we'll picture forever
This last joyous day together
'Neath the pines and the maples
Tow'ring green on Normal Hill.

WHY I TEACH

LOUIS BURTON WOODWARD

Because I would be young in soul and mind
Though years must pass and age my life constrain,
And I have found no way to lag behind
The fleeting years, save by the magic chain
That binds me, youthful, to the youth I love,
I teach.

Because I would be wise and wisdom find
From millions gone before whose torch I pass,
Still burning bright to light the paths that wind
So steep and rugged, for each lad and lass
Slow-climbing to the unrevealed above,
I teach.

Because in passing on the living flame
That ever brighter burns the ages through,
I have done service that is worth the name
Can I but say, "The flame of knowledge grew
A little brighter in the hands I taught,"
I teach.

Because I know that when life's end I reach
And thence pass through the gate so wide and deep
To what I do not know, save what men TEACH,
That the remembrance of me men will keep
Is what I've done; and what I have is naught,
I teach.

SENIORS, GENERAL COURSE

“Remember, you cannot have ability unless you do what Lincoln did—study and prepare yourself.” That thought remained uppermost in my mind throughout my two years at normal school. As I observed life on the Hill, I saw some students who looked ahead, ahead until they were within reach of what we all dreamed we would some day be worthy of reaching. Why did these people rise faster than the others? They invited responsibility, accepted cheerfully and courageously agreeable and disagreeable duties and did them promptly and loyally. They created in their minds an ideal to strive for—that of being worthy of reaching the Hilltops offered in their normal school training. Then they worked for this aim, this ideal, with all their energy and enthusiasm. All of us may feel that our experiences during our two years spent on Normal Hill will act as a guide to greater attainments. Let us strive to keep ever before us the high ideals of Gorham Normal School.

MID-SENIORS

Two years ago we came to the hilltops of Gorham Normal School prepared to grasp all we could of the knowledge and growth the school has to offer us. Those two years have been glorious ones, spent in happiness in our work with the faculty and the students. We look forward to another pleasant year, during which we shall continue to climb that greatest of all hills, the hill of understanding and knowledge. G. N. S. has done far more for us than to offer us knowledge; it has opened whole new fields and wider capacities for happiness and efficiency. It has put us on a new, higher plane; it has led us up to a hilltop we can never descend, the hilltop of a wider, fuller life.

JUNIORS

History continually repeats itself. We read of ancient leaders and teachers who climbed to the hilltops to gain strength and receive visions. Further accounts tell that the added strength and clearer understanding they gained from these quests for wisdom were passed on to those waiting for the leaders' words of guidance.

Juniors, as yet, have not that degree of competence necessary in a good teacher. But in the faculty we have a group of men and women who are trained leaders, rich both in wisdom and experience. We find their willingness to share our problems, and direct our efforts, and we are not unappreciative of their help.

We all have our visions, each varying in its degree of clearness, but all similar to the extent of an underlying oneness of purpose, a desire to be of service to others. With whatever degree of clearness our powers permit us, we look for the time spent on this hilltop at Gorham Normal School to strengthen us and give us a reserve supply on which to draw as later needs demand. And every day that passes sees us one step nearer the desired goal.

Eric Chandler.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1893-95 AT GORHAM NORMAL SCHOOL

Against the blue and gold of the western sky, one brick building on the hilltop.

In the vale "The Old Seminary," backed by the Waterman pines.

Among the poplars and the evergreens, the stately "Old Academy," closed to all who would intrude.

In the springtime and autumn, gay youth traveling the pine-needed path from dormitory to school.

In heavy winter storms, Hanson's horses and sled at the door to transport a laughing group to the hilltop.

One clear October morning, the burning of the dear "Old Seminary."

The hospitality of Gorham friends who opened their homes to the homeless.

The coming, that last year, of two new members to the faculty, who were destined to have a great influence on the future of the school, not only as teachers but one as a builder of character, the other as builder of a school—Katharine Halliday and Walter Earle Russell.

There was the faculty of eight, who strove to make life real and earnest. Two of these stand out whom we were fortunate in having as teachers and whom we were happy to call friends. A whole generation that attended the school knew them both and loved them. That generation went out into life stronger for having met them. It carried into the world their visions and aspirations for youth. It is not easy to put into words what Viola M. White and William J. Corthell meant to many of us. Our only hope is that we may be able to help others to realize something of the inspiration they gave during those school years and something of the lasting results both to the students and to the school. They tried to give us some of the enthusiasm for learning and teaching which they possessed. They disliked bluffing, they "detested vulgarity." They loved truth and were not afraid of work. Petty thinking was not theirs. Humor and humanity they both had. They were scholars, and looked upon life in a large way. Happy is the student who can recall the life and words of these two large-souled teachers whose teaching and whose character alike inspired to high attempt.

Cora Dillingham Roberts, '95.

I have been asked by your editor to write some reminiscences of my Gorham Normal School days for the GREEN AND WHITE, the theme being "Hilltops."

I do not know of any other class in our alumni that has an organization and that meets every year. These gatherings are a sort of afterglow of our school days. We look forward to them with the greatest pleasure, for we are then on the mountain tops of class fellowship, and feel around us the beautiful sunset colorings of over fifty years of friendship. This meeting of old school-mates is more delightful to me than any event I can remember during my school days, although my memories of G. N. S. are very happy ones and I simply adored our "Pater."

I wish every class in our alumni would follow the custom of the "Strawberries" in meeting annually. Our reunions grow more precious as the years go by. Meeting the children and grandchildren of our classmates is a very interesting feature of these gatherings.

Addie Spear Dolloff, '80.

THE INFLUENCE OF G. N. S.

You ask for events from my G. N. S. days
That outstand for me over the rest;
I think it was not the spectacular plays
That have helped me to stand the test.

I think it's the silent, everyday force
That speaks loudest to me through the years;
The things that, "petty" and "wrong" at the time,
Have helped me to smile at my fears.

We had lessons to learn, and more studies than time,
Or so we thought and complained,
But the faculty knew our weakness and kind,
And our lessons were learned just the same.

Restriction and discipline are good for us all,
Though often with our pleasures they mix;
Still, I oft hear a voice quoting from Paul:
"It is useless to kick against the pricks."

When assignments were made, Dr. Russell has said,
"It is your privilege to do" thus and so;
Privilege, indeed! Youth tossed up her head.
Ah, yes, privilege, did she but know!

So 'tis making the best of what the day brings,
Smiling bravely through discipline tests;
'Tis the privilege of sharing all we have gained
That's the influence of old G. N. S.

Grace Stubbs Hall, '08.

GREEN AND WHITE

I shall strive to write something of what "Hilltop" has meant to me, both as a student and as an alumnæ member.

The life at Gorham is fully as important as the classes, and it will be remembered long after lessons have been forgotten. The friendships and helpfulness, the learning how to live with one's neighbors, these are the fundamental things.

When I entered Gorham, I was self-conscious and lonely in a crowd. I knew the fault was mine, but I had found no way to remedy it. My feeling of inferiority and strangeness left me at once and I've never found it again. It is selfishness and a waste of time and nerve energy, anyway. Find something useful to do, something you can do well; exert every power upon it, and that's your salvation.

I enjoyed and appreciated my education there because I had taught before and had a little of the viewpoint of a teacher. G. N. S. should be especially proud to have such a fine faculty. I found every one of my teachers an inspiration to me: Mr. Russell, with his wisdom and dignity and friendly sportsmanship; Miss Stone's intellectual leadership; Miss Keene, with her love of Nature and precision in organizing subject matter; the poetry in the scientific attitude of Mr. Woodward; Miss Hasting's forcefulness and helpfulness; Mr. Wieden, who sets one thinking; the great help Miss Rhynsbarger and Miss Andrews gave me in music. They are both musicians and splendid friends. Miss Halliday's Christian influence has been deeply felt throughout the school, and she is the mainstay of the yearbook staff. How fair and wise is our Dean, Miss Jordan, no one can appreciate unless she stops to consider that this is the hardest task of all. No one is more suitable than she, and she needs the encouragement and coöperation of every student.

Other members of my class will recognize some of the events which stand out in my mind looking back over the two fullest years of my life: The reception when we were juniors, and our changed viewpoint at the junior reception, when we came back as seniors; the Annie Louise Cary Club, where I met many of the townspeople; singing Christmas music in the Chapel; practicing long and hard all winter for "Briar Rose" and its triumphant performance; and again last year for "Once in a Blue Moon." One Easter Sunday a crowd of us got up at daylight and hiked out to Fort Hill for a Sunrise Service. All have memories of the dances we had in Center; the Y. W. C. A. meetings; the Cabaret and the Fair at the Gym; the Hallowe'en parties and the memorable Ghost Walk through Cortell; innumerable basketball games, some triumphant, some disappointing, but all results met in a sporting way; Commencement, time of triumph and sadness, joy and tears; then a flat, inevitable feeling when it was over.

Time passes so quickly. Another year is gone. I am teaching at Orrington in a rural school of eight grades; eighteen of my twenty-five pupils are boys. My home is near enough so that I walk to school.

I want to extend my love and best wishes for true success and happiness to everyone.

Marjorie Kendall, '31.

