There is a good and commodious stable in connection with the house—always furnished with the best of hay, provender and hostlers.

Life Insurance.

THE subscribers are agents for the MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY of N.Y.

The advantage of such insurance to the individual—to his family, and to the community are obvious. Any individual by the investment of a few dollars may lay a foundation for advantage to himself while living, and at death be the means of great relief and comfort to surviving parents, family or friends who might otherwise be left in a state of destitution and poverty.

The Company is a saving institution of the best kind. Where could a professional gentleman, for instance, a Clergyman of 25 years of age, make so good an investment of $20 annually, as by getting a Policy with this Company for $1000 on his life.

To illustrate the advantages of the Mutual plan of Life Insurance, we cite a case from the "Equitable Society of London," viz: An insurance in the sum of $5000 of 34 years' continuance, commencing at the age of 25, and terminate at 59; the accumulated profits thereon, gave to it, $11,250—making with the sum insured, a total amount of $16,250, payable to the survivors—more than three times the insurance.

Any person not having requisite funds to pay the annual premium, may have a relative or friend who would be willing to advance the small sum of $20 per annum by having the Life Policy assigned to him with an obligation that the amount advanced (with interest) shall be paid on the death of the insured.

There are many CLERGYMEN and others who are availing themselves of the advantages presented by this institution.

The terms of insurance are as favorable as those of any similar institution in the U States.

The whole net profits of the business of THIS COMPANY will be divided among the insured in proportion to the amount of premium paid by them.

This is not the case in the Life Insurance Offices in Boston, as their charters provide that ⅓ of their nett profits shall be paid over to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

More ample information of the mode and terms of insurance can be obtained by calling on the subscribers. There is so much about the matter that commends it at once to the good sense of all those, we need only invite particular attention to the above statements.
