New Brunswick to include gays and lesbians

Provincial government expands the definition of “common-law spouse”

The New Brunswick government has expanded the definition of “common-law spouse” to include same-sex couples.

This gives gays and lesbians who work for the province access to health and dental plans, life insurance, and pension benefits for their spouses. (Text of government memo below)

Member of the Legislative Assembly (MLA) Brent Taylor from the Confederation of Regions party (CoR) called this a “further invasion of what is appropriately considered a family unit. The government is officially sanctioning what is considered by many to be an unacceptable practice.” The changes fall in line with amendments to the provincial Human Rights Act passed by the legislature in May, 1992 which bar discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. CoR opposed those changes, saying they went against the moral code of the majority of New Brunswickers. The Liberal Party, which controls the legislature, has been making these changes.

Provincial New Democratic Party leader Elizabeth Weir, who has campaigned strongly against sexual discrimination, said she can’t understand what the fuss is about. The protection of families in any form is a laudable goal, she said, and MLAs should have more important matters to debate in the legislature. “My advice to the official opposition is to haul themselves out of the mud and leave the dinosaur days behind.”

Lesbian makes her presence known

Senator Addresses Unitarians and Teens

Aroostook County got a double whammy from Maine’s most prominent lesbian politician, Senator Dale McCormick. Tuesday evening, May 30, she spoke to members of the congregation of the Caribou Unitarian-Universalist Church to discuss L.D.246, “An Act to Prevent Discrimination”. About 30 people, including about 10 “Lambs”, were in attendance to hear the Monmouth Democrat answer questions about the need for the civil rights bill, its chances of passage, and the history of the effort of Maine’s lesbian-gay-bi community to gain our civil rights. She also gave a brief oral biography of her life as teacher/carpenter-turned-politician.

The following morning she presented a keynote address to an overflow crowd of teenagers from throughout the County at the annual Teen Conference, sponsored by the Aroostook County Action Program’s Family Planning/Adolescent Health office. Several weeks of publicity about the Senator’s presence at the conference continued inside...
Non-Discrimination Law Passes Maine Legislature

As of April 18, the final vote in the Maine House was 71-58 to amend the Maine Human Rights Act to protect persons from discrimination in housing, employment, credit and public accommodation based upon their sexual orientation. The Senate, in the first of two votes, passed the bill 21-14; a second and final vote in the Senate will be held after their April recess.

Senator Speaks

preceded her 40-minute address on "self-esteem". Some school systems, including Hodgdon and Madawaska, refused to provide transportation for those students who had registered to attend. Several area Baptist ministers made statements to the press about the inappropriateness of a lesbian speaking to teenagers, fearing the promotion of homosexuality. There was so much negative feedback that those students who had registered to attend. There was so much negative feedback that those students who had registered to attend.

Despite the protests of a few, the Senator's presentation received positive reviews from the students, many of whom remarked that they didn't see what all the fuss was about.

Of the 15 members of the Aroostook delegation, those voting yes were Senator Judy Paradis (representing Fort Kent/Madawaska/Van Buren/New Sweden), and Representatives Hilda Martin (Van Buren/New Sweden), Elizabeth Pinette (Frenchville), and Speaker of the House John Martin (Eagle Lake), all Democrats. Rep. Douglas Ahearne, Democrat from Madawaska, voted no along with the eight County Republicans.

Governor John McKernan again threatened to veto the bill unless a referendum amendment is attached. This is the same threat he used two years ago, when the legislature failed to pass the bill. This time, however, the House has rejected the addition of any referendum amendment, and after their recess the Senate may do the same. The bill will then go to the governor where he may sign it, veto it, or let it become law after 10 days without his signature.

Symposium XX - $$ is available

If any Northern Lambda Nord members have thought of going to the Maine Lesbian & Gaymen's Symposium XX near Waterville May 28-31 but have hesitated because of financial reasons, NLN has money to help finance your registration fees. This money was set aside after last year's Lambda-hosted Symposium XIX, specifically for this purpose.

If you wish to take advantage of this fund, contact Lambda by May 8. On May 9 the balance of the money will be made available to non-Lambs needing assistance. Please send your request to POB 990, Caribou 04736 and state how much funding you need.

Aroostook Legislators Meet with NLN

For two hours Saturday, April 3, two Republican members of the Aroostook legislative delegation, Rep. Jim Donnelly (Presque Isle) and Rep. Julie-Marie Robichaud (Caribou) discussed L.D. 246, “An Act to Prevent Discrimination” with 10 members of Northern Lambda Nord. The group sat informally in a circle, drinking coffee and tea and eating the sandwiches provided by the Caribou Motor Inn, and discussed the pressing need for non-discrimination protection for gays and lesbians in Maine. One man accounted the incident of Irving Oil's refusal to give him credit because he was gay. A woman told of a time at a restaurant when she and her female companion were repeatedly passed over to be seated. Job losses and other personal accounts of discrimination were also discussed. The lawmakers expressed their concerns, their willingness to listen, and appeared to be supportive of the legislation.

When the bill came up for a vote, however, both Donnelly and Robichaud failed to support it.
Women Helping Women II

In the last issue of Communique, a call went out to women to volunteer to receive referrals from the Phoneline on a Wednesday evening. If a woman who calls the Phoneline wishes to talk with another woman, you would be called and given the caller's number so you can call her back; your number would never be given out. At the beginning of each Phoneline session (Wednesdays, 7pm Maine time/8pm New Brunswick time), the women on the Phoneline list would be contacted to see if they are available that evening.

So far, four women have volunteered to receive referrals - women from Presque Isle, Fort Fairfield, and Edmundston. We need a larger pool of volunteers from which to draw! If you can help, call Roger at the Phoneline Wednesday evening. ▼