"Hilltops"—a more appropriate theme could not have been chosen for the GREEN AND WHITE!

What Gorham graduate would not be reminded of that hilltop in Gorham on which stands dear old G. N. S., the scene of so many pleasant days.

On a certain September morning in 1922, I first became acquainted with G. N. S. Arriving on the train, I soon found myself amid the throng of happy, laughing girls, the seniors naturally being the happiest. The homesick juniors were soon made welcome, and tears were changed to laughter.

Well do I remember the first Student Council meeting in the "Center," at which the seniors presided in the absence of Miss Keene. Such a deep impression they made that not once did my roommate and I dare to speak above a whisper for nearly the whole evening.

A finer corps of teachers could not be found, each one there for service and always ready to lend a helping hand.

It is indeed a pleasure to meet them again whenever at G. N. S., and how proud we are of our own Dr. Russell.

I am glad to belong to G. N. S.!

Many changes have taken place in these few short years since 1923, and we know they are for the advancement of Education. The new buildings are an asset to G. N. S.

Space would not permit me to mention half the good times had at Normal School. They are among my treasured memories, and surely every girl and boy who has attended Gorham Normal has many, too.

Of the friendships made in Gorham Normal School, many are lasting, and those I cherish. Even now as I write,

"My heart goes back
To wander there
Among the dreams
Of days that were."

Wealthea A. Richardson, '23.

When the summer stars are shining
On the school we love so well,
June will always find us pining
For the spires of dear Cortell.
Oh, the happy hours we pondered
As we planned our future way!
On the Campus green we wandered,
Viewing Nature day by day.
Through the years we travel, singing
Of lands in which we roam;
The GREEN AND WHITE is flinging
Colors to call us home.

Geneva Merrifield, '31.

GREEN AND WHITE

"Hilltops"—what a beautifully expressive theme for a yearbook—a theme which can inspire, guide, and provide a measure of attainment to the readers of the issue.

As I have been thinking of it, somehow all of life seems to me a matter of hilltops—hilltops of our finest ideals; hilltops of our most secret ambitions; hilltops of our outward successes.

A hilltop, should it be the top of the tiniest hillock or the peak of the tallest mountain, is a challenge to those who stand at the bottom and gaze upward. It is a dare to attempt its height. It is this challenge—this unspoken dare—that proves an inspiration that beckons us on to the finer, for none of us has stood at the peak of any hill without seeing in the distance a hilltop just a little higher, a little more difficult to attain.

Few of us realize, nor can we be blamed for our blindness, just what possibilities stand within our power of attainment. It is to permit us a glimpse into the future so that we may prepare ourselves to climb the most rugged and difficult hills that are in the pathway of our lives that we are given the opportunity of education.

I believe that was one of the biggest things that Gorham Normal School did for me.

Most of the students who climb the well-worn path of Campus Hill the first day of school in the fall have come as I did from homes where they have been sheltered and protected, from high schools where their teachers knew them intimately and worked on their individual talents. It is the first test of one's ability to climb hills that one meets in this entirely strange environment where it is necessary to make a name for oneself and develop one's own talent. If this test is successfully met and the first storms of strangeness weathered, then G. N. S., with its well-trained faculty, has much to offer the student.

By displaying new viewpoints on life and its possibilities, they point out to the individual the hilltops in the distance which, properly equipped, he may attain. The efforts of the individual then determine his goal. He has had his vision—the rest is for him.

Among all the things we thank Gorham for, most of all we thank it for the visions of possibilities we were shown. This short poem seems to express my closing thoughts on your splendid theme:

He saw in the distance the top of a hill.
He went to work with the best of his will.
He stumbled and fell but still he went on
And worked at his task from dusk until dawn.

For all who would live there is some distant peak,
The high for the strong—the low for the weak.
With desire to climb and never to stop,
Life gives to him most who climbs to the top.

Shirley Hartley, '31.

GREEN AND WHITE

Dear Readers:

Hello, schoolmates! It certainly makes me happy to be able to talk with all of you again. Memory is sending a great many pictures from my treasure chest for me to enjoy, as I always shall.

Yes, I am teaching. I am principal of Hallock Memorial School, located in Plainfield, Massachusetts. Did I say teaching? A better word would have been studying. I get more and more pleasure from studying children and trying to find the reasons for their many and varied acts. Every child presents a different problem, and every problem seems to have a more interesting solution than the one before it.

My school reminds me of a huge laboratory where numerous experiments in psychology are carried out each day. Of course I am most interested in the results of these experiments. As it appears to me, my job is to create situations. As long as I am able to keep the right situations foremost, the reactions are satisfactory.

But let's talk of other things. I stand on a hilltop among the Berkshires and look northward and eastward toward those other hilltops of Maine. I wish that by some miracle I might fly from my hilltop to yours, to work and play with you again, if only for a day or two. However, as that is impossible, I take this opportunity to express my best wishes for a better GREEN AND WHITE than ever before.

Sincerely yours,

Harold W. Hallett, '03.

It may not seem at all psychological for a former student of G. N. S. who is—to use a well-worn phrase—"among the unemployed" to write an article for the GREEN AND WHITE. I can tell you that when I was asked to do so, my courage was about as high as that of a person in the reception room of a dentist's office waiting for that cheerful "Next!"

Nevertheless, here goes!

I wouldn't give up the friendships I have made, the knowledge I have acquired and the good times I had while at G. N. S. for anything in the world.

Although I have no permanent position at present, I still stand by that magical word "Hope" and look forward to this coming year. I have been doing some substitute work in Grades II and III. I especially liked Grade III.

Remember—if you want to make good—if you will persevere, just give the spoon in that alphabet soup of yours one more good twist. Two to one you'll spell Success for yourself.

Wishes for the best of everything to Gorham Normal School and the GREEN AND WHITE.

Madelyn B. Smith, '31.

WAIT AWHILE

Copper'd domes on dormitories
Tintured green in Nature's style—
Shall we soon forget them?
Wait awhile!

Snowbound campus, scenes of hurry,
Walks and trees and old sun-dial—
Imagine G. N. S. without them?
Wait awhile!

Games and trips and many conquests,
Lost and won before us file—
Shall we forget these recollections?
Wait awhile!

Examinations, tests and quizzes
Rising spectre-like to smile
At our puny efforts—Miss these?
Wait awhile!

All those social times in Center,
Winter sports in "olden style"—
Perhaps we'll soon overlook these, also!
Wait awhile!

May Ball slipped by once a year,
Come and gone with all the style—
Were we glad the year had gone?
Wait awhile!

Graduation time soon followed,
Not complete without its trial—
We'll not remember all those friendships?
Wait awhile!

ORGANIZATIONS

The purpose of the numerous clubs and organizations of Gorham Normal School is to encourage and aid in developing in their members such desirable and useful qualities as fellowship, loyalty to a worthy cause, a spirit of coöperation, sociability and leadership.

Among the leading social factors of the school are the numerous county clubs, which strive to bring together all the members of each county for further acquaintance and understanding. The clubs give entertainments during the year and are very active organizations. Among the counties already represented by these clubs are: York, Washington-Hancock, Aroostook, Oxford and a club for all students from Massachusetts.

The fraternities, Lambda Pi Sigma and Alpha Lambda Beta, are strong influences, binding the young men of the school together, encouraging, as they do, a feeling of fellowship and goodwill. These clubs sponsor a fraternity ball, banquets and at least one dramatic entertainment during the year.

Under the supervision of our music instructor, Miss Miriam Andrews, the musically inclined students are organized into three very active groups, the girls' glee club, the boys' glee club, and the orchestra. The girls' glee club sang during Teachers' Convention at Keith's Theatre and at Portland City Hall, at the dedication exercises of Russell Hall, on Superintendent's day, and, with the boys, presented the operetta "Mam'zelle Taps." The orchestra is composed of twenty-five well balanced pieces. It furnishes music at all of our entertainments.

Closely allied to the music clubs is the Dramatic Club, which is composed of a selected group of about forty members and is under the direction of Miss Jeanette Johnson, instructor in English and Literature. This year the club presented the plays "Kidnapping Betty," "The Right Answer," and "Depression Takes a Holiday," a skit written by one of the student body, Miss Gretchen Waltz.

The Art Club, the Commuters' Club and the Outdoor Club are three other active organizations all encouraging development in their particular fields and in coöperation and understanding. The Outdoor Club sponsors twenty hikes during the year and those who attend twelve are awarded a monogram.

DEDICATION SPEAKERS

Mr. Chairman, faculty, students, and friends of Gorham Normal School:

You are all familiar with that old Irish ballad which states, "Ireland Must Be Heaven For My Mother Came From There." I have like sentiments toward the Gorham Normal School and was, therefore, pleased that Governor Gardiner chose me to express to you his sincere regrets at his inability to be present on this occasion. In his behalf I extend to you the greeting of the State.

On the ninth day of last November there was born to Governor Gardiner a child; or, properly speaking, upon that date the electorate for this State gave Governor Gardiner's child a license to live. The child goes by the name of Administrative Code. Like any husky growing child this one is for the present taking the entire time and attention of its fond parent. In truth, it would not be surprising if it were exercising a child's prerogative and causing our dear Governor to walk the floor nights. He begs to be excused.

To truly represent the Governor is to be brevity personified. The last time I heard him speak his opening remark was, "And in conclusion let me say—."

The Gorham Normal School is a part of our public school system. Its purpose is not alone to provide an opportunity for higher education, but primarily to educate leaders upon whom will fall the duty of training the youth of America in intelligent, enlightened citizenship. We now have this beautiful gymnasium as an adjunct to its training facilities. May it perpetuate the ideals of the man who for thirty-seven years has given of his best in unselfish, untiring service to the school, and in whose honor it is named.

May Russell Hall well serve the State!

Frederick Robie.

GREETINGS FROM THE EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

It certainly affords me a great deal of pleasure to be present today and assist in the dedicatory exercises of this beautiful new building. I have been interested for a long time in the erection of a building which would serve the needs of Gorham Normal School for an auditorium and gymnasium. I am one of those who find it difficult to visualize a completed structure from an architect's plans or drawings. I find it possible to visualize all that goes into the construction of a building only in the completed structure. I have seen this building only once, save on paper, and that only when the walls were about two-thirds up. The final completion more than fulfills my anticipation as to what it really would be like. Most certainly a great deal of credit should be given to our efficient architect for his faithful and painstaking work in the working out of all details of the building and to all contractors who have assisted him in the execution of his plans. Too much credit cannot be extended to Dr. Walter E. Russell, who has worked long and faithfully in the interests of this school for a period of thirty-seven years and who today sees a long cherished dream come into realization.

To me the most important feature of the finished structure is not the auditorium, which plays so vital a part in the modern life of any educational institution. Here the students have an opportunity for assemblies, for musical and forensic activities, and they are also given opportunities to listen to occasional lecturers and speakers. Nor is it the gymnasium, important as that is in the life of any school, so far as formal gymnasium exercises are concerned and so far as interscholastic and intermural contests are carried on. The most important feature of this beautiful new auditorium-gymnasium is that we are afforded an opportunity to work out for every student a physical program which will fit his individual needs. A great many years ago a Latin writer was responsible for the statement "Mens sana in corpore sano" a literal translation of which would be that it is of supreme importance that there should be a healthy mind in a sound body. There is nothing new about the importance of physical education, although at the time those sentiments were expressed, physical education activities were confined to the chosen few. We differ today from that earlier program in that we are striving to make a physical education program possible for all the boys and girls in our public schools. It is of supreme importance that the body should be developed in such a manner that it will be sound and healthy as well as that the mind should be developed. While we realize that mind triumphs over matter and that we occasionally see instances where a powerful mind can efficiently do its work although present in a frail body, yet to do its best work, it is absolutely essential that the two should go together. They are indissolubly inter-related, and neither alone can be at its best unless both are developed efficiently and well.

And so we are enabled to give to these students in Gorham Normal School an all-round and well-developed program of health and physical education. True, we will not give them that intensive training which will prepare them for directors and supervisors of physical education, but we will give them a training so that when they go forth as teachers in our public schools they will be able, not only in our more populous communities, but also in our more remote and sparsely settled rural areas, to give to the boys and girls under their charge a program of organized play and recreation which should be the natural heritage of every boy and girl.

Oftentimes in our busy everyday life we are too apt not to give deserved tribute to a person until it is too late. It seems almost like a tragedy that very many times we do not say the word that should be said while it can be appreciated. Too many times we express our appreciation after the person has left us never to return. I consider it most appropriate that this building should bear the name of the man who has so long and so efficiently served this school and the state. In naming this building Russell Hall, we not only honor Dr. Russell, but we honor ourselves as members of the Board of Trustees of the State Normal Schools, and we honor the entire state as well. May the building long and well serve the purpose for which it was erected. If it will only in a small part meet our ideals, we shall feel that the labor and funds expended in its erection have not been in vain.

Dr. Bertram E. Packard.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE PHYSICAL EQUIPMENT AT THE GORHAM NORMAL SCHOOL

When and in whose mind the idea of a Normal School at Gorham originated the writer does not know. It is, however, a matter of record that on January 18, 1877, Colonel Frederick Robie presented an order in the House of Representatives calling upon the State Superintendent of Common Schools to investigate the desirability of establishing a normal school in the western part of the state, and to report to the next Legislature.

On the 24th of January, 1878, the State Superintendent of Common Schools, the Hon. William J. Corthell, reported in response to that order and recommended that the Trustees of the Normal Schools be instructed to locate and establish a normal school in any municipality in the western part of the state that would provide land, buildings, and equipment for such a school. On the 15th of February of that year a bill passed the State Legislature authorizing the State Board of Normal School Trustees to establish a normal school in Gorham, when and if the town met the conditions recommended by the State Superintendent of Common Schools. At the annual town meeting at Gorham on March 4, 1878, the town appropriated $15,000 to aid in erecting a normal school building, and also appointed a building committee composed of its leading business men to have full charge of the proposed normal school enterprise. This building committee recognized that $15,000 would not be money enough so they subscribed themselves and called upon other citizens of the town to make voluntary subscriptions to increase the fund. Some thirty citizens subscribed sums varying from $25 to $2,000 each.

The project was further aided by the action of the Trustees of the Gorham Seminary who gave the seminary building and the lot on which it stood, the lot now occupied by the Junior High School building, to be used for a dormitory and dormitory grounds. So actively and so efficiently did this building committee work that on December 26, 1878, at suitable dedicatory exercises a complete normal school plant valued at $40,000, consisting of a school building which is part of the building now known as Corthell Hall and a dormitory building all equipped and ready for use, were turned over to the State Normal School Trustees. This balanced school plant consisting of a unit for classroom and a unit for home purposes met the needs of the school for fifteen years and would have been adequate to meet those needs for another ten years had it continued for that length of time. This was not to be for the dormitory building was destroyed by fire in the fall of 1894.

The Legislature of 1895 was appealed to to provide a new dormitory building, the first building the Legislature had been asked to provide for this school. Strange as it may seem a resolve for this purpose met with strenuous opposition in the Committee on Education in the Legislature. The committee rendered a majority report that the resolve ought not to pass and a minority report signed by three men that it ought to pass. The Legislature accepted the minority report. That summer work was begun on the building now known as Robie Hall. The first appropriation was not sufficient to complete any part of the building and the Legislature of 1897 was called upon to make further appropriation. This new dormitory was completed and ready for use in September, 1898. This building was named for Ex-governor Frederick Robie who had been most active in establishing the school at Gorham and who contributed generously toward the furnishings of the new dormitory.

Again the school was provided with a well-balanced school plant, but as the school increased in numbers and the demand for a broader curriculum necessitated more classrooms, the classroom unit became insufficient.

The Legislature of 1903 was asked to build an addition to Corthell Hall. This Legislature made an appropriation for that purpose, but not one large enough to complete the extension as planned and the Legislature of 1905 was called upon to make an additional appropriation. This resulted in the extension to Corthell Hall which nearly doubled its capacity, and provided rooms for all the practice schools as well as additional rooms for the normal school students.

The rapidly increasing numbers in attendance at the normal school during the latter part of the first decade of 1900 necessitated increasing the dormitory facilities. As a temporary means for meeting that emergency the Gorham Academy was leased by the State and remodeled inside to provide rooming accommodations for thirty or more students and teachers. It was recognized, however, that this was only a temporary arrangement and inadequate to meet the full needs. So again the Legislature made a partial appropriation which was supplemented with another appropriation in 1915 and in January, 1916, East Hall was opened to students. Academy Hall was at once remodeled to make shop rooms for the Industrial Arts Department, to be used in connection with the brick shop which had previously been built on the Academy grounds.

With these new buildings a balance was again established between the school unit and the home unit of the Gorham Normal School. No further buildings were needed to meet the requirements of the school until after the war when students again began to apply in larger numbers, thus overcrowding Corthell Hall. This situation was relieved by the building of a new practice school building and so releasing the six rooms that had been used for the practice school pupils. This practice school building was built jointly by the town and the state and placed on the lot where the old Seminary building, which was used for the first dormitory, had stood. This practice school known as the Junior High School, which cares for all the children in the village from the kindergarten through the ninth grade, was opened for use in the fall of 1926.

The increasing demands for health education in the teacher training program and the need of expanding library facilities of the school were becoming more apparent each year. In 1929 steps were taken looking forward to the establishment of a building to provide for an auditorium and a gymnasium, permitting the auditorium then in use to be added to the library equipment to provide a library study room and providing for the first time a modern health education building.

Several firms of architects were asked to prepare competitive plans and estimates of cost for such a building. These architects consulted the school authorities in regard to the needs to be met by the building, viewed the proposed site for the new building and worked out their plans. Early in 1931 they each in turn presented their plans to the Board of Trustees for consideration. The plans presented by Raymond Mayo of Portland were finally accepted as promising most nearly to meet the needs of the situation. Detailed blueprints and specifications were prepared and bids were solicited. More than thirty contractors presented bids for the general contract which was awarded to the firm of Googins & Clark of Portland. The plumbing contract was given to Fred H. Parent of Sanford and the heating contract to Harry Carvel of Portland. This building was ready for dedication on December 11, 1931, and immediately after the dedication it was put into use.

This building which the State Normal School Trustees named Russell Hall is architecturally one of the most attractive buildings on the Gorham Campus. It is constructed of brick of varied shades and trimmed with artificial stone.

The building is practically fireproof. The auditorium has a sloping floor and is furnished with over five hundred stationary theatre chairs. There are accordion doors at the back of the auditorium separating it from the gymnasium. When these are open the gymnasium can be used as an extension of the auditorium.

This building again establishes a reasonable balance between the home unit and the school unit of the Gorham Normal School.

Dr. Walter Earle Russell.

ODE

By the REV. ELIJAH KELLOGG

Rude was the shrine our fathers reared,
On this ancestral sod,
Where, as the sacred day appeared,
They met to worship God.

The drumbeat was their Sabbath bell,
Nearby the rifle lay,
And thus, as ancient legends tell,
They met to watch and pray.

Black with smoke of clearing fires,
The log-built schoolhouse stood,
Where hardy sons of hardy sires
Their daily tasks pursued.

We grasp the prize for which they fought,
The spirit of their plan;
With broader reach and wealth of thought,
Complete what they began.

The commonwealth, the teachers' chair,
Its special work has made,
And summons those that task to share,
Whose gifts her purpose aid.

Men trained to benefit their kind,
And with persistent toil—
Turn the deep furrows of the mind
And till a virgin soil.

Hence sowers shall go forth to sow
Good seed in earnest hearts;
The teacher gathers to bestow
The treasures he imparts.

Emblem of power, the nurse of thought
And bulwark of the State,
Thy walls are with a glory fraught
That Time shall ne'er abate.

PROGRESS AND PROPHECY

I feel it a very distinct privilege to be permitted to join with other friends of this School in these exercises of dedication. It is a privilege, first, because I rejoice with you in this notable addition to the physical equipment of the School provided in part through the loyal generosity of its graduates. It is a privilege, too, that I may again look into the faces of some of you with whom I enjoyed so happy associations here in my home state of Maine. It is particularly a privilege to be present when so deserved a tribute is being paid a great leader in the teacher-training field, Dr. Walter E. Russell. The trustees have given deserved recognition to a man who has deeply impressed both his personality and his fine philosophy upon the schools of this state. Dr. Russell has administered this institution so that it conserves the great values which were built into it by those who labored before him and at the same time, looks forward to a brilliant future. Throughout this country, there is no other institution which has labored more worthily and effectively in the sound training of teachers than has this institution here at Gorham. It has to me been a great joy to have had the close friendship of Dr. Russell, so that I am very happy with you that this fine building is to bear his name.

It is well for us, as we dedicate this building, to remind ourselves of the fundamental contributions which this School and others like it have made to the development of public education. The normal schools of New England were schools which started with a new purpose, that of improving the preparation of teachers for the common schools. Because they had this new aim, they were able to do something which other earlier schools with different objectives had not done at all. While, necessarily, they retained some of the characteristics of the New England academy, yet, from the very outset, are to be noted in them characteristics which the academies never knew. Strikingly, we find in them at the start a recognition of the scientific method of teaching. Even the colleges had not given recognition to this method.

It is significant that, at about the time the normal schools of New England were established, Agassiz began his work at Harvard College. Immediately, the teacher-training institutions felt the effect of his influence and there began an interest in nature study and in the application of the scientific method to nature study which has profoundly affected our entire public school system. Guyot in the field of geography supplemented the work of Agassiz, and a little later James, although teaching in a college, found that the first and most important fruits of his study were to be produced in institutions for the training of teachers.

It is true that the normal schools, of which this was one of the earliest, were of necessity obliged to deal with the material which came to them, often with meager equipment in previous schooling. In those early days, students of such schools were not generally graduates of high school, and the period of training was extremely brief. Nevertheless, the attention paid to the technique of teaching set them definitely apart from any other institutions of their time. They have continued to be thus separated in purpose from other schools.

From those early times to the present day, the normal schools have been expanding in relation to the changing conditions and requirements of education. With the expansion of high schools and with the raising of standards in all professional fields, this School has come to that day when no student is to be found here unless he has had the reasonably adequate background of preparation to be found in a good high school course. The necessity which once existed for providing general courses for normal school students is no longer present. Hence, this School, in common with other good normal schools, can devote its attention chiefly to technical phases of education. It is, first of all, a professional school, but with its professional offerings are happily combined cultural courses that enlarge the vision and widen the horizon of its students.

There is one achievement of the normal schools which ought not to pass unnoted. Only fifteen years ago, a group of state officers of education representing eastern states were discussing the problem of securing adequately trained teachers for rural schools. It was the opinion of every person present that it was probably too much to expect that country schools could ever generally command the services of graduates of normal schools, that the most to be hoped for was that country schools might occasionally have the service of a trained teacher or that many teachers of such schools might perhaps have had a portion of the course of a teacher-training institution. At the present time, however, the majority of the schools of this state are served by normal school graduates. It is possible to believe that, in the not distant future, all the schools can command trained service. This is an achievement of prime importance to every child in the state.

The friends of education everywhere may well rejoice that normal schools have come to be recognized as among the most important of the educational activities of the people. There are indeed no other schools or institutions of any character whatsoever that are so important as the institutions which train teachers. From this school and other similar schools of the state go every year large numbers of young men and women who immediately come in contact with tens of thousands of our children. The daily lives of these children are at once affected by the character of training which these young men and women have had. In every classroom of Maine at this very moment, educational advantages are better because this and the other normal schools of Maine have existed. There certainly are no other higher educational institutions that so immediately and so profoundly affect the development of childhood as these schools dedicated to teaching.

However, it is not well to think altogether of the present and of the past. These institutions must carry into the future whatever leadership they have already attained, and they must look to the securing of still greater leadership. The normal schools of Maine as of other states can and should be supported by the people as the chief agencies for the training of teachers. They must not be so placed as to seem to be in a position of inferiority to any other teacher-training institutions, whether public or private. Such an inferiority does not exist and should not be implied. In faculty equipment, as in plant and buildings, the leading normal schools of New England are not less well equipped or less well prepared to assume leadership in the field of professional education than are the schools of education of colleges and universities. It would be most unfortunate if the public should get the impression that institutions of this kind are in some way inferior to those which happen to have collegiate affiliation.

Moreover, it is especially wholesome for all who are to teach anywhere in the school system that they be trained to some extent in a teacher-training environment. It is cause for satisfaction that, in the State Normal Schools of Maine, courses for the preparation of teachers of special subjects have been established so that it is not necessary to look outside the state or to privately endowed schools for opportunities of a special character such as are indicated in the teaching of home economics and practical arts. It is possible to believe that the expansion of normal schools going forward for the next generation as it has for the past may well contemplate the preparation of teachers for senior high schools as well as for elementary and junior high schools.

The normal school can and should keep a little closer than other schools can to the changing requirements of public education. It is imperative that schools like this one should study closely the activities of the public schools. They should know what is going on in them, what new trends are affecting them, and they should be prepared to take active part in the development of those trends that are wise and in the checking of those which seem not to be sound. The normal schools are concerned not only with training teachers for the public schools as they are, but they are concerned likewise with helping the public schools to become better.

It is entirely possible that the leading normal schools of Maine will look forward to the time when not only will their graduates receive degrees, but when, in certain ones of them, opportunities may be given for post-graduate work. A school is measured not only by the students it receives, but likewise by the extent to which it can carry students to the conclusion of the studies in the field which engages their interest.

At the beginning, it was thought that normal schools had to do chiefly, if not solely, with the improvement of methods of teaching. This has been a continuing purpose of the schools. But it is no longer the only reason for their existence.

There came a second stage. That was one in which it was recognized that education has also to do with the application of knowledge. So our schools began to be concerned with helping children to make effective application of knowledge.

We are now in a third era. While we continue to emphasize the two established objectives of education, we are emphasizing increasingly our obligations toward the child himself. We are considering not only what may be done for him in the knowledge which he may acquire, but what we may do for him likewise by helping him to his own highest individual development.

In discussing this question with a friend some time ago, when I had been speaking perhaps somewhat too strongly about the work of the schools, he remarked, "You talk as all teachers do. You speak as though the child belonged to the school and as though he had no interest outside it." I replied that I was very sorry to have given that impression because it is not at all my theory that the school owns the child. No more, however, can it be maintained that the state, the church, or even the parents have final ownership of him. All these agencies have a large and commanding interest in the child and a great obligation to see that their interest is employed for the benefit of the child; yet, in the last analysis, it must be recognized that the child belongs to himself and that it is the business of all these agencies so to cooperate as to bring him into an adulthood in which he shall have attained the most complete stature, mental, physical, moral, and spiritual, that he can attain, and to help him come into a realization of his self ownership with all the implications of responsibility for individual and social welfare that reasoning adulthood implies. So education comes to see that it must help the child to understand himself and increasingly to realize himself at his highest potentiality.

The evidence presented by this building is not only evidence of widening requirements of the child, but it proves the intention of the educational leadership and of the people of Maine that, as these obligations increase, so shall the facilities for meeting them be augmented. I am happy to add my congratulations for the achievements which we celebrate and my good wishes that your brightest dreams for the future of this School may be realized.

Dr. Payson Smith.

RUSSELL HALL

Voices and hearts are strong, singing a song in Russell Hall today,

Swearing our faithful and fond allegiance,
Proud of your strength and grace,
Proud to call you Russell Hall,

Mrs. Elliot was appointed a member of the board of trustees by Governor Ralph Brewster and was reappointed by Governor William Tudor Gardiner. She is the wife of Richard Oliver Elliot, president of the Thomaston National Bank. Their home is in Thomaston.

NEW LIBRARY

For years Gorham Normal School has realized that the present library is inadequate to supply the needs of a school of this size. With the building of Russell Hall, including as it does a large auditorium, the old assembly room in Cortwell Hall is vacated and is to be made into a new study library.

Both floor and wall shelves are to be installed with study tables and chairs to accommodate one hundred students. The immediate goal is ten thousand books, although the room can very easily take care of twice that number.

The old library will be used as a classroom for library science, and the present reference room will be devoted entirely to magazines when the plans for the new library are completed.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The student government of Gorham Normal School is an institution of which we are proud. Its purpose is to promote the spirit of mutual helpfulness, service, and personal responsibility among the students. Each student is expected to uphold the highest standards of honor and integrity in all matters of personal conduct.

The House Committee, composed of nine members, a president and vice-president, is elected by the student council to supervise the dormitories. The members are chosen from the Advanced Senior and Senior classes the first semester and from all three classes the last semester. This committee, which is helped, advised, and guided by Miss Jordan, Dean of Women, meets weekly with her to plan for the welfare of dormitory life. The girls who serve on the committee suggest ways of making our life here together more worthwhile. The willingness of students to adopt these suggestions makes many phases of dormitory life more pleasant.

Several social functions have been sponsored by the House Committee, the first being a Hallowe'en Party held in the gymnasium. At this party many strange sights were seen and everybody had a good time. The Christmas Party, held in the Center, where Santa Claus appeared and gave gifts to all, had the true spirit of Christmas. The gifts presented were enjoyed and then later sent to the Express Santa Claus in Portland for children who might otherwise not have the joy of Christmas.

Members of the House Committee for the first half year were Madeline White, president; Helen Emery, vice-president; Althea Day, secretary; Winnette Fossett, Thelma Sprowl, Lettie Day, Ruth Robbins, Dorothy Dunn, Helen Brett, Martha Chesley, and Mary Stevens. Those who served the last half year were Lettie Day, president; Helen Brett, vice-president; Elizabeth Syphers, secretary; Dorothy Ham, Ruth Jackins, Marjorie Nash, Margaret MacDonald, Helen Severns, Helen Emery, Alberta Van Horn, and Leona Toothaker.

THE CIVIC COMMITTEE

The Civic Committee was just organized in 1928, and is at the present time one of the most active and important organizations in the entire school. It consists of three faculty advisers and representatives from every organization and every class division in the school, thus it is very representative of the school body as a whole.

Many of the most important activities carried out by the school are sponsored and directed by this committee. This year they directed Superintendent's Day, the high school basketball tournament, the sending of the two school delegates, Miss Marjorie Moody and Mr. Thomas Abbott, to the New York convention, and two special chapel exercises.

Y. W. C. A.

A Gorham Normal School girl and a visiting student from a sister college are overheard discussing campus activities.

Visitor: "By the way, Sally, what organization do you think has done the most this year for the promotion of the general social welfare of Gorham Normal?"

G. N. S.: "Personally, I think the Young Women's Christian Association has been the most helpful."

Visitor: "What are your reasons?"

G. N. S.: "Well, before school opened last fall the members of the new Y cabinet wrote letters of welcome, offering friendship and service to the entering women students."

Visitor: "All of which would mean very little unless actually carried out."

G. N. S.: "Oh, but it was carried out! The cabinet members of the Y and other members of the association were there early the day we arrived for the double purpose of helping us to find our rooms and making us feel more at home. Down at the foot of Robie Hall stairs they had the darlinest little information booth done in the Y colors, blue and white, and the girls there were wonderful to us. That evening they gave us just the best time at an informal 'Get-Acquainted' party in the old gym!"

Visitor: "That certainly does sound good, Sally. What was their next activity?"

G. N. S.: "Two weeks later a reception for the Juniors, the first formal function of the year, was sponsored by their association. They had a long receiving line, a splendid program, and best of all, Peg, dancing and — eats!"

Visitor: "I guess you do have good times, all right. Our Y has weekly prayer meetings for the entire association and bi-weekly business meetings of the cabinet. Is your plan similar to this?"

G. N. S.: "Yes, much the same."

Visitor: "Did you go to Camp Maqua this last summer?"

G. N. S.: "No, I didn't go, but our Y had five delegates there. One Thursday night they gave us a delightful little play depicting life at Camp Maqua."

Visitor: "Did they like Maqua as well as we did?"

G. N. S.: "I think they did, all right! Our president was chosen representative of the Two-Year Teacher Training Colleges of New England on the National Council of the Y. W. C. A. while there, too. So she has been busy all winter attending conferences and writing suggestions to the new Y's of New England."

Visitor: "Our finances worry us more than anything else. How do you provide for your expenses?"

G. N. S.: "The members of the organization were divided into ten groups. Each group found some way of earning money, such as socials, teas, and parties. Then, of course, there was our annual bazaar in Center. A good entertainment and games added to both financial and social success."

Visitor: "The year is so nearly over now that I suppose the Y work is nearly done."

G. N. S.: "No, indeed, soon the second Junior cabinet will have served its time and the new cabinet for next year must be chosen. Then comes the tea for the advisory board, the banquet for the old and new cabinets and the advisory board, and last, but not least, the big picnic for all the members of the association."

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. opened this year with twenty-six men enrolled. A program committee was elected and at once began preparation for the regular meetings. Special speakers were secured, both from within and without the group, and arrangements were made for song services and movies. All of these have proved entertaining as well as educational.

The purposes of our meetings are to promote a feeling of fellowship and to stimulate interest in the physical, intellectual, and spiritual phases of life.

Besides the money received from dues, we have continued our practice of selling G. N. S. pencils, hasty notes, and Christmas cards. This year we were able to send three men to the State Y. M. C. A. Conference in Augusta. They not only had a most enjoyable experience there, but also brought back to the group inspiring and helpful reports.

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. united in arranging the Junior Reception. Early in the fall the two organizations conducted at Alden's Pond an impressive evening service, the effectiveness of which was in no degree lessened by the wienie roast which followed. About mid-year a program was arranged for a joint meeting in the new auditorium. An invitation to attend was extended to the entire student body and faculty. A large audience, therefore, listened to the helpful, inspiring address given by the Reverend Stanley Carne. During the entire year there has been a fine spirit of cooperation between the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A.

SUPERINTENDENT'S AND PRINCIPAL'S DAY

The second annual Superintendent's and Principal's Day was observed on November 19, 1931. The purpose of this day is to make superintendents and principals better acquainted with the work of the normal school in the training of teachers. The morning was spent in observing classes in the normal and training departments. Guests were entertained at luncheon in East Hall dining-room. The Civic Committee, working in cooperation with other organizations of the school, presented the following program at assembly in the afternoon:

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEMONSTRATION

A physical education demonstration, directed by Miss Sarah Reed, was given by the Senior and Junior girls on March 21, 1932, in Russell Hall Gymnasium. The purpose of this demonstration was to show the type of work done by the girls in the physical education course. The young women were dressed in the regulation gymnasium uniform and made an impressive sight as they marched around the room before presenting the following program:

ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

It has been customary for some time for the school to enjoy a series of concerts selected by a committee of students under the guidance of Mr. Louis B. Woodward of the faculty. The selections this year were very pleasing.

The first entertainment was given by the Salon Artists. Richness of tone, facility of technique, and depth of expression evidenced the artistry of Miss Recca Brekoff, violinist. J. Angus Winter, accompanist, played several much-enjoyed solos. The third member of the group was Mrs. Gladys Russell Cook, soprano. Her songs were given with a skill that was enhanced by her charm and graciousness of manner.

The second concert was that presented by the Nottingham Singers in the auditorium of Russell Hall. Their program included light opera selections, ballads, negro spirituals, and popular songs. Finding the acoustic properties of the hall pleasing and the audience enthusiastic, these artists gave a splendid and generous program. The members of the group were Jack Gruhn and Howard Mayon, tenors; William Weigle, baritone; Richard Grayson, bass; and Charles Touchette, pianist.

The final entertainment was given by Miss Iva Roberts, who read "The Swan," a play by Ferenc Molnar. The audience sat entranced while Miss Roberts changed swiftly from match-making mother to her daughter who was "twenty odd" years and then to indifferent prince, who was the reason for all the schemes of the mother.

WASHINGTON PAGEANT

The Senior class drama to be presented at graduation this year is to be a pageant depicting the life of Washington, written by the students themselves under the leadership of Miss Esther Wood and Miss Jeanette Johnson of the faculty.

The pageant is in nine episodes, each portraying a different stage in Washington's life.

PRACTICE SCHOOLS

GRADE I

A group of First Graders are enjoying a movie, planned and made by themselves. The movie is based on one of the stories in the Gates-Huber First Reader.

GRADE VI

The sixth grade studied the middle ages in history at the same time that they were reading Ivanhoe. So they constructed a sand table to represent a tournament of that period.

JUNIOR PRIMARY

The Gates and Huber system of reading was introduced in the junior primary this year. The children especially enjoy the work books.

The Art Club is sponsored by Miss Wihry. At Christmas they designed and made greeting cards. Now they are working on soap carvings.

These boys are proud of their woodworking projects. The sailboat won a silver cup offered by Mr. Brown for the best sailing boat.

The Dolls' Thanksgiving Party in the kindergarten gave opportunity for the use of blocks in building the table and chairs, and clay in modeling the dishes and food.

GRADE IV

A George Washington project was worked up in the fourth grade. Material was found in each one of the school subjects and in outside sources. After the project was completed, a program was given with each pupil taking part.

The junior high school boys' basketball team is leading the Cumberland County league championship. The boys have not lost a game.

One period a week is devoted to extra-curricular activities. The orchestra is one of the most popular of these.

RURAL SCHOOL

TOY ORCHESTRA

The Modern Rural School toy orchestra consists of a drum, xylophone, cymbals, bird whistle, tambourine, wood block, triangle, jingles and sticks. The victrola is used for accompaniment.

A harmonica band has also been organized in the school.

MANUAL TRAINING

The school is divided into three groups for the work in manual training. The boys in the sixth and eighth grades in group one, the boys of grades three, four and five in group two, and the girls of grades three to eight are in the third group.

Some of the articles made by the group this year were plant stands, sewing screens, shelves for toy store, wind mills, boudoir dolls and a patchwork quilt.

BIRD CLUB

The Bird Club meets once in two weeks during opening exercises. At this time the children discuss birds, and a short program arranged by the children is presented.

The functions and powers of the Athletic Council and its branch associations are increasing with the added athletic facilities. Improved facilities mean an improved athletic program. A plan for equipping the new gymnasium has been adopted. Several years will probably elapse before the plans are completed and a fully-equipped gymnasium is available.

A second outstanding achievement was the first annual basketball tournament sponsored for the smaller high schools of Cumberland and York Counties. The participating teams were the winner and runner-up in each of the two leagues in each county. Standish High School won the tournament and was awarded a regulation size basketball of silver mounted on a pedestal. Gorham High School, defeated by Standish in the finals, was awarded the runner-up trophy.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM "B"

The Gorham Normal School cross country team completed its second consecutive season without a loss. The high light of the year was defeating the strong Bates Freshman team on its home course. Much credit is due Coach Packard. The team and Athletic Council showed their appreciation by awarding him a varsity letter.

In the interclass cross country season, each of the three classes entered first and second teams. Six dual runs were held. The Mid-Seniors led with 80 points. The Advanced Seniors accumulated 68, and the Juniors trailed with 18. On the basis of these runs the varsity team was selected.

The season opened with the Freeport run on October 7th. Twitchell, the Junior sensation, and Johnson, a veteran, tied for first place. Winslow of Freeport was passed at the tape by Smith. Storey, Winslow, Jean and Anderson, all of Gorham, were next to appear. The final score was Gorham, 17; Freeport, 46.

Deering invaded Gorham a week later. Gorham and Deering men alternated for the first four places. Victory for Gorham seemed doubtful until Smith, Storey, and Jean placed next in order. This 22-37 victory was the second consecutive win over Deering.

At Hebron, Gorham placed eight out of the first nine men. Twitchell, Smith, Jean, and Storey tied for first place. The boys celebrated this decisive 16-47 win in the swimming pool of the splendid new Hebron gymnasium.

Gorham closed its season at Lewiston against the strong, undefeated Bates Freshman team. Twitchell led the pack home in record-breaking time, followed by Olds and Wilds of Bates. Jean, Smith, Storey, and McSorley followed to make the final tally 23-34 for Gorham.

By graduation we lose three good men: Jean, Anderson, and Winslow. With five strong veterans left, however, and a number of new men, prospects are strong for another clean slate next year. Jack Smith will captain the Gorham boys, and Linwood Abbott, as manager, is arranging a strong schedule for next fall.

The first varsity game in the new gymnasium, and incidentally the first one of the season, was played with Salem Normal School on New Year's Day. Gorham started the year right by winning 38-23. The Massachusetts Club was host to both teams after the game.

Coming from behind in the sensational rally in the fourth period the Green and White basketball team gained a three-point lead, only to see Cheverus turn the tables through excellent team play in the waning seconds of the fray to win by a 25-22 score. The return game was very similar. For three quarters it was anybody's game, but in that last quarter the "Fighting Irish" were simply not to be denied.

At Gould, Gorham put on a belated last quarter attack to win, 36-26. Gould led at the close of the third period, but could not withstand the final period rush of the visiting hoopmen. It was Gould's first loss of the year. In the return game the Gould team was handicapped by illness of two of its members; the score once more was in Gorham's favor, 29-13.

The Farmington Normal School five won the second consecutive leg on the Chrissikos Trophy by defeating the Gorham Normal School quintet 40-22 at Farmington and 56-36 at Gorham. Farmington's overwhelming victories were due to a past-passing, strong-shooting attack that was led by Webber, who personally accounted for 50 points in the two games.

After suffering a 42-11 defeat at Gorham, Fryeburg Academy outdid itself and surprised even its staunchest friends by winning, 27-26, at Fryeburg.

Gorham closed its season by defeating the clever Bridgewater Normal five, 34-27. Given a hard battle for the first two periods, she finally forged ahead and won by a comfortable margin. Leahy, star for the visitors, was captain at Gorham a year ago.

The interclass baseball series, which consisted mostly of five- or six-inning games because of weather conditions, was won by the Advanced Senior Class.

The varsity season started immediately after this series with a win over Deering High School. In this game "Ed" Leahy distinguished himself by allowing the Purple only three hits, while he collected four for himself. Gorham scored in the second inning and led throughout the rest of the game.

Both games with Lewiston High were wild and woolly affairs. Both teams used three pitchers. The wins of Lewiston came through a single in the pinch following the wildness of the Gorham pitchers. Lewiston was outthit at home 13-9, and at Gorham 13-7.

Due to difficulty in securing games, the Alumni offered to play. In spite of an all-star battery, consisting of Hallett and Watson, ex-captains of the school, Gorham succeeded in winning. Hallett allowed but three hits. Most of the runs were made on miscues.

During four years of baseball competition with Fryeburg, it has never failed to rain throughout the home game. This year was no exception. Miscues and errors were plentiful and hits rare. At Fryeburg tables were reversed, and once again Gorham triumphed. This was a fifth win over Fryeburg out of eight games.

At the close of the season "Bill" Ransom was elected captain and "Irv" Gordon manager. Graduation has badly riddled the team for another year. John Anderson and Captain Ransom are the only two lettermen that remain. There are, however, several others who, with the experience they have had this last year or two, should fill the positions made vacant by graduation very creditably.

The outstanding problem in connection with the sport was the difficulty in securing games. High schools and academies are all organizing into leagues with heavy schedules of games. No other normal school in the state, except Machias, has a baseball team, and the distance is prohibitive. Farmington is endeavoring to sponsor track as a spring sport, and Gorham is giving serious consideration to it, but the facilities do not yet seem adequate for two interscholastic spring activities.

INTERCLASS ATHLETICS

At the beginning of the school year, each class selects its class council, consisting of three members. The duties of each council are to organize the teams, select officials, and arrange schedules for the six sports which the interclass athletic program provides. Each class is expected to provide two teams for every sport except baseball. One team is known as the Major Team, the other, the Minor. Both class and individual awards are made at the close of each season. The class awards consist of trophies and cups donated by clubs and business firms. Individual awards consist of stripes—white for Major Team members and green for those belonging to Minor Teams. Five white stripes or ten green ones entitle an individual to his class numerals. Of the eighty men who are enrolled fifty or more have already accumulated one or more stripes toward their numerals.

GIRLS' INTERCLASS ATHLETICS

A cup is won by the class having the largest total number of points to its credit. These points are earned in scheduled games in soccer, basketball, volley ball, tennis, baseball, track and other field events. Last year the Seniors won the cup. Come out, Juniors and Seniors, and see what will happen this year. Come on, get into the fun and bring your chum. Remember, a larger number of candidates means a better team and the better team means the cup. Let's go, girls!

Stars, class numerals, and a green felt monogram on a white background are won by individuals through participation in the games mentioned above, and by the completion of certain tests of athletic achievement.

Don't forget, here's a sport for every girl and every girl in a sport.

The call was answered and a bit of preliminary practice and drill in fundamentals of the game took place. Then the fun began.

The first game was a tie 2 to 2, neither side had fully awakened from its summer rest.

The Juniors realized they weren't awake and got busy to remedy the serious condition. As a result they won the second game 3 to 1.

Due to the fact that the Juniors won the only game out of a series of three, the honor of being the winning team in soccer for the year 1931 was awarded them.

SUMMARY OF GAMES

Seniors	15	Juniors	15
Seniors	8	Juniors	18
Seniors	21	Juniors	7
Seniors	26	Juniors	7

The first game was hard fought and ended in a tie. In spite of all the Seniors' efforts the Juniors ran away with the second game. The Seniors not wishing to be outdone won the third. Who was to win the final game? Both teams fought from whistle to whistle, but at the final blow the Seniors were ahead; therefore, the Seniors have the cup for the second consecutive year.

SENIOR GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL

VOLLEY BALL

The period after basketball was devoted to volley ball, as conditions would not permit field events. We have two volley ball courts in our new gymnasium, therefore, more can participate in the sport. Step up, girls! Join the fun! Don't forget the tournament.

SPRING ACTIVITIES

It's time to speak of Helen Selwood, the champion girl tennis player of G. N. S. in 1931. Helen played a keen game, but her victims are coming back strong this year to claim her title. Oh! I was forgetting the Junior girls. My! there will be some competition in tennis this spring. There will be more chance for practice as we have two good new courts.

For those girls not interested in tennis but in Babe Ruth, we are offering them the chance to compete with this great player on our own green field. Be ready for the call, everyone.

You haven't heard all yet. We have a sport for everyone. Come, eagle eye, we have archery for you. For the Misses Speedy, Strength, High Jumper, and Big Kicker, we have track to entertain you. Don't worry, there's plenty to do at G. N. S. There are plenty of sports from which to choose.

John D. Marancurt Orchestra! The name sounds high-fallutin', and have you heard the music they dish out? After some of the weird sounds from "that rah-dio" it's not bad. Their greatest bid for popularity is making "The St. Louis Blues" unpopular.

From the number of couples seen on, and off, the walks of Gorham, one gathers that the boys are taking Cantor's advice—"Walking is cheaper!"

"All the members of I. D. M. orchestra are in the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, or ninth grades." That's enough to put a curl in anyone's hair, eh, Harvey?

It has been rumored that "Dud" lost his equilibrium while swinging on a lamp post. From appearances the lamp suffered likewise.

Some of the juniors who may have difficulty in securing teaching positions a couple of years hence, might go over big in the bootblack business. And they are so polite!

Mr. Russell: "What would you say if you went to the White House and met President Hoover?"

Carola: "Hello, Herbert."

Miss Wood: "What does the date 1879 stand for?"

Grace: "Beginning of Medieval History."

Miss Wood: "Why, Grace."

Grace: "Oh, well, Ancient History, then."

Two girls talking about the fraternity dance:

1st: "I sure had a hopping good time."

2nd: "Well, you haven't got anything on me, I had a shuffling good time."

Teacher: "Who was the first American statesman?"

Janet: "Columbus."

Pretty girl (admiring herself in mirror): "How do you like my nose?"

Her roommate: "Pretty good as noses run."

J. T.: "Why didn't you join the glee club, Betty?"

B. S.: "I had no voice in the matter."

Miss Wood: "This book that I'm reading says there ought to be just two Normal Schools, one at Portland and one at Bangor. This one in Gorham would be the Portland one."

E. Chandler: "I don't see how Gorham is Portland."

Miss Wood: "But it's within hailing distance, isn't it?"

E. Chandler: "Yes, at 50 cents a hail."

Miss Keene can tell solid silver from plate. Keep this in mind when you ask her to dine at your house!

We wonder just what the student had in mind when she wrote on the subject—"A well panned teacher."

Nola (teaching a third grade class): "Alfred, you may spell the word neighbor."

Alfred: "Ne-i-g-h-b-o-r."

Nola: "That's right, now can you tell me what a neighbor is?"

Alfred: "Yes, ma'am, a woman who borrows things."

GREEN WHITE

ONCE IN A LIFETIME

'Twas Jan. 21, when thru the dining room
The boys began to wait, and the dishes to boom,

The "waiters" stood by their stations with care,
Just as though the head waitress really were there.

Each one of us sitting real straight in his place,
While ripples of laughter spread over each face.

Harvey in a hairnet, and Bud in a tie,
Had just started out a new trade to try.

Soon in the kitchen there arose such a clatter,
We looked from our places to see what was the matter.

Away with the food, they flew like a flash,
Spilt off the milk, and lugged in the hash.

"Chet" in the door, with a tray full of tea,
Was blocking the road for as many as three

When, what to my wondering eyes should appear
But a hot flustered John.

"Tea with milk," now I hear.
The boys are quick footed, with hands all aflutter,

Trying to keep the milk from the butter.
More rapid than eagles, our followers came,

They whistled and shouted and called many names.
Now Twitchell, now Harvey, now Wilson,

Jack Sprat,
On Story, on Rawnsley, on Leonard, Chet Pratt,

To the end of the hall, with cake sauce and all,
Now "grab away, grab away, grab away all,"

"As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,"

So out to the kitchen for crackers they flew
With trayloads of bread and raspberries, too,

And then in a twinkling I heard near the door
"Rosebud" inquiring if they wanted some more.

Over in the corner was Ingham alone,
Getting tea and hot water, and how his eye shone!

Then up from the table got the people in a flash,
I wish I knew how to make them all dash.

Now John begins to load up his tray
With silver and glasses as though it were play.

In another direction comes Chet with some plates,
Juggling as though they were merely stuffed dates.

Now I see some of them taking up large tips,
So I yelled to Ray Story to see what he gits.

He hurried over to show me his spoils,
I found that a bullet rewarded his toils.

How well the boys did I'll not try to say,
But I guess they're pretty good in most every way.

WHY GIRLS COME TO GORHAM

It was one of those cold, pale, indefinite nights of late winter. Only a trace of the fast disappearing snow could be seen in the hollows of the fields. The trees were drab and gaunt, clad neither by the foliage of summer nor by the sparkling festive dress of winter.

All was still, save the quiet, solemn grandfather clock in the hall striking twelve. This seemed a signal, however, for the midnight antics.

The wind which had been whistling softly now hissed threats and warnings. A shutter creaked and groaned under the added pressure, then suddenly jerked to the ground. The cat in the neighboring yard seemed to become bewitched as it searched in vain for high C.

A branch of a tree, like a giant hand, scraped harshly across my window, pointing an accusing finger at me.

Suddenly there was a movement in the room above me. Soft foot falls echoed stealthily on the stairs.

My breathing grew heavy and difficult, my tongue became thick with fright.

They came nearer. They were in the adjoining room. They were at my door! The door opened swiftly and silently.

Then—my sister entered and said, "Thank heavens you aren't asleep! Do you know where that last movie magazine is? I can't find it anywhere."

Josephine Sawyer.

RUSSELL HALL

Behold me before you, a thing of great beauty,
A joy to the many who caused me to be,
A symbol of faith, and the name of sweet service;
In me there are virtues both unseen and seen.

The soul and the mind are my first aspirations,
The soul to enrich and by love made to grow.
The mind and emotions get due contemplation;
Though rightly conceived, they must know control.

So growth and control will be traced beside beauty
Upon my bright walls unmarked by a stain;
And the scroll that unwinds will tell a grand story
As each passing year adds its tribute to Fame.

Mary McGurn.

CALENDAR

SEPTEMBER, 1931

September 7. The first quarter practice teachers came—so they could look wise the next day as they watched the rest unload.

September 8. Arrival of everyone. The "Y" deserves all the credit it gets for the hearty welcome.

September 8. The "get-together." A good time was had by all—but the guests got tired early.

September 25. The Junior Reception. Our teachers and "Y" members showed what excellent hosts and hostesses are.

Birthdays: (4) Hester McKeen; (20) Caroline Kimball; (24) Dorothy Rawnsley; (24) Theo. McNeil; (27) Alma Peters.

OCTOBER

October 9. Dr. Ambrose Suchrie's visit. He certainly made new friends and we've decided that we have a new old one, too. We found out that it isn't always the other fellow's fault if no one will co-operate with us.

October 13. Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Weenie Roast!!! Plenty to eat, and good company! As for the—well, you know what the night air does to your singing voices.

October 20. Dramatic Club Banquet. Didn't we enjoy that initiation! Yes, from the side-lines.

October 24. House Committee Hallowe'en Party. Goblins, Ghosts, Witches, Costumes and Fun Galore! Nothing lacking except fortune tellers.

October 28-29-30. Teachers' Convention. Everyone wonders if they would ever get there, when the buses failed to appear. Oh, well, better late than never! and the meetings certainly made up for the waiting. What's a little rain among friends. We saw everyone we ever knew and most everyone we didn't know.

Birthdays: (1) Eva Thompson; (4) Lettie Day; (22) Elsie M. Roberts; (18) Alice Peers; (23) Frances Holt; (25) Ruth Robbins.

NOVEMBER

November 7. Art Club Hop. Voted one of the best times of the season. Followed the usual run of dances, but still, just enough different—to be—different.

November 11. Outdoor Club Dance. This time all came dressed for sports. A successful Armistice affair.

November 12. First quarter ends. From our student (and faculty) body comes many long sighs of relief!

November 19. Superintendent and Principal's Day. Everyone enjoyed having the visitors watch them work and play. We enjoyed, especially, the good dinner in the dining room at noon. Of course, we all hope to work under such a superintendent later.

November 26. Thanksgiving Recess. What a great packing up there was for that first vacation. It's hard to tell which were the most thankful—those who went home—or those who stayed.

Birthdays: (11) Carola Cameron; (13) Ruth Magee; (15) Edna O'Brien; (16) Evelyn Winchenbaugh.

GREEN WHITE

DECEMBER

December 7. Y. W. C. A. Bazaar—lots of good bargains—fine entertainment—and, of course, much dancing!

December 11. Dedication of Russell Hall. Proud are we all of Russell Hall, but prouder still of him to whom we owe this splendid addition to our campus. Rah! rah! rah! Dr. Russell!!!

December 19. Christmas Recess. The whole student body packed their suitcases and left either on Friday or Saturday. The school must have looked lonesome, but no one stayed to see. And pretty soon it was—

December 28. Here we are back again. Most of the rooms are adorned with new decorations which are Christmas presents.

Birthdays: (7) Winifred Lamb; (24) Helen Kneeland; (25) Mary Tapley; (29) Ann Shields.

JANUARY, 1932

January 1. Happy New Year. Salem vs. G. N. S. Our first basketball game—and we won!!

January 23. Poverty Party. "Just fits." The guests arrived in the worst looking togs they could find and you'd be surprised—but they had a better time than if they'd been dressed up.

January 27. The second quarter ended. The new practice teachers left for their schools with fear and trembling while the others came sorrowfully back.

Birthdays: (1) Ruth Staples; (12) Helen Calderwood; (17) Martha Blake.

FEBRUARY

February 1. Y. W. C. A. Afternoon Tea. The music was good, the crowd was good, and everyone had a good time. What more could you ask for?

February 2. Candlemas Day—but no one spoke of seeing the groundhog.

February 13. The long-awaited Farmington vs. G. N. S. basketball game. The welcome our guests received would have made any team willing to come. The 13th must have been our unlucky day for—well, here it is—we got beaten.

February 24. We are always glad to have our former friends visit us, and especially Miss Rhynsburger. The Chapel rang with applause when she sang.

February 26-27. High School Tournament in our gym. The cheering was so loud it could be heard over in Robie Hall.

Birthdays: (1) Althea Day; (9) Ruby Severy; (13) Amy Hovey.

MARCH

March 12. The Annual Frat. Dance. The girls looked lovely; the hall looked lovely; the music was fine; the fellows danced well; so altogether they had a splendid time.

March 19. Another dance in Center! Who gave it? The Y. W. C. A. Who went? Everyone who likes a good time.

March 26. Station GREEN AND WHITE announcing a dance in Center. The Marancurt Orchestra furnished the music for dancing. They should be popular—they did so well.

March 31. Easter vacation began. When the last class was over the campus looked deserted.

Birthdays: (1) Martha Chesley; (2) Ruth Jackins; (11) Mabel Esancy; (12) Yvonne Sprowl; (18) Josephine Renski; (12) Cecile Long; (20) Josephine Burdwood; (25) Grace Orne.

APRIL

April 11. We went home for vacation in a rain, and to our surprise we came back in one, too.

April 12. School work began as usual, but the great issue, for the Seniors, will now be graduation.

April 23. "It's a Ming." Everyone who wanted to find out what that meant, went to the Y. W. Play. They "laughingly" found out.

April 28. The Treasure Hunt given by the Advanced Senior History Methods Class. Who found the treasure? Everybody.

Birthdays: (3) Dorothy Ham; (8) Winnifred Cobb; (19) Barbara Strout; (21) Virginia Bryant; (29) Madeline Lancaster; (29) Marion Whittier; (30) Grace White.

MAY

May 4. It isn't very often that you can go to two plays in one night; but we did. First, "The Right Answer" given by the Dramatic Club. Second, "Depression Takes a Holiday," an original play by Gretchen Waltz.

May 12. Enchanting! Marvelous! Beautiful! What do these describe? Why, the Glee Club Operetta, of course.

May 21. The May Ball. Better and bigger than ever. One reason being that it was given in our new building.

Birthdays: (5) Sarah Russell; (15) Helen Watson; (16) Madeline White; (19) Sophie Tarr.

JUNE—GRADUATION MONTH

June 10. The Campus looks deserted without the Juniors and Mid-Seniors roaming around.

June 11. What a busy day! The Alumni Banquet, Class Tea. The Senior Pageant—A George Washington Pageant written by some of our students.

June 12. Sunday and our Baccalaureate Service. This is always a sad occasion.

June 13. Graduation. The speaker was C. Livingston Lord. We took one long look at our friends and the school and said good-bye.

Birthdays: (6) Evelyn Rankin; (4) Ferne Whitney; (8) Edward Tobey; (20) Mildred Johnson; (23) Jane Feero; (27) Thelma Sproul; (27) Helen Weeks; (30) Ellen McGrath.

JULY

No School.

Birthdays: (4) Dorothea Watson; (5) Genevieve Porter; (25) Beatrice Pennell; (25) Virginia Pennell; (27) Mildred Rose; (29) Janet C. Smith; (29) William Cragin; (30) Mildred Foster.

AUGUST

Still no school for some of us.

Birthdays: (2) Janet Tapley; (3) Helen Selwood; (4) Madeleine Morrill; (14) Elizabeth Huntoon; (15) Winnette Fossett; (18) Elizabeth Syphers; (25) Dorothea Packard; (31) William Ransom.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The splendid co-operation of the Dramatic Club is one thing that has been very helpful to the "Green and White" in its climb toward the hilltop.

THE SCHOOL ON THE HILL

There's a bonny, bonny spot
That we hold most dear ;
There are hours and days
That are full of cheer ;
There's a beautiful hill
That will ne'er be forgot
And the dear old school
In that bonny, bonny spot.

Oh, the tasks are hard,
And the days are long,
But we conquer all
With a cheering song,
And the G. N. S.,
Whate'er her lot,
Will be loved for aye
In that bonny, bonny spot.

There's a bonny, bonny spot
Where the green and white
Proudly waves on high
As a beacon light.
May our lives be as true
As its meaning has taught,
While we work and sing
In this bonny, bonny spot.

Oh, the tasks are hard,
And the days are long,
But we conquer all
With a cheering song,
And the G. N. S.,
Whate'er her lot,
Will be loved for aye
In that bonny, bonny spot.

FAIREST NORMAL

We rise, Fairest Normal, thy spirit to show—
And to honor the trust that we bear ;
'Tis a trust that on others we'll only bestow
When duty shall call us elsewhere.
But a place in our lives thou hast won evermore,
Thru the years that are passing apace,
And when we from thy portals the future explore,
We've a picture that naught can efface.

Thy green showest life in its spring at the morn
Ere our brows have been wrinkled with care,
But full more shall it mean as the years shall adorn
The calling for which we prepare,
And thy white is a symbol of purity born
With a vision of lofty ideals ;
May youth's purity last and be never withdrawn,
When the future its secret reveals.

Then hail, Fairest Normal, once more do we sing,
For we know that youth speedeth away ;
Let us love thee today, take the tribute we bring,
Attempting in vain to repay ;
As thy daughters and sons we'll be brave and be true,
Thy traditions we'll keep and defend,
Take our pledge of allegiance which now we renew,
May thy prestige all classes transcend.

Louis Burton Woodward.

Dear Anna, —

You've been a great neighbor this year and I so glad we're going to be more than neighbors next year.
We'll get along fine and have the cult room, won't we? When
I told Aunt Lu she was awfully glad about it.

Remember the day about two weeks ago you came in and talked with me? You don't realize how much better I felt after that because I knew that you understood and didn't think I was wholly in the wrong was "bad," like so many people did at that time. I want to thank you for doing my shopping for me, too, since I've been serving my sentence.

We've had a lot of good times this year, the day
we, four went to the Library and then stopped in to Parker's for a piece of pie — but we're going to have lots more coming. I remember that day so well.

Probably, I'll be down to Gardiner this summer and I'll surely drop in to bother you for a while, but in the meantime you must write to me 'cause I want to hear every little thing you're doing. —

Love

from

Burnie

To my dear roommate,
 Anna, dear, there
 isn't words to express
 what a great time I
 have had this year rooming with you. I suppose we can I'll never forget how glad you were to me when I was ill at L. K. S.
 I hope you enjoy next year at Durham
 and be sure to come out home any week-end
 you want to - just telephone, bring you back.
 I'll come after you and of course, like May Ball
 the certainly had a great time at the Chemist's and Plymouth?
 following day, didn't we?? Do we like Chemist's and Plymouth?
 I know you will be a very successful President, dear you are such a capable girl. I'm wishing you just the happiest future - you certainly deserve it. Never forget the happy hours in Robin Hg and write often!!
 to say "Lights - Out" Please.
 Be sure
 Lots of Love,
 Always your girl,
 Helen

Dear Anna G.
 Haven't we had peachy times this winter. Now that it is time to go home, I think of all the good times
 we've had. Oh well we will be back again only too soon, and although
 I'm not your roommate, I hope we can be together just as much and still be pals. Don't forget you've simply got to come up this summer. I hope you learn when you grow older, not to say things
 so loud until you've picked around the corner to see if Nell's coming.
 Be sure to take care of your eyebrows
 this summer.

Keep of Love
 'Dell'
